I am debating on Grey Hat White Hat or a Black Hat. I want to be good, but temptation is a huge factor, any advice?

None. Don't think about it as much as you do currently. Just fucking do whatever you want to do. No need to associate yourself with a "hat"

i like to call myself an ethical blackhat, sometimes i will hack a site or a forum or something where they banned me and fuck up their site just out of spite, but most of the time i play nice and i dont really do anything malicious to systems i crack. i think what is really more important than what hat you are is the reason you hack, if all you do is just hack sites for btc and use sploits coded by others and the only reason you hack is to make money or look cool or whatever, then that makes you a classic skid, dont be like that. but then if you hack simply in order to learn and know more and play around, then you are a true hacker, it doesnt matter as much in my eyes if you are whitehat or blackhat or whatever. i guess my advice to you is just do what bonfire said, dont think about it and youll figure out what hat you are later.

Don't wear any hat, you just flag yourself under a weird community of people that says they're something.

Go do whatever you want, fuck the hats.
