Thread: [PV Theme - \[12 Controls | Dark\]](#)

GenericSkid - September 6, 2014, 8:52 am

PV is a theme that has controls taken and mixed up from two images(all from my request thread). Worked a long time on this one, mostly because school just came back into session and they thought it'd be hilarious to assign four essays in the first three days and me getting sick a few days into the week.

Anyways, here's the theme:

Textboxes : I tried to override all the classes I themed, meaning that I tried overriding the textbox... This led to it acting a little weird (Write some text and try to select it).

Can you add a listview to it :)? Not many themes have a listview.

I barely even know how to use the control myself... No clue but I'll look into it later. Gotta get back to school stuff for a little while.

It is quite a popular component actually. Most programs have it.
