Thread: Lets cut the SH*T. REAL monetizing methods TRIED and TESTED by YOU.

Joey Pirtz - August 11, 2014, 4:29 am

So I have been away from the forum for a while. I come back and see the same goddamn SH*T happening in the monetizing section.

"Make $300/day using this method. Cannot be saturated. Guaranteed or money back"

YAWNFEEST! Lets have some home truths. The only people making money from paid ebooks are the ebook sellers. And after paying for the advertising, spending the time to write the ebook then dealing with all the whining customers who are making jack shit, its not worth it. ANYBODY can write a crock of shit ebook, get a handful of members to vouch then sit back and make a few hundred bucks. A FEW HUNDRED BUCKS IS F*CK ALL. Trust me, I know folk buying Ferrari's with money they make online and they'd rather stick their balls in a beartrap then tell you how they are doing it. They WILL NOT be telling you in a $50 ebook.

We want to know the methods YOU, PERSONALLY, have actually tried, however simple or sophisticated and whether they worked or not.

If people post HONEST information on this thread it might actually turn out to be a treasure trove of innovation and ideas.

If you post a load of BULLSH*T saying you made X amount of cash and to buy your ebook/method without any backstory or evidence whatsoever, I'm gonna go straight to your sales thread (or worse) and write "BULLSH*TTER" along with a link to your post on this thread. SPAM your sh*t elsewhere. And trust me, I have been doing this a long time and can sniff out a liar like a fart in an elevator. Downright COMMON SENSE and EXPERIENCE will tell us whether or not you made any money from your method, not photoshopped paypal screendumps.

Ok. Now that's over with I will graciously go first with a couple of stories. I suggest we structure the posts as thus:

1. The Method
2. Did it work
3. If not, in your opinion, why did it fail

Method 1.

Lost in Translation

Some time ago I met a guy on here through a currency exchange deal called Strider. Naturally we started talking and it came up that I had a bit of experience with coding wordpress plugins. Strider enjoyed fishing through several monetizing forums and picking up plugins. It therefore fell into place that he would send the more interesting snippets he found over to me to verify they did indeed do what they said and that they functioned with the latest versions of wordpress. A few of them piqued my interest and I formulated a plan on exactly how they could be combined to be monetized. Here is what I did:

I registered 6 domain names with TLD suffixes for different countries.
I got some reseller hosting, created 6 different wordpress installations and updated the nameservers.
I installed a plugin that would pull the stories from any RSS feed indicated.
I installed a plugin that would alter certain words and restructure the grammar of the story.
I installed a plugin that would run the story through google translate to match the story to the language of the TLD country.
This would then be posted on the site. The scripts would do this automatically about 10 times an hour.

Naturally, to get fresh content that traffic was looking for, I used news RSS feeds. The result was technically unique content in 6 different languages.

DID IT WORK?

Yes, for a short period of time. I ran the 6 sites for 6 weeks and the traffic was growing exponentially. The Japanese site was extremely popular and received almost the same amount of traffic as the remaining 5 sites. On the day that Steve Jobs died, the news was pulled and posted on to my sites and I made over £60 ($100) in one day, doing absolutely nothing, purely through genuine adsense clicks. Were the sites still running, I would probably now be driving a Ferrari (When I wasn't in my Lamborghini).

SO WHAT HAPPENED?

PANDA. This was done a few years ago when Google started gearing up their quality control. Although Google couldn't really call the sites LQ (as of course it would mean accepting that their translate app was poor), they stated that the functioning of the sites violated their Translate service TOS. I have no doubt in my mind that had this been running a few years before, I would have made a sh*t load of cash from this method before Google terminated my adsense account. Sh*t Happens.

Method 2. The Break In

I was reading around the forum some time ago and formulated an idea based on several popular topics in discussion. The idea revolved around driving traffic through a survey gateway to unlock access to a website. Obviously the money was generated by the completed surveys. The trick was locking a website people were eager to access and matching the desires of the traffic to the site. So here is what I did:

I decided it would probably be best to target younger internet users as they would be more likely to complete the surveys. So I created two websites. The first was a fully functioning mockup of a celebrity agents website. This is a website that holds the contact information of a wide variety of celebrities and they are used by agents to contact known persons with job offers (These sites do actually exist). I hosted it on simple onshore hosting and it looked pretty kosher, even if I do say so myself.

The second website was a simple deface page. The page claimed to belong to a renowned hacker group claiming to have hacked into the celebrity database. The page contained several "proofs" backed up with "evidence" and obviously the survey portal to the members only section of the celebrity site.

But wait, there's more. . . . Such a break in would be high profile and a simple cursory internet search should corroborate the event, right? One of the methods I had championed myself in gaining backlinks was a way of writing a few articles and submitting them to 20 or so syndicated news sites. I called it the PR Backlink Method. It takes about 2 hours to do it properly but the stories get syndicated to over a million sites in less than four weeks. Naturally, I wrote articles about the break in and spammed the net with news myself. If you typed the unique names of either the celebrity database or deface page in google you would get page after page of results corroborating the event and linking back to the deface page.

So now that's set, what about the traffic?

This was the era when SpK was selling his YouTube botting wares (Its was decent sh*t at the time I might add). Naturally I purchased the software and got some YT accounts. I then created comments on popular music vids (Justin Bieber and the like) pointing out the break in and thumbed up the comments with the accounts. (This was nowhere near as widespread when I was doing this as it is now). The result, younger internet users checking the net to validate the story, then completing the surveys.

DID IT WORK?

Yes, for a short period of time. People did the surveys and I cashed in.

SO WHAT HAPPENED?

This was a dark time for getting YT accounts. Folk were selling YT accounts to one person and then reselling exactly the same accounts to several other people. This resulted in them lasting maybe a day if you were lucky before they were deleted by YT, AND they were LQ accounts at that. People on here were also scamming the f*ck out of other users over the YT accounts. Charging and not delivering on the accounts. One member tried this on me and scammed me for $20 or so. Given that I have been doing this shit for a LOOOONNNGGG time I found him online IRL in less than an hour and decided to be the bigger person after discovering his young age and leave it be. Had he tried this with some of the other experienced members of this forum he would probably have been explaining to his parents why people were paying for their Monte Carlo poolside Pina Coladas with his parents card details. YT was also getting wise and removing the accounts faster and faster. As such, it became more costly to obtain the accounts than what was being made by the surveys and the method became unprofitable.

I have more methods I have used which I shall add when more people contribute to this thread. Now its your turn. REAL STORIES. NO BULLSH*T.

OBlivION - August 11, 2014, 5:59 am

"can sniff out a liar like a fart in an elevator. " - hehe, made me chuckle.

But in all seriousness... I tried clickbank and youtube at one point in time. I was reading a journey thread on BHW, and it re-sparked my interest in clickbank a year ago. I've known about it for a while, but never really tried it because when I went to sign up, they asked for my address and shit. At that time I was just looking for quick signup sites, that would rake in some decent cash. (Stupid, i know.)

