Source Code :

Code Dim CloudflareResolver As New WebClient

Dim IP As String =

CloudflareResolver.DownloadString("http://abrasivecraft.com/api.php?cmd=0&domain=" + TextBox2.Text)

TextBox5.Text = IP

And you call that a "source code" ?

Why isn't the WebClient() disposed ? Never heard of Using ?

Name your damn control.

All your code is as easy as that. Why bother releasing it ?

To add to this, what about checking if the input can actually be valid?

Why bother calling the API if someone doesn't even enter an IP or URL?

True the wc should be disposed, but the controls don't need to named, I mean it's personal preference. I personally hate spending too much time with the designer instead of the code.

seems interesting pmed u about code thanks

HFTetramorph - September 11, 2014, 2:28 am

I would take the code, its basic yet good to have around.

Be sure to pull the cloudflare ip list from some online text document that u have control to edit. That way when cf is updated, u can keep ur app updated as its pulled from the web

I'd like a copy of this to put my own APIs into, for use.

Thanks
