

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Hacking Loan providing website

hamwq - September 8, 2014, 7:33 pm

Greetings my Fellow Hack Forums users,

I had a thought which might have also come across your mind. Would it be possible to hack Loan providing websites and accessing their database to clear out all the outstanding loans people owe to them? Specifically to students who are perhaps attending college/university. Would there be a possible way to show the students have paid their outstanding dues without alarming the website?

Regards

Skorp - September 8, 2014, 8:39 pm

Ha, you are funny. You think all this is only stored on a single website? Lol.

AURUM - September 8, 2014, 11:04 pm

Skorp is right. This is going to be very hard to find and wont all be in one place, much less the DB of their frontend website.

WillHackForPizza - September 9, 2014, 5:39 am

Loan providers in the UK and US have to be compliant and regularly audited, payment systems are also USUALLY segregated or air gapped. No saying its impossible, just that its hard to pull off.

AURUM - September 9, 2014, 12:56 pm

(Sep 9, 2014 05:39 AM)WillHackForPizza Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Loan providers in the UK and US have to be compliant and regularly audited, payment systems are also USUALLY segregated or air gapped. No saying its impossible, just that its hard to pull off.

:O Your name tho :D But yes you are correct. These companies arent going to let just anyone into their private infos.