Thread: Rate my first thread design. UPDATED V2

I know it's not the best, I put quite some time into this design but I think it's pretty good for a first try.

Okay this is my second attempt.

It's acutally not bad for a first time!

Maybe you should remove the gradients and use flat shadows, you might also want to use a color palette.

But the base is good!

6/10

Kind Regards,

EGFX

Looks really nice for a first attempt. Good job ?

I don't think it looks nice bro, you should try to imitate ones from ebook sales threads from like the stickied ones, they're all sick, just imitate those for practise.

Thanks for your honest opinion I'll look into some thread designs.

Great for a first attempt but maybe look into changing the color scheme, it looks very dull right now. Use the red thats in your sig, that would look more vibrant.

Great for the first attempt but it can be improved in many ways.

Give you a thumbs up since its your first. But compared to others id give it maybe a 6/10.

Gerion - August 13, 2014, 3:35 am

Definitely looks a lot better than some designs on here, I'll give you that much.

I'd avoid drop shadows / inner shadows, as long as you make the typography go good with the design you're golden.

Best of luck for your future design's.

Griev?us - August 13, 2014, 3:37 am

I like it, but I'd personally wouldn't use it.

The whole gradient you did for the header made it look eh.

Devitalo - August 13, 2014, 8:24 am

I don't know what to say you know. Its your first so I can't see if you've done your best or not.

Without that I give you a 5/10, you could add more FX in this. Just mess with some photoshop tools.

Let me know how you guys like the second attempt! Also my second thread design.