Fast forward a bit. I gave it a try. Did some keyword research which I thought was good, and made a video which I also thought was good. Boy was I wrong. It was my first try at Video Marketing and SEO. Naturally, I got a lot of shit wrong. Keyword research, the actual video (script writing and shit), Backlinks and SEO, etc. So I ended up deleting the video and trying again.

I made my first REAL video this time, that actually brought in sales. Re-worked my script, and hired someone on fiverr to act it out for me. Much better than recording your voice with a shitty mic, and having a powerpoint slideshow, trust me. The main thing I didnt know before I got started, was script writing. Its the most important part when doing Video Marketing and Clickbank. No matter how good of keywords you got, if your video is shit, it WILL NOT convert. So before I even made my video, I spunt a good amount of time re-doing and writing my script. Made 3 different versions of it, before I went ahead and bought the fiverr gig.

Uploaded it, made my description, etc, all the good on page seo shit. Bought some views, likes, subs, etc. Then afterwords, I did offpage seo. Backlinks and shit. Link Pyramids, Blog Posts, Web 2.0s, the usual shit to rank a video on google. After about a week, I was ranking for my keywords, and made some money. Ended up making $140 the first day I got sales (But that was because I bought views and surprisingly they converted a bit [which never really happens when buying views]). Fast forward a little bit, and things were going good. Made a sale or two here and there.

Made another video, and got that one uploaded as well. Ended up making around $200 a month. Little more, little less here and there, but hey I was banking with only 2 videos.

So what happened?

Well, around the time I decided to make a 3rd video. I noticed my first video was dropping in the rankings both on youtube and google. So i decided to give it a kick start and buy some views. Big mistake. At that same time, yt updated their shit, and that video got removed. So did my 3rd video when I bought views for it as well. My 2nd video wasnt performing as good as my first, so I'm not making much money right now.

(Recent Earnings, and first payment proofs)

The fact that youtube is targeting view sellers, means that its getting even more risky to buy views. Keep in mind, this all happened to me earlier this year, and late last year. But does that mean I quit? No. I'm gonna get back into Video Marketing after I get some shit worked out. But yea. Theres a good solid method/story for yah.

EDIT: I earned over $2K with clickbank since I started last September, and really once I got the videos up and ranked, it was all auto-pilot. Besides a little management here and there (removing bad comments, buying more backlinks here and there, etc). But wheres that money now? Gone. Reminder for all IM's: Spend what you need to spend to get yourself further in progress, and save the rest of the paycheck. (Or save 70%, spend 30%)

Darkwin - August 11, 2014, 6:00 am

Damn my niggah you certainly went out of your way in this one, Very detailed!

Joey Pirtz - August 11, 2014, 6:48 am

@Oblivion

First of all, I'd like to thank you for doing the almost unspeakable thing of posting a GENUINE monetizing experience in the monetizing section.

Seems like your story is similar to a lot of my stories. Putting in hard graft to achieve results is only worth it if the cash continues to flow in. A lot of methods work initially until they get noticed by whomever is providing your traffic/cash, at which point they pull the plug and you have put a few weeks effort in for maybe only a few weeks of cash. When you go back and work it out you have earned very little for your time.

I bought an eBook on here about drop shipping that claimed you could make $11k a month by drop shipping on eBay, but the seller mislead all his buyers and only showed the sales amount, not the actual PURE profits. The thing is with drop shipping, the listing fees bite you in the ass and drop your pure profits to PENNIES, when you think you'll be making $10 or $15 extra on a sale. The only way to make a decent amount of money on there, if by going BIG, and you have to have deep pockets for that, because also, your funds aren't available immediately until you are an Above Average Seller or Top Seller, and it takes 3+ months and a certain amount of sales to make it to that point. It's not worth the work for those small profits.

When it got time to selling, there were Way too many people doing the exact same thing as I was. After a while on HF you learn a lot, and I learned to never buy eBooks anymore and exactly as everyone says "why share your supposive gold mine" for a measly $30

But anyways, right now, I'm working with CPALead and CrakRevenue, I'm going to seriously start grinding tomorrow morning

Yer, I don't know ANYONE who has made ANYTHING from drop shipping.

CUTTING THE SH*T ONCE AGAIN, HERE IS HOW ALL EBOOKS LAND ON HF.

1. People think "F*ck, I've bought all these ebooks and made f*ck all from the methods inside them.

Looking back, the only people who made money is the people who sold me the ebooks. I know what I'll do. I'll outline the methods I've bought in another ebook, take out some advertising and sell it to the next schmuck that comes along."

OR

2. People think "F*ck, I've tried all these ebooks and the methods are about as useful as a condom machine at a Cliff Richard concert. I might as well do the old 'PM me and I'll send you this awesome method' malarky and will probably get some +rep."

I can tell you now, any money I have made online has been through the number 2's. They send out the method thinking it is useless, which in its current form it is. But they have overlooked a different way it could be run, or something new comes out and reinvigorates the method and there is lots of money to be made.

SOME COME ON, SHARE YOUR OLD STORIES. MAYBE WE CAN GIVE YOU SOME IDEAS.

Thanks "53M4PH0R3" for starting this Thread

My method is very simple

"Buy from amazon and sell on ebay"

I got sell around "500$ in 3 days".But the fuck is happens,everyone know that ebay hold payment until item delivery confirmation====I completely fucked because i don't have advance money for that

Conclusion:If anyone have much money,they can try the method.its makes decent amount of money

Sorry for bad English

I remember back in the day when eBaY was actually good. In its initial incarnation it was a great way to get an extra income. High street and small businesses that were struggling were completely turned around by starting eBaY stores and selling their goods online with little effort.

But it has gone like everything else. A listing fee + 10% commission is downright ridiculous. Take it from someone who was involved in the upper echelons of the retail industry for a few years. If you walk in to a consumer electronics high street retailer, the average margin on anything you pick up off the shelves is 19%. They have to pay rent, business rates, staff wages, storage, logisitcs eBaY pays f*ck all and gets nearly the same percentage.

Paypal was the same. It was awesome when it first started then it went like everything else. All the crims seeped out of the woodworks and tried f*cking paypal over. Whatever paypal tells you, independent research shows that 1 in 10 card transactions run through paypal are fraudulent. That's an insane statistic. So what does paypal do? Increase its fees on its normal rule abiding users to account for the money it loses in chargebacks.

When eBay and paypal joined it just created one giant f*cked up mess. Unless you're some kind of mass distributor of goods/services, eBay just isn't really a viable option to profit anymore.

Hitleap King's Money Making Ebook:

Did it work?:

Yes it works, it's an unique Ebook that no one has ever seen. It is unsaturable and it includes online and offline work. You are the "boss" of your own so you can choose how much you make and when you make it.

Before anyone starts to complain about this post, please check the thread and the Ebook out.

