Thread: 4Virtuals Scam

POLY MATH - August 18, 2014, 6:03 pm

I asked to cash out around $500 and they suspended my account with no response in over 7 days. I wouldn't even trust them.

Nothing illegal about what I sell and my customers have not charged back.

Silent ? - August 18, 2014, 6:03 pm

No problems at all. Did you obtain the money legitimately? A lot of accounts has been suspended due to exploiting a bug in their system.

I did not exploit anything. All payments legit from a friend in-real life so I know it hasn't been charged back.

The email should have been sent automatically using Zendesk. If not, I have waited too long. Ridiculous, lol.

He needs to allow customers to Zendesk even if banned. I really don't want to chargeback but my customer literally lives with me and I will make that happen.

And I can't speak on you, Tusik or even my customer but I win every case as my business bring in a hefty income and it's legit so paypal wants to keep doing business with me.

I'm not threatening and I'm not mad the funds are held up as I am sure I will get the issue resolved, i'm angry because of the lack of communication .

Something is seeming a bit sketchy, why is he not able to get his own money? A lot of people are saying that their money has been pending for awhile, could Tusik not have the funds available and possibly have spent some of it?

POLY MATH - August 20, 2014, 11:19 am

I will be getting in contact with the administrators within 24 hours. I resolve my issue and give a few tips on "transparency".

That's my biggest pet peeve about 4Virtuals. It's not about the funds being held up but their being no explanation, statements, or any kind of reasoning on why issues have been occurring with withdrawal and I personally won't accept it.

If anyone thinks for a second that I am a kid that just sits around playing on the computer then their accusations are wrong. Everytime that I get on a PC is for business. My side job consist of 2 legit computer related businesses and my real job is an IT Specialist for the U.S. Army.

I am all about business and I must say that this is bad business. He is not trying to stay connected to HF for what? Safety of his account or to avoid being spammed with PM's, I don't know his stats but I am sure that a vast amount of customers are from HF and since his name is placed as the owner so easily then he will be spammed, regardless. The least he could do is reply to the concerned customer with a relieving message and alternate contact information. I wouldn't even care if it's copy/pasted.

Example: "Hi, I am sorry that you have ran into issues with 4Virtuals as we are here to provide an excellent service to our customers. I assure you that your money is in good hands but I do not accept questions concerning 4Virtuals on HF. Please contact me at support@4virtuals.com for the proper support and advice to uphold our standards promised to you."

That took me literally like 1 minute to type some non-sense that would have made me thought...ok. A response and a way to get my money.

Let's be serious. If you did ANY trade with ANY user and they haven't responded for days then that is grounds to opening a scam report not because you question they are scamming(which you will) but their lack of communication suggests it.

Transparency is one of the key values to a great business. Tusik needs to open a News page or something to update 4Virtuals customers on updates, issues, and suggestions. I would also suggest consistently using it. 4Virtuals was a great idea but it won't be easy to manage nor maintain financially as keeping the customers funds safe for the business and for the customers is a priority. I would also suggest fixing the flaws in the website and I am not suggesting the XSS's as I peaked around for a couple days and could easily obtain access to certain things that I shouldn't. Unfortunately, if I did that it could harm my career so I stay away from things like that.

Due to poor business and communication, I will give 4Virtuals(not the owner), 7 days which is more then enough time to pick up their poor business practices and to give our community members the respect they deserve. Jesus Christ, most of these kids are relying on 4Virtuals for some kind of revenue. I understand it's not easy but you chose to provide this service, now it's time to provide it.

Once again, I am not threatening anyone and all I am asking for is communication not just to me but the countless private messages and posts that pertains to the same issue that I am facing.

Thanks and I will get everyone some answers. ?

Don't try to look like a big-shot TRADOC. You should of known it will take longer to withdraw money if his PP is clogged up.

That is why he isn't accepting money being sent from buyers to seller in this period, been like this for 1-3 days now.

As a staff member of 4Virtuals, I think I'm the only one that can answer you with a proper answer.

The reason he does not associate himself with HackForums is due to all the issues.

4Virtuals was never supposed to be advertise on here, but a past member decided to make a huge thread explaining what you can do at 4Virtuals. As soon he was announced on HF, problems began.

People were trying to find exploits left and right and the most up to date issue we're having is this,

The amount of illegal stuff that is being posted on 4Virtuals is just ridiculous. That's why it's causing issues with not only PayPal but other several companies as well.

The CEO of 4Virtuals has been working "his ass off" for the past 48 hours on a new system to prevent any issues with PayPal or other companies as well. Stuff is going to change at 4Virtuals. We're still in beta, we needed to see in what redirecting it will go and we did, that is why we're doing our best to clean up our path and continue in the right direction.

For support, like I stated above, the owner of 4Virtuals does not associate himself with HF if it has nothing to do with currency exchanges. If it's urgent, he will reply to you but the best way to receive any support is through our ticket system.

I personally look over all pending tickets each 6 to 12 hours (Depending on my IRL Schedule) and if it's urgent, we'll receive an instant notification about the issue.

Also, while we're on this subject. You stated that we answered your ticket saying we cannot release any information for security reasons. That's wrong, we told you that you must email us since anyone can open a ticket a try to get some information about someones account. We do not take security as a joke, especially when it comes to private user data.

Actually, that's not how it works at all.

Every withdrawal, automatically creates an order from Coinbase using the funds in 4Virtuals Bank Account. That's part of the reason of the withdrawal delay.

If this is making a problem then 4virtual should implement approval system. Each item should be approve by staff before they allow it for sale.

That wasn't stated in the Ticket but I will surely do that. I also have one of the administrators personal skype and 4Virtuals business skype? I guess it's their business skype.

Regardless, thanks for the support.

Mind PMing me the Skype ID? I have a strong feeling it's fake. There's only a few staff and only two out of all uses Skype (Including Myself).

The title is a bit misleading...it's to get the community alert and I don't believe that 4Virtuals are scammers. Just...really needs improvement. I just have a few suggestions for the check out system he has to hire some support staff because he is way busy and unable to answer every consumer and needs to have some verification or package plans so that the withdrawals for a certain plan or packages are processed faster than normal.
