Thread: Enhance Views Power Watcher

Updated August 12, 2014

So I've been asking questions lately and this time, I wanted to contribute to the community. I don't want something that has been uploaded already so I made this!

So Enhance Views didn't make a power watcher and I really wanted much more points to get that gold medal so I can get better deals, so I decided to make my own power watcher and I completed it today, started it today. This is just a prototype, I'm sure there are bugs everywhere, so if you guys could leave them in the comments that would be appreciated.

One of the things I added was the webpages in the Auto Watcher app, so it's easier to log in. I copied the URL to the Power Watcher from the website so everything is minimized and easily read.

Last time I released something (not mentioning the app), there was problems with the web browser, so this time I made the user agent Google Chrome's user agent so there would be less errors.

I also added an option to make the app smaller in case you want to really boost your account fast and have space to see your desktop.

Tho the problem it goes so slow, since Google is banning the accounts so easily now tho nbad tool

It works, but I think you could still do this at the site itself?

You will earn the same amount of credits?

Google doesn't ban the YouTube accounts, the website likes, subs, favorites, and does customized comments. The ban rates are very low.

You do get the same, but the problem with using the browser is that you can only do it in 1 window.

Say you want to boost your credits fast and you had to use 12 Firefox Mozilla's, that's gonna take up a lot of RAM, so the tool is very lightweight and easy-to-use, no ads, and you get an exact number on how many you completed and how many failed to know if you should change to a new YouTube account.

I don't mean the application, I mean ehv itself, Last time I speed boosted the speed, I got banned pretty quickly

Foursenal - August 13, 2014, 11:02 am

Yeah you're not supposed to do that, you're supposed to let the application do its own thing. Let the timer count down normally.

I may try it later, looks good. Thanks!