Before anyone starts to complain about this post, please check the thread and the Ebook out. I have some questions for you:

To put this in to some kind of perspective, I have a PhD in Electrical & Electronic Engineering (I'll leave this to your imagination how much I actually make IRL (TIP: it's f*cking a lot)).

Your sales thread states that for one hour's work I can make $100, $200 a week. Is this literally one hour per week or one hour per day?

It says that I have to do something with my hands? Not being facetious in anyway, who are you aiming your method at? Is this a method for people who are too young to get a job? Even working minimum wage here you can make $450 a week sat on your arse talking to people on the phone.

Did you make $200 a week with only 1 hour of your time? Can you prove it?

$15.99 is f*ck all to me. Are you so confident that this is achievable by anyone that if I agree to purchase your ebook and try your method myself that I will make $200 and be able to prove it on this very thread? Please bear in mind you are speaking to someone who has read over a thousand ebooks. Are you even confident I haven't read your method before somewhere else?

I read tons of ebooks concerning manual advertising, middle-manning etc. Does your method include this or any particular level of skill?

I'm 99% sure you never seen this Ebook before, why I only ask $15.99? People don't want to spend $30 on an Ebook and because it's unsaturable it doesn't affect me in any way. So I make some cash of the sales and invest that in the methode. You are your own "boss" so you can choise how much money you make. I can make atleast $100 a week using this methode with only 15-30 minutes of work with my hands. This can be considerd as an hobby and can be done whenever you want to do it.

So true to my word I just splashed out the WHOPPING $15.99 for your 6 page ebook (should have been called eParagraph because the writing could have fit onto a single page). Here is my review.

ARE YOU FOR F*CKING REAL?

I could write a thousand and one ebooks just like your ebook pointing out a thousand and one items you could try this with, NONE OF THEM MAKING ANY KIND OF PROFIT WHATSOEVER. People who are fully qualified to do what you are suggesting TRY and FAIL TO MAKE A LIVING FROM IT.

I have a PhD in Electrical & Electronic Engineering and the charging socket once went on my laptop. The part was £12 and was a simple fix. Did I do it myself? FUCK NO. I walked to the nearest computer shop and coughed up £40 for them to fix it. You know why? Coz if they F*CK it up they're insured. If I get knocked with my soldering iron and make contact with the motherboard or a million and one other things that can go wrong I'm out a £1000 laptop.

There are so many things that could go wrong with your method that only a f*cking idiot would even attempt it.

The only person who is ever going to make money from your ebook is you. YOU are one of the reasons NOBODY is making any money from the HF Monetizing Section and as such I'm calling B*LLSHITER.

Tell me, seen as your making $100 with only your hands in 15-30 minutes, I can point out items with much higher margins. If I point them out in a 6 page ebook will you cough up back my $15.99 for it?

Be honest with me now . . . Are you 12?

1: It all depends on how fast you can work. On my thread it also says "This is not auto-pilot and the profit all depends on you" I can do it in about 15-30 minutes which leaves me with a profit of around $150. The more money you invest the more you will have to work the more profit you will have. This is no hard work and pretty easy ;)

2: My methode is for everyone, like I said it's an hobby were you can make a decent amount of money with.

3: Yes I made around $200 with only 30 minutes of work, I cannot show you proof but you can't understand that until you read the Ebook because the money was paid in cash.

4: It involves a little bit of skills but there are tutorials for that.

5: I've had my first sale about an hour ago so I'm waiting on the customers. This is pretty hard to explain if you don't read the ebook.

I could write a thousand and one ebooks just like your ebook pointing out a thousand and one items you could try this with, NONE OF THEM MAKING ANY KIND OF PROFIT WHATSOEVER. People who are fully qualified to do what you are suggesting TRY and FAIL TO MAKE A LIVING FROM IT.

I have a PhD in Electrical & Electronic Engineering and the charging socket once went on my laptop. The part was £12 and was a simple fix. Did I do it myself? FUCK NO. I walked to the nearest computer shop and coughed up £40 for them to fix it. You know why? Coz if they F*CK it up they're insured. If I get knocked with my soldering iron and make contact with the motherboard or a million and one other things that can go wrong I'm out a £1000 laptop.

There are so many things that could go wrong with your method that only a f*cking idiot would even attempt it.

The only person who is ever going to make money from your ebook is you. YOU are one of the reasons NOBODY is making any money from the HF Monetizing Section and as such I'm calling B*LLSHITER.

Tell me, seen as your making $100 with only your hands in 15-30 minutes, I can point out items with much higher margins. If I point them out in a 6 page ebook will you cough up back my $15.99 for it?

Be honest with me now . . . Are you 12?

Why are you talking about laptops? Laptops are pretty hard to fix so I don't know why you are mentioning that.

No where did I mention in my ebook anything about soldering, there is nearly nothing that could go wrong. You didn't even try it so why are you complaining?

I know a few guys (IRL) that didn't know nothing about it and they never fucked up anything because you have to search for the right one like I mentioned in my Ebook.

1. The Method

Got some facebook accounts, went to stellar website and registered on tor with each facebook account, and each time you register, you get stellars and you then exchange them for bitcoins.

2. Did it work

Like a charm I made 20$ in a couple of minutes :D, and I still can, but believe me or not i'm really lazy.

(Aug 12, 2014 09:17 AM)Hitleap King Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Why are you talking about computers?

Computers will not earn you that amount...

I used to know someone who bought pallets full of electrical returns from catalog retailers. He got the pallets cheap enough that the sh*t that didn't work he just threw away. The sh*t that he plugged in and they functioned he took to markets and sold them. The profit he made from a single pallet was enough pay for three adults a two week holiday abroad.

That was 15 years ago. You couldn't do the same thing today. I know . . . I worked in a returns dept for one of the largest electronics retailers in the UK for 2 years and was tasked with testing all of the items that were returned.

There are countless shops in my area where you can take your shit to get repaired. They do exactly what you say in your ebook and charge you the cost of parts plus a labor charge of maybe £15. They accept such a low amount because they have mitigated the risk of the item being faulty other than what you have specified. They agree to fit the part, after that it's your responsibility. If it works it works, if it doesn't they don't care, they already have your money and delivered what they said.

People online who try to sell faulty equipment, telling you "The only thing wrong with this item is xyz" are generally full of sh*t. How do they even know that's the only thing wrong with it? If they were good enough to give that estimation they'd be good enough to fix it themselves.

If you do what you say in your ebook and either of the people you are buying from are misrepresenting what they're selling in the slightest, you're out a large amount of cash and there is nothing you can do about it because you can't prove the damage wasn't caused by yourself until you have finished.

So let's go back to my original questions and give the REAL answers we have determined in the past 2 hours.

HAVE I COME ACROSS THIS METHOD BEFORE: I have just told you i knew someone 15 years doing what your ebook says (albeit in one form or another) AND I have told you that they can no longer do it because there is no money in it.

