Thread: I need a legitimate way to make money online

dsonger1234 - September 3, 2014, 6:37 am

Hey Hack forums, so during the school year I have found it nearly impossible to make money at a physical job as I am taking high level classes and have a hell of a schedule. I really need a way to make money during the school year and am willing to actually work, I prefer not doing cpa/ppd as I have tried these unless you have a "foolproof" way. I'm not looking to make a million dollars over night, but a good amount of spending money per month. Any ideas? Thanks so much you all.

I got some great ways. Are you about to spent a little money before you earn something or what I guess you could try doing some affiliate marketing.

I'd rather avoid spending any money at first, maybe if there is a way I could start free, earn some money then use that none to spend on a new better way...

Unless you stick to one thing and put effort, how do you expect anything to work?

Just pick 1 thing and make it work. CPA, Affiliate Marketing, virtual goods site, the list is endless. Just pick something you would enjoy doing, then the work will not seem as hard. All the info you need is online, google is your friend. Also, expect to put a lot of time into your methods to make them work, most try monetizing to make a quick buck and don't succeed, the way to do it is to thing long term and plan. Even if you make no money for a month, the following month you could see huge profit, take your time and do it right the first time.

Try and look up some programs such as Amazon Associates or Clickbank. Figure out what affiliate program you want to do. Afterwards, target that certain product that you choose on one of those sites to an audience.

Thanks, I just need some help on how to get started ya know? I've been intrigued by CPA/PPD and read ebooks, but idk none of them seem to work.

eBooks can make you millions a month doing nearly nothing.

I wouldn't bother buying any eBooks. They are only good to get idea's from for your own method, I wouldn't waste time setting them up. The people sell them when the method isn't making enough or any money.

Selling eBooks is a method of its own, you sell some bs method and bank from the sales.

I suggest setting up fb/ig/twitter etc.. Social networking sites are good places to do cpa/ppd. I personally don't do any methods like that so I won't be much help.
