Well its California's fuckin fault for not being prepared for what is now a imminent problem. Buckets of water is not whats going to hurt California, its closed minded Government officials that think of this "water challenge" as a way to get money through fines, that is a problem.

Anyway I live in California in a place where all the water is fully regulated and self sustained to where the drought isn't going to effect us..

If you haven't noticed, the website's articles are fake.

"Our mission is to ridicule the timid ignorance which obstructs our progress, and promote intelligence - which presses forward.

Q. Are your news stories real?

A. No. Our stories are purely fictional. However they are meant to address real-world issues through satire and often refer and link to real events happening in the world"

?Alexander - August 20, 2014, 8:57 am

This challenge is stupid, people rather pour a bucket of water over their head instead of donating.
Unless you donated afterwards, this video is stupid.

Edit Looks like you donated. Good one.