HAVE YOU MADE ANY MONEY FROM IT: You said YES. THEN you said you had just made your first sale and were looking for other customers. How can you guarantee the profit you stated when you, yourself, have made but a single sale?

You also said your method is unsaturatable. If everyone was trying to do it, they couldn't make any money from it as they would be competing with everyone else trying to do it. By its very definition, that's a saturatable method.

The only way you could make anything with what you have said is if you have some kind of contract with a retailer who can guarantee what you are receiving is of a repairable quality.

Trust me, I am THE MOST qualified person on this forum to pass judgement on what I read in your ebook and it wont work. It'll be more trouble than its worth. AND the people on here looking to monetize are not looking to, nor are they qualified to do what you ebook is asking them to do.

NOW. BEFORE THIS THREAD GETS DRAGGED INTO THE GUTTER. LEAVE IT THERE AND LETS GET BACK TO YOUR HQ EXPERIENCES WITH ONLINE MONETIZING.

I'm only talking about a specific item in the ebook that you have to repair, nothing else. I just said that some people I know IRL have never done anything like this before and always end up with a nice profit. So it does not require any skills whatsoever. Did I fuck up the first time I did this? Not at all, how much do I make from one fix? About $150 - $200.

We used to have a saying on this forum a long time ago. Goes like this. Prove it or it didn't happen.

BACK TO THE ACTUAL THREAD

There are people on this forum who have made a shit load of money from various different monetizing methods who I have met over the years I have been here.

I'm gonna throw caution to the wind and drop some names in the hope that I can provoke them into giving maybe a little overview of how they did what they did.

These are two people who made money by aiding people to make money:

RadarX: I don't know whether RadarX is still on here or what happened to him. The last time I spoke to him he was making quite a bit of cash. Of course, Radar created FI. I can see FI is still live but haven't followed the fortunes of the of venture for some time. If one of you know him give him a poke to the thread.

The second I have already mentioned:

SpK: Created some of the finest botting software I have ever used. I heard through various whispers he was contacted by YouTube to bot VEVO vids and made a pretty penny selling botting services.

<http://readwrite.com/2013/01/28/youtube-bot-vevo-videos-lady-gaga-spk>

I'll see if I can get him over here.

If you know any other success stories forward them over.

OK, I'll go ahead with another method I tried with some success:

Method 3.

The Ad Jack

During my time getting wordpress plugins from Strider, I was sent a simple stock plugin that automated the placement of adsense ads on wordpress installations. It was pretty simple. You installed the plugin then were presented with a simple form to enter your adsense ID number and dictate where you wanted the ads to appear and what size ads you wanted.

On the back end, the adsense ID was pulled as a variable from the settings stored in the database gathered from the user by the aforementioned configuration form. The plugin itself was a bit amateur so I thought I would update it. This I did. But decided I would add in a new feature.

This feature used a psuedo-random number generator to exchange the user entered adsense ID with my adsense ID for a small percentage of the page views. (<=5%) ?

Think about it. If folk were installing a plugin just to place adsense ads on their blogs :-

1. They didn't know how to code, its the simplest html that even google makes every effort to provide you. The difficulty is in finding where you place the code within the wordpress installation to get the ad placing right on the different types of wordpress pages.

2. Chances are they had just got adsense and had no idea how many impressions/clicks they were going to get AND THUS, were unlikely to notice $\leq 5\%$ of their impressions/clicks were going astray.

3. Even if they looked at the source code once run, they only had a 1 in 20 chance of catching the wrong adsense ID in action. Most people after a new installation check everything is working, then once they are satisfied are unlikely to quibble if they have proven to themselves it was functioning correctly originally.

20 plugin installations and you were making the same amount as a full blog without anyone being the wiser

Naturally I put this addition into the small print terms and conditions of the plugin. You know, the kind that everyone reads . . . ?

DID IT WORK?

Yes, for a short period of time.

WHAT HAPPENED?

Unfortunately, my adsense account was terminated in the mean time through method 1. I am convinced that these days this method would not work. Google would notice that a small fraction of your traffic was being run through another adsense account and probably inform you.

Know a platform where the ad placing is automated via code? This method will probably work somewhere else, just no longer with adsense and wordpress.

INB4 "YOU CRAFTY B*STARD". I WANT SOME OF YOUR STORIES NOW MOFO'S.

Thanks for the post.

No. This thread is for people to post the methods they tried, whether they failed or not. The three methods I have personally posted on the thread were cobbled together from other people posting ideas and stories for things that they had downloaded/tried and hadn't worked for them. Yet even though they hadn't worked for them, for a short period of time they made me money.

So how can that be?

Well the people before me couldn't code wordpress plugins and thus hadn't tried their methods with wordpress.

They couldn't create two falsified sites, link them through a survey gateway and back up the story over a million syndicated news sites. AND THEN bot the f*ck out of youtube comments to make the story seem legit to teenagers to generate the traffic.

What doesn't work for you doesn't mean it won't work for everyone. You just have to add your own expertise and spin on it.

The success stories aren't always related to folk who did something first. If they were I'd currently be updating my MySpace account through NetScape. They are always related to the folk who did something the best.

I correct you. You are wrong.

I'm asking people to post what they have tried to do to make money online.

Nothing more, nothing less.

The responsibility of where they obtained that information rests with the poster, not the thread creator.

I can only tell you my own views on this. Everyone else has a brain and can think for themselves.

If I bought an ebook and was making $100,000 per month from it, I wouldn't be posting it on here. I wouldn't even f*cking be here. I'd currently be drifting off a Caribbean island on my own private yacht licking strawberry yogurt off a models nipples.

If I paid out my hard earned cash to someone selling an ebook who guaranteed I was going to make lots of money and I was making jack sh*t because the method was dreamt up by the idling mind of a cretin and written down on the inside of a chocolate wrapper for safe keeping, I would be quite indifferent as to whether or not I violated their express permissions not to outline their method. In fact, the fact that such wishes are observed only goes to suck other people into purchasing the same rubbish.

During this entire thread I have already purchased one ebook, and whilst its efficacy is comparable to a whores blowjob for genital warts, I have not expressly violated anything by revealing the method.

INNOCENT UNTIL PROVEN GUILTY.

NOW WILL SOMEONE POST SOME GOD DAMN HQ MONETIZING STORIES PLEASE

This was all great except, as you can guess, this got saturated, really quick. I only make about $3 off netflix and $15 off every spotify account now. My guess is this one ebook called paypal monk was being sold. I purchased the ebook for $10 and I saw it had my exact same method being sold. Probably thanks to that guy, I'm not squeezing so much money out of each account.

False.

On another forum I visit here and there, a user is making $10K per month. She posted a journey thread, and updated it everytime she did something, noting everything she did. Is she still making that money now? Yes. And how? PPD/CPA. Viral Sites. Or in her case, one viral site.

