www.allcrypt.com is currently the only option for an online OMC wallet.

Just because it's used for trading doesn't mean it's not a decent wallet. That would be your best option at this point.

I'm thinking about starting up my own online wallet, but I want my shit to be secure to the fullest. I'm doing my research on the RPC client now.

He never said it's not a decent wallet. He simply said it's not designed to be used as a wallet, it's designed for trading.

Maybe y'all should help me convince Cryptonator.com to open a wallet for us.

I sent cryptonator a message. Anyway, it would probably be better for us to create an online omnicoin wallet independent of the other sites (at least in the long run) but this time we should ensure that it is safe from exploitation.
