Let me mention that this is a design concept. I might code it just for the hell of it, give it a parallax scroll, sticky header, and good interactivity with the user. At the moment I don't feel satisfied with the Portfolio and Contact page, which is why its "Work in Progress".

Missing the contact page and footer.

Flat portfolio - huuuuuge no. Even tho customers will rate your skills based on previous works, website design itself plays huge role. Be creative as possible but keep it in mind load time. Sorry pal but these are facts, there are plenty of articles you can and should read before developing portfolio. I suggest you to save psd for another project and start skething on paper in quest for unique design if you want to attract the customers.
"Studio" rises bar even higher

Peace

Thanks, I can't believe I missed that spelling error. I acknowledge that its not the most unique style in the world, although I mixed a few styles into one. I wouldn't call it flat, since most of it has some sort of depth. Anyways I will certainly take your advice into consideration!

Will certainly edit the thread with an updated version.

It's very bad. All over the place. Doesn't have any call to action. Shit color scheme. Scrap it and start from a blank canvas.

I think the light green and white doesn't match that good

But it still looks alright. 6.5/10