2011 - eBay

Back when I was introduced to IM, I began selling on eBay. I would sell all sorts of virtual items varying from Steam Accounts to Software Downloads. In order to bypass the eBay T.o.S I would mail a letter to customers instructing them how to start installing the software, etc.

Made ~$2000 before eBay found out and decided to ban my account

Traffic source: eBay

Revenue stream: eBay2012 - PPD & PTC

Started with all the usual blackhat niches, such as fake keygens tools, game cheats, viral websites, free downloads etc. Made ~$1000 before I realized it was not worth my time.

Traffic source: YouTube

Revenue stream: Filelce & Adfly2013 - CPA & Affiliate Marketing

Here's where I made a real push with my IM skills. Understanding how content was made, on the final quarter of the year I made an extreme push to CPA & social media.

Made ~$5000+ - still use this till today.

Traffic source: Facebook, Tumblr, Twitter, Instagram, Pinterest

Revenue stream: Multiple CPA networks & affiliate vendors

This was all done whilst coping with a social life & education, if you want to find what works, simply experiment with what you already know, however approach it at a new angle.

Never tried the eBay route but know plenty who have and got no where. Fast.

I think most of us have tried the blackhat stuff and failed. I know one guy back in the day who used FI and was making quite a bit per month. He created a site listing monetizing ebooks that were all PPD. I can't just remember his name but he was from here. Problem was that most of his traffic was sourced from here and once they had the ebooks, they no longer needed to do his surveys.

My personal thought on surveys is that, if they are actually in front of something I want, I would rather do the survey then cough up a couple of dollars for the download. I'm in the position where i actually have the choice of course. Some people don't have the cash in the first place and therefore have no alternative other than to do the survey.

CPA / Affiliate marketing is definitely where it is at. I started a legit website about 4 years ago, did tons of work for it then took it offline a few months later to concentrate on studies. It was getting decent traffic back then. I always get the feeling that if I had continued with it I would be making a ton of cash from it today. I think most people on here are looking for a plan to get cash fast, rather than putting in continual effort and building for longevity.

Seriously considering a come back for my site and doing things properly. Get a new bank account and get adsense back. . . .

Nice to hear from you Daniel, should I get back into my legit site, I may contact you regarding Social Media marketing . . .

The thing is with drop shipping, the listing fees bite you in the ass and drop your pure profits to PENNIES, when you think you'll be making $10 or $15 extra on a sale. The only way to make a decent amount of money on there, if by going BIG, and you have to have deep pockets for that, because also, your funds aren't available immediately until you are an Above Average Seller or Top Seller, and it takes 3+ months and a certain amount of sales to make it to that point. It's not worth the work for those small profits.

When it got time to selling, there were Way too many people doing the exact same thing as I was. After a while on HF you learn a lot, and I learned to never buy eBooks anymore and exactly as everyone says "why share your supposive gold mine" for a measly $30

But anyways, right now, I'm working with CPALead and CrakRevenue, I'm going to seriously start grinding tomorrow morning

Drop shipping is possible to make money with not large amounts of money, you've just got to do it right, i do that myself at the minute, i have spoken to a couple of electrical wholesalers, have set my own site/ebay store up and i'm working on growing it to get to a reasonable size.

Three different authors, one is still here and is a massive EBook seller, one is closed and the other forgot.

What happened:

Book was about a shitty article writing guide to make money with article websites by basically plagiarising other peoples EBook and posting it on there.

Did it work?

No. You get banned for plag before you get paid and they're only looking for subjects absolutely nobody writes or looks into.

Curtains close, the method was absolutely terrible.

Book 2.

Book about getting an adfoc link or something like that and submitting it onto view websites that you spend several hours using to get points.

Did it work?

0.15$ in three days.

Didn't even think about wasting an entire month on it.

Book 3 about Sierra Echo - Engineering socially.

Gave me a cracked program and whole book was illegal activities.

Friend of mine who'd done this before stopped me.

Stopped looking at eBooks, started working; I'm a manager and I've been given the BMW X1.

I sold some baseball cards a friend didn't need anymore. He had like three boxes full, managed to get them appraised driving 20 miles to the country. One of them was genuinely autographed and I managed to make $2.5k of that and all those cards. Me and my family were living in debt so that's what I used the money for. To top it all off I was desperate for money so I was doing real deep blackhat shit on underground forums, made me $7k.(not saying to do it.) and wasting some money buying e-books on HF and some guaranteed to work pyramid schemes.

It's crazy how things given free to you and things around you are worth a pretty penny.

Advancing your IRL career should come before anything your trying to do with online monetizing. This is a really good point. Very few people actually make anywhere near enough to live off by monetizing online.

It's crazy how things given free to you and things around you are worth a pretty penny. This reminds me of a few methods I have read. There are some sites like freecycle where people are just looking to get rid of stuff for free. If you can drop on some decent stuff you can sell it on for a profit.

You would make a little cash from this. But its not scalable. There is only a small number of folk trying to get rid of stuff for free and plenty of wheeler dealers trying to get their grubby little mits on it.

The best methods are sophisticated or original. If everyone could do it they would be doing it.

Before I go on I'd like to point a few things out.

1. You can probably make a little cash eWhoring. Are you going to make any serious cash? probably not. It would involve fleecing someone else out of it and that increases your chances of getting caught.

2. There are techniques regarding providing services for cash. Gameservers/Web Hosting etc. Most Web hosters you find on here will probably tell you in the beginning its relatively easy cash. But once you have lots of users and sh*t starts going wrong its easily more trouble than its worth. Will you get rich from it? NO.

OK. My first thoughts on Magic's ebook.

1. Although I have read similar ebook's, his idea IS at least original. I haven't read this exact method anywhere else.

2. I have never used the service described in the ebook so can't comment on its efficacy.

3. I am actually in a really good position to try this method, given that I was a DJ for a long time.

This method might be extended to other services should they appear.

Not calling B*LLSHIT on this one because I honestly can't call whether or not it will work.

The fairest way to judge this is for me to actually try the method and report back. Something I shall be doing.

There are a few cracks I can see in the method. If you are getting paid per click, chances are you aren't getting paid a lot and I'm not convinced the traffic is there. If you are using PPD, you have to either:

A: Upload copyrighted material, which will see you getting banned.

OR

B: Not give the user exactly what they were expecting from the download, which will also see you getting banned.

Are you gonna get rich from Magic's method? No. Does it generate some cash? Probably

OK. I just spent 2 hours setting up Magic's method. Time will tell if it works or not.

In the mean time LETS GET SOME HQ SHIT GOING DOWN

CatDoge™ - August 13, 2014, 1:51 pm

OP asked how I made my 1550€ in one month :)

It's quite simple. Once there was a User here on HF selling Spotify Premium Codes! I bought a lot of codes from him and sold them as accounts on eBay. I started to sell for 30€ and then went up to 45€.

Since I boughz a lot of him he always gave me a dicount and I made pretty descent money!

But for my fucking luck I got scammed for over 600€.. here on HF and partially on HF.

