Thread: Bypass Mobile Verfication in Gmail

Wolfi - August 30, 2014, 11:06 am

Hey,

I wonder if there is some way I could bypass the mobile verification while creating gmail account. Do any one know some method, or can any one help me with this ?

I really appreciate it if you could. ?

Romania ? Oh. Is that so ?

Let me check it out then.

Found this number 0723 567844 from google.

Lemme try with that, and will tell you if it worked.

Thanks for the response mate. ?

Wow. It worked mate.

Appreciated for your help.

I believe that you can create a Google Voice number to stop this, but I believe that a legit phone number is required to do this.

If you have a smartphone, do what I do and get a TextMe number, then put it through Google Voice.

If you were to make the GMail account on a smartphone device (something like an iPod or iPad will work too I believe), you won't get prompted with the Mobile Verification.

ok, how bout not only gmail? we're talking about gmail right?

The mobile phone verification seems like random. Maybe you can just add alternative email address in gmail.
