Nasyr - August 18, 2014, 12:14 pm

Introduction

Hello Hack Forums my name is Nasyr and I've been an established businessman here in the community since my date of registration. I have studied a verity of different college courses in website development and design. Today I re-introduce my services to the community with some new updates. What I offer is a service which is cheap and will meet all your requirements within the timeline allocated and agreed upon between myself and you, the client.

Services

I'm offering the best quality of website design you'll find on the market, fully custom code to your requirements meeting the latest standards within HTML5 and CSS3 and also completing full verification. You will not be able to find a service like this which is offering you the design, hosting optimisation, fully detailed report and 60 days instant messaging support.

The Process

If you are interested in these services then by all means do send me a Private Message with all the requirements.

Upon receiving that information I will give you a price either hourly or in total.

After payment has been made I will begin work on the project you desire.

*All services include 60 days full support to all clients.

Terms and Conditions

All clients have to make a deposit of 50% of the total expected amount for the service.

In some instances I may require the assistance of a 3rd-party developer, you agree to this.

I have the right to refuse any potential client for any given reason or no reason at all.

There will be no refunds given whatsoever after the initial deposit has been made.

If you cancel this service at any time, any deposits made will not be refundable.

You are paying for the time spent on the development of your project.

You will receive 30 days support after completion, no further updates after this time period has ended.

I reserve the right to terminate these services if you break any of these Terms and Conditions - this results in no refunds.

If payment is made via PayPal, if you chargeback a Scam Report will be opened against you.

I have the right to alter these Terms and Conditions at any time with no notice.

His prices are cheap because of the effort he puts into the websites, no offence but the one you showed is terrible.

And yeah, you are ruining the market, making users think all designers will go for this price, which is far from the truth.

The design you see is one I made when I started web design, when I go into college tomorrow I'll be downloading all the websites I have made and then fixing this design up on here.

That's an example and a terrible on as you said but it's all I could find on my Laptop.

WZDY - August 22, 2014, 7:41 am

Wait...When you say "WebDesign", you mean just a static image or the actual Web Design, alot of designers say they "webdesign" and then they just show a image, instead of a .html -__-

It's all done in HTML, you get all the files when I create them. I don't do it the Photoshop way if that's what you mean?