Now I am still selling accounts for 50€ but the method that the user used is fixed by Spotify so I wont sell them anymore when mine are all used.

Yep thats my method. Pretty simple but also sad :(

At the moment I try to make some money from my pornsite^^ and I am building a streaming site for tv shows in hd^^

Hope I can make some money out of Them

ACTUALLY the best method on how to get rich is quite simple!

1. Sign Up on Hackforums and be a HQ user. Post stuff, ask stuff, make friends, buy an account upgrade etc.

2. Gain Reputation

3. Buy one physical item. (sth. that cant be banned but is still expensive) for example: graphic cards, cpus, etc.

4. Now make a thread in the forums' marketplace and sell this item 10%-20% discount. Say you got 20 because you bought them in bulk. People will buy this stuff because its cheap. The first one will get his item, the other one will be scammed^^.

5. You made a lot of money.

OR even better!!

Instead of selling items, just offer currency exchange. At first be nice etc. and if anyone wants to exchange big money scam them^^

Both happened to me and both worked! So actually go try it yourself^^ lol these bitches who scammed made a lot of money and I dont even had a chance to get my money back.

(thats just fun lolololololololo (the first thing^^ but i actually really got scammed)

Joey Pirtz - August 14, 2014, 2:14 am

@CatDoge

LOL. I like that fact that you just say whatever the f*ck you want. I'm not too convinced more scammers on HF is a good thing though. I kinda like this place and the main thing that ruins it are the scammers.

What you described is essentially the fundamentals of a Ponzi scheme.

For anyone who is unfamiliar with such, it proceeds thusly. You claim in some form or another to be able to make someone cash/profit.

In it simplest form, lets say you offer to take someones money and give them it back a few days later plus an extra 5%, guarenteed. One person trusts you and gives you the money. In the mean time, a second person also trusts you and gives you their money. You use the money from the second person to make up the 5% for the first person and give them their money back plus 5%.

Now the first person vouches that you delivered on your deal, and more people start giving you their money. You continue to take money from one person to make up the money you owe to other people until eventually, you are in possession of a HUGE amount of cash belonging to LOTS of people.

At this point you pull the plug and disappear with everyones cash.

I'm pointing this out to you so that you don't get stung by this method in one form or another. If something looks too good to be true, it almost always it.

This is the idea behind virtually ALL buxsites you see online. They build up their trusted user base then disappear with everyone's investment.

The only one I have come across which didn't do this was neobux, and neobux, 2 years in, cut its payments to its users who lost a SH*T LOAD of cash in order to continue operating.

@CatDoge - thanks for sharing your honest trading story.

MORE TRUE STORIES PLEASE.

iClick - August 14, 2014, 3:45 am

Alright fuckers, looks like this thread could be the shit if no other eBook sellers raid it, so let me shed some light.

First of all I'd like to thank the OP and others who have posted useful content in this thread. This is what a monetizing section of a forum should be about, not a place for eBook sellers and referral beggars.

Now, about eBook sellers:

I was both a seller and a buyer. You can guess which side made me money.

Buying eBooks on HF and many other forums is a waste of money. I think we all realize that by now. But once upon a time, I didn't. I bought quite some, and made nothing, literally. All of the threads were stylish, full of proof and praises, guarantees, etc. But still - nada. And that's the point of those threads, to get you to buy the product. After that, no one gives a shit, and because of it, you will forget about the eBook in a week. If you're stupid you'll buy another, if you learned your lesson, you won't.

I mean, just go to the Deal Dispute section and see how many threads are there about eBooks. Whether it's the method not working, no promised refund or help or something else. It's because the sellers don't give a shit about their users once they bought the eBook. They just go onto another batch of users and sell it to them.

And it's a GREAT business model. I mean, fuck, look at how many eBook sales threads are there each week. And most of them sell at least some. The ones that are sticky always have 20+ pages.

People are always complaining about the eBooks, but those same eBooks get sold each day. It's just what the HF users (mainly noobs) are used to, and it works. Partially because most of them are underage kinds just getting into IM, and partially because there's a steady stream of new users each day. So there's always a bigass customer base.

So we are getting to my first method.

Write an eBook. It can be total shit. Pay someone 15$ to create you a sales thread and signature. Promise thousands, refunds, bonuses, blah blah. Get a stick in this section. Offer free copies to people who wear your signature or something. Profit. Rinse and repeat, and don't just stick to HF. This method works, and there's proof all over this forum.

Oh, oh, oh, before we go further, I just remembered something. A bunch of people were saying that you should buy eBooks for the information and guidance.

FUCK THAT.

I spent at least a year browsing random forums including HF, buying eBooks and products. Want to know how much I made? Almost nothing. Want to know how much I learned? Only not to buy eBooks.

On the other hand, once I started doing something, I made money the same week and within that first week learned more than I did when I was buying eBooks.

Which gets me to my next point.

Real moneymaking:

The only way of making money is to sell something. It can be an eBook, a service, ad space, traffic, time, whatever. I even wrote an eBook on this and I sold a few copies right here at HF lol.

Also, in the past I wanted to do what the OP is doing right now - make this section worth something. So I made some threads that could be useful and relevant to this discussion, have a look:

[How to ACTUALLY make money || THE Monetizing Technique \[Guide in the thread\]](#)

Avoid These 4 Mistakes in your Online Moneymaking Career || Beginner DELUSIONS

[SalesBooster || Increasing your sales performance \[FREE GUIDE IN THREAD\]](#)

Let me tell you what's stopping you from making money...and how to get rid of it.

I really suggest you to read that. I did write that when I was less experienced than now, but still, it could be an eye-opener. And it probably contains more useful info than any eBooks I have, and it's free. I'm not saying this to praise myself, but to show the irony (and sadness, actually).

Alright now, methods!

1# Learn some shit and sell it.

Learn coding, designing, playing guitar, fixing computers, drawing, whatever. In the world of today, everything will find a buyer.

Here's something to get you started:

<https://imgur.com/gallery/iCAe0>

<https://imgur.com/gallery/iT5l7>

2# Make a website.

I cannot express the importance of this. Get a hosting, a domain, and create a blog. It can be about anything, moneymaking, fitness, fishing, Android devices, whatever you like. After a month or two of publishing content, you will be able to put up some ads and start advertising. I guarantee that you will make at least something. And it can be scaled as much as you want.

You will need an audience, so start social network accounts, register on related forums, etc. Learn about SEO, inbound marketing, A/B testing, etc., etc.

This post is a clustefuck, and I'm sorry about that. I'll try to create separate, informative posts/threads about legitimate methods, as I really can't go in depth like this. But at least I hope you learned something. :)

(Aug 14, 2014 03:45 AM)jClick Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) SnipSales ending tomorrow, last copy only 7 dollars?

The ways some eBook sellers advertise is absolutely disgusting and "ending soon my ass".

Aside from that, I did have one eBook that worked and got me the promised pay.

It's still in the market but I absolutely refuse to name it.
EBooks to me have 3 different kinds:

The ones with the flashy text that absolutely will not work.
The small ones that won't work and the author is desperate to profit out of an EBook.
The small ones that will work but nobody has heard of.

There was a book I did find, had no more than three vouches and had no more than 5 pages in the thread.

There were about 4 posts questioning the book due to "Hurr durr no vouches can you provide proof" but someone drew me to the book.

I did buy it, and it worked; I made my money.
Did exactly what it said on the tin.

What happened?
Nothing. I got a better paying job and I had other things to take up my time.

Some other notes:
A lot of the free eBooks (yeah, those ones) have made more money than the paid (1 dollar vs 15 cents) but using an EBook for your finances is stupid; get a job and a stable money flow going before you spend time on an EBook.

At first you need a payoneer or paxum account which is legit^^
Verify it etc.

Then sign up on chaturbate. Now grab a Omegle Spreader or sth. else and spread your "free affiliate link" everywhere you can. you get 1$/signup. you can try to signup using proxies but i never tested it.

at my first time i made around $20-$30/day with some work^^ stopped when reached $100 to cashout and i got it^^

try it yourself and invent your own methods on this basis!

I can vouch for this method and actually there are tons of ways to get cheap/free referrals aka "sign ups."

Ways that I have tried and succeeded:

1. Made a static blog page (landing page) with the directions above, some pictures, and my affiliate link of course. I added in some good methods for getting leads at the bottom and left it.

I can't track how many leads I received from the blog itself, but every time I check back I have more leads.

2. pay less than $1 for people to sign up. Some forums offer credits for each post you make, comment, etc. You can buy/sell products/services with these credits within said forums. So, you offer the credits in return for them signing up under your affiliate. or outsource this to turk workers for cents on the dollar. Same method being used for tons of other referral programs and currently Stellar virtual currency.

I can vouch that the method works and chaturbate does pay.

This is something for beginners to gain some extra cash for hopefully future plans of starting their own website or other IM campaigns.

Note: Minimum payout is $50 USD and payments are sent out automatically.

@OP I have a few methods that I have tried. Some failed while others worked. Since, I LOVE this thread idea, I'll try to make time to come back and share. Keep the posts coming HF!

Thanx OP for helping open eyes to HF newbies that jump on every lie :)

BTW, the banning for translated content and SERP penalization was way before Panda but not that effective. You know, Google is company that is WORLDS BEST in indexing and analyzing any kind of content.

Anyway, I think you have good future before you as you can spot currently profitable niche or method and work around it to be effective.

Also I like your writting style :) so you might just make blog with long lasting project, enriched with videos (and viraly supported by it) ;). I think in mid-term, you can have something profitable where you don't need to worry about bans or penalization. Your traffic would be real, your YT/Twitter/FB views/likes/comments would be real.

Haha. Theres no flies on you pal. There was slightly more involvement in the project. I was also running a technique that did random char to ascii conversion on the back end but rendered properly in a web browser.

Of course, no matter when sophisticated techniques you use to mask what is going on, google only has to send a human to look at the sites and there isn't much you can do about it.

Not sure if anyone has mentioned this before, but I haven't seen it so I'll post here anyways.

Roblox

For those of you who know what it is, you are probably laughing or thinking I'm an idiot. For those who don't know, Roblox is a game design platform targetted at younger kids (think 8-12). Basically, users can create games out of blocks and scripts using their software, and other people play it.

So how do you make money from this?

Recently, Roblox has employed this strategy known as "DevEx." It allows any player who makes games to cash out their in game money for USD. Only the premium currency (which exists solely due to purchases of the currency), can be exchanged for real money, and it's at a rate much lower than how much people get for buying it. However, the most popular games that have employed decent monetization techniques are making of hundreds of thousands of dollars a day. Your competition is a bunch of children so making a game that "stands" out isn't too hard if you have a decent imagination and an idea of scripting.

Anyways, the most popular games at any given time have 2,000-4,000 players playing at the same time. The reason why these games are making so much money is they sell things like admin, VIP, and other powerups for the Robux (the premium ingame currency) equivalent of a couple of dollars per purchase.

This is the sales of powerups for one of the most popular games right now:

The current exchange rate is 200$ per 100k robux, with a limit of 10k $ per month.

Once you get the hang of how everything works, It's not hard to make a successful game. With the ingame advertising features (pay ingame money to place advertisements on the website for your game) It's not hard to get your game the exposure necessary to become popular. Once you make a popular game, the next ones after that become easier to get players, as you already have relevance on the website. The most famous users all have 10+ games that have atleast 50 players on at all times, and reach the most popular games every now and then. There are people who have cashed out 10k, and many, many players are consistently cashing out 1-2k a month.

Hi,

I love this thread, and I've clicked on the signature of iClick and I've seen interesting things (I'm probably going to try to bot the mailing thing if possible, but this will be hard and boring to setup.)

Anyway, I'm a pretty a newcomer on making money on Internet, I've tested methods which doesn't work like using Adf.ly to bot new advertising companies and this got me 0 income (Sometimes less :))

I've done one bot at Freelancer.com and got paid 20$ as my first bid, but this is hard to find something else like that to bid on.

I've also been using another site like Adf.ly and one catchy video on youtube to download 3GB of plugins, it was legit ... started to "earn" but no withdraw, thanks those scammers.

I've tried advertising on a modest site which is now down, but as always, the advertising company was bad and said goodbye to himself ... (Adsense banned too)

I've tried to do surveys but $10 a month for such time wasted is not what I want.

I did not tested PPD/CPA because I think people just start to know how to bypass or just leave the page when they see that, they are bored.

I have not tested blackhats methods because I'm too lazy for that (And because I'm not even thinking as a blackhat).

I actually earn a little from my passion.

I have another method which is giving me an average of $20 a month without doing anything, and with that I buy some music / a VPS ... I could share this method with you if this was available in your country, as this is not a pyramidal scheme I don't even care of giving you the site without a referral link. You know, those sites which purpose to refund your mobile credits by allopas on your paypal account. Kids love that. I've just put a single referral link of youpass.com on a well known site, this became autopilot and it grows a little each year. Perhaps, 50 years after I would earn $100 a month with it ... haha ...

I have others original ideas that could work too but this won't get me rich (Advertising on gameservers, doing a youtube channel, wash the windshields of cars at a red light, prostitute, play the lottery ...)

After all of that I'm thinking of getting a real job and start playing with stocks.

I'm new here, people don't know me.

But take my advice: do not buy e-books and don't make an account on neobux. And instead of procrastinating and thinking about how to make some stupid 5$/day, do some real money. I just made 60 AUD e-whoring while hanging out with with a friend of mine. (He made more than me in the same time).

I'm thinking of investing that money into something that's not as stupid as an e-book or some neobux referrals. Something like taking some courses about writing. Now I'm thinking about writing an e-book and selling it on kindle. Then I'll invest that to learn some HTML and webdesign and make a website for myself. After that I'll want to make a website for my parent's tourism business which could really use some advertising. I'll then probably make a few more websites for some friends of mine who are willing to pay me, then I'll get more time and money to write another e-book. I've been doing all the market research and I know what e-book I should write.

In the meanwhile, the money I made e-whoring are blocked on my fake PayPal ("We're sorry, but we can't send your payment right now." - two weeks later, same error) and I cannot transfer them on my main account. On the other side, I just made a new bank account so I can link my main account and it seems they got something wrong with my card and I cannot link it.

So what did I get from this? 60 Australian Dollars? Nah, they are still blocked on that Wendy Smith account. I cannot invest anything and summer is ending, I'll have to start my 2nd year of computer engineering with which I cannot seem to get a job. So here I am, doing everything and nothing.

And here I am, procrastinating and writing this sad article instead of f*kin' try to solve that PayPal problems and start learning webdesign and actually make something.

But, there is a but! I had a lot of fun, I have ideas going, and my thoughts aren't blopping around my brain like some fat frog on some lilypads. I have some ideas and I HAVE to put them to the test. And afterall, if it won't get me money$cash€uros&dollar$, it will get me experience, which is all you need to be good @ life (Isn't that what life's about?).

This thread motivated me and I hope that my post motivated you! (Procrastinating basterds..)

PS: If you know anything about that PayPal error, let me know!

I am quite new to internet marketing. That being said I have some experience in sales and marketing and feel confident I will make money online in a seeable future. I will be focusing in affiliate marketing.

You have to look for ways to create a win-win-win situation.

I will let the community know how well my strategy works. Have a couple of ideas that I look forward to share if they happen to be successful.

Interesting thread so far. I gotta agree with what OP said earlier about ebooks, though...

(Aug 12, 2014 02:38 AM)53M4PH0R3 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) CUTTING THE SH*T ONCE AGAIN, HERE IS HOW ALL EBOOKS LAND ON HF...

snip

Seems that the best methods outlined here revolve around;

Having a marketable, sell-able skill / being able to produce a product, and Selling that skill or product for a profit.

Not much different from a real job, I suppose!

As for me, I've made some decent money online making and selling some custom knives through other sites, as well as having some commissioned jewellery made and sold. Nothing that wouldn't be possible off the net, but there is a much wider audience online.

For the sake of keeping in format...

1.) The method;

A.) GET EDUCATED, LEARN A SKILL.

I'm going to school to learn a skill set I can sell [and that I love doing]. That's all there is to it. I'm going to college for an arts degree, majoring in metalworking and jewellery craft / design. As I start accumulating skills, I make things and I sell them, whether I'm made an offer by someone else to make something in specific for them, or if I'm just making objects to sell later.

B.) LEARN HOW TO MAKE MONEY WITH YOUR SKILL.

I believe it's entirely crucial that anyone in this situation should begin to sell their work as soon as a possible, not just for money, but for the experience of selling, learning how to communicate and deal with customers, stuff like that. So, I've got some plans for a web page that will be up later this year, both as a gallery and a place to sell my creations, and in the meantime I take work when I can afford to spend time on it [school is expensive, dammit]. At the same time, I'm continually asking my professors for business advice as well as technical advice; since they've been 'around the block' five times or more before I was born, they have tonnes of helpful information. Take advice you get from people who are where you want to be seriously.

2.) Did it work;

Since I've started selling a little while ago this summer [while working a full time job], I've made a few hundred dollars from my knives, each selling for about $150 - $250 apiece. I've made a little less from my jewellery, although not by much. I have some rings to make in the next month or two as well. Each should net about $350 and the buyer wants at least four, so I'm quite excited about that. To be clear, each ring will only take between one and two hours to make... at the least, that's the same as being paid $175 an hour. Not bad for someone only two years into a degree. Income will increase as I find myself with more time to spare, as I take less time to do quality work, and as my skills improve.

There are plenty of places I've already sold a few items online, mostly through friends accounts since I haven't the time to set up a permanent place myself yet. Instagram is an excellent place to buy and sell knives and jewellery, I've found. Odd, but I've seen thousands of dollars of product being sold within less than a week, at least when looking at some people. Point being, you need to find the appropriate avenues through which you can garner enough attention to yourself that you make profit. Once I start selling on Etsy, I'll be having LOTS of competition, while my home page will be all my own.

IMPORTANT!

Now, the wonderful thing about this "method" is that it's applicable to EVERYONE. I know not everyone can afford to go off to college, or is in a position where it would be possible even if money were available, but I'm assuming that since you're reading this, you can access the internet and have the means to do so. There are literally hundreds of thousands of hours worth of material on any single subject you can think of that you might want to learn on the internet. The beautiful thing is that once you know where to look, it's easy to get started. Once again I highly suggest taking the advice of professionals seriously. And I don't mean people who are making money, I mean people who are doing STUPID good for themselves.

Heavxn - September 1, 2014, 3:20 am

Lol i agree with everthing you said

IpSiety - September 1, 2014, 9:52 am

Well I haven't really profited from this in a while, but when i was younger I would do people's online college courses for money. It was good work maybe 250-500 a course based on the work. Then after that was done I would go on sites like scribd or something and sell the rewritten essays and test answers.

I made a good $2,000 from the courses themselves and about 50 a week from people buying the test answers(The essays didn't sell for much.) But that stopped after the course changed up their test answers and I had to delete em. Did build up my work ethic tho.

A couple years ago back when google adsense was I assume much easier to fraud, I made around $2,000 a month (could have made much more but did not want my account flagged). All I had to do was create a shitty blogspot about car insurance, create a facebook fan page with an iFrame with the blog page inside, and then spam traffic to the facebook page making it look like it was traffic redirected from facebook and not fake traffic. The keyword was car insurance so of course in a click ring, all of the people I traded clicks with would see car insurance ads like geico, progressive, etc. I would get $4-$10 per click, so I just took 30 minutes out of each day to trade clicks with people till I got $50-80, adjusting to make it look a little real. In the end I did get the money for a couple months, around $5000, before I did something stupid and switched my blog to the keyword "education and college", because everyone said it made them more, but then those clicks literally gave me $100 instead of $4-$10 like the car insurance ads. I didn't think it would be worth so much, so I got like 4 clicks and ended up with around $300, thus flagging my adsense acccount getting me banned from it forever. Overall I did make decent cash doing nothing, sadly I can't really find anything related to adsense on here or anywhere else anymore, I'm assuming there isn't a sure fire method to do it anymore.

That's actually a pretty smart idea. I'm sure AdSense has caught on to that method of clickjacking though.

During that time I would log onto hackforums and you would see at least 8 threads about adsense click rings in the monetizing section per page. If I took a guess adsense stepped their game up and just prevented the same people from clicking your ads every day, I always thought it was weird they didn't do anything when it was the same IP clicking the ads.
