Thread: Public apology to Omni and clarification on some things.

thegirlfriend - September 22, 2014, 11:49 pm

Well I'm just going to come right out and admit I'm actually Reserve/IceGuru/Alexander Lege. I signed up today because I was told a thread was made and I wanted to make sure no more action would be taken against Van Dyke in my name. They say not to look a gift horse in the mouth ... for once I'll listen.

So PLEASE for me guys. Don't keep fucking with Van Dyke.

To start off I want to tell Omni sorry for dragging HF into the drama but hopefully after I explain some more below you can understand why I thought it was "justified" (I was wrong).

There have been allegations that this was a big troll/scam among other things ...and I understand. There were things I left out because I wanted to counter sue. I had a great case too as you'll read but a mixture of laziness, life and curiosity got the better of me.

tl;dr - I'm sorry Omni. Please leave this thread up after you merge it so I can at least leave HF without people thinking it was some lame scam. (I've been here 5 years can you at least give me that?)

The full story:

I was reading an article on Techcrunch I believe it was about The Tor Project being sued. I searched the lawyer on FB to see how much heat he was getting and to my surprise it was none. I left a review of 1 star "Terrible service". This is an opinion and can't be proven false in an objective manner. It is therefore NOT defamation/libel since that would have to be proven false. So when Jason threatened to sue me for a review I really didn't care. Had he asked me to remove the review and admitted he was wrong for suing Tor (like he later did) I would have removed it. Instead he tried strong arm bullshit via a state proxy and as anyone who knows me knows...I don't go for that shit. Instead I was so full of myself I sold him my DOX using my girl friends account. Laughing maniacally I posted on HF thinking you guys would laugh about the 200$ I was paid. It wasn't until I stepped away to smoke a cig and came back that a 4chan thread and an old school raid was going on. I never asked for that....but I could have asked you guys not to... BUT that would imply you didn't make your own decisions and that's just not true. I sat and stayed up late watching 3 4chan threads go by laughing the whole way through. Anyone who has the archive links knows that I claimed my ID in each thread to prove I wasn't doing anything to help them out.

Sure enough I woke up to find he actually had filed on me in his county. Small claims court requires the case to be brought in the jurisdiction of the DEFENDANT (me). So that in itself should have been enough to get the case tossed out.

Ignoring the FACT that aside from the review EVERYTHING else in his suit was a lie.

Getting bored and just annoyed at this point so I'm just going to quickly greentext some key points to wrap it up.

>his case was a SLAPP case

>the thing I couldn't say was that I could have counter sued for anti-slapp laws
>he sent me messages on facebook admitting this HELPED his business >the gofundme was not me asking for money had any of you read the junked thread you'd know >the gofundme was to show interest so that the Twitter flood to @EFF would be more effective >instead omni banned me >rightfully so I should have taken it offsite at that point >van dyke is a prick but in a weird way I hate him a tad less than some of you guys who don't know the whole story and still running your mouths ALSO >van dyke hit the nail on the head "Hiding like rats" which is just what all of you did while some of us actually stood up to him

To wrap it up

>I had a motion to dismiss ready to go because at this point the countersuit was not happening (EFF didn't wanna help because it wasn't big enough)
>didn't file for 3 reasons lazy
testing the judge (personal shit) some personal IRL stuff is going on atm I need to take care of >had I actually motioned this would have been a more fun game (even van dyke agreed) >the gofundme was not a scam and the only two people that donated were close PERSONAL friends and they told me to keep the money after I offered it back

Anyways sorry Omni I should have taken it off site the next day. I was wrapped up in the idea of counter suing and figured since the community attacked him and I was the fall guy they would at least help me tweet bomb @eff. (check the thread you junked ...I actually said to focus on this over donating)

I actually read your original thread. I didn't quite remember it till you posted this. I like many others saw the thread earlier tonight posted, and just didn't put two, and two together. Respect for you apologizing, and realizing a mistake though.!

I made a mistake in taking the legal drama to HF.

I standby my decision to review Van Dyke and make the original thread telling HF about the 200$. It was funny.

Once he actually sued I should have locked the thread and gone offsite with the drama.

You'll notice how the people openly admitting to DDOSing that night and breaking a window are NOWHERE now? Nor did they post the next day once they saw he really sued me.

I took a stand and because ultimately I was lazy I lost. Lucky for me though he thought I was honorable in some weird way.

Anyways I'll reply a bit but once I'm banned again I'll honor it like I did the last time.

I'm only here tonight to clear the air and say sorry.

No punitive damages. Hence it had NO place in small claims to begin with.

Either of which I did or asked anyone to do.

Also the window was the wrong building and the DDOS couldn't be linked to a loss.

It had NO place in small claims. More reason this was a SLAPP case.

At first I had no idea what you were on about, Then I started to read about the whole TOR thing, and I remembered all the stuff that had happened the past couple months ago. I'm glad you had come out and told everybody. I hope you can get all this resolved <3

Helipads - September 23, 2014, 4:58 am

I was wondering if the timing was coincidental, considering the other thread.

Omniscient - September 23, 2014, 5:11 am

I can only think to myself how typical this is. I wish that at times members showed a bit more common sense in legal matters.

If you know you have a shark below your boat you don't go sticking your feet into the water to see if it's still there.

To be fair if I was a lawyer I might want to fight it for the lulz.

I'm not trained enough though, so I just stayed away.

TheBlackHat - September 23, 2014, 7:42 am

I decided to not get involved in it because IMO it was a very stupid situation.

I seriously just sat back and watched that night.

I was wrong for making the new threads after he filed. Sure. It was my problem then. The original thread was just "haha this guy paid me 200$" really.

However, the "clarification" part of this thread was to explain that I only left a review and refused to remove it.

Did you ddos, participate or leave fake reviews pretending he did work for you? Did you then start ignoring the situation once he really filed?

Then I wasn't talking about you.

Truth - September 23, 2014, 11:00 am

Lol wtf I remember that shit u posted and grabbing $200 from that retarded lawyer and omni really banned you for that?

I seen omni post on MBAM forum telling them to unban hf or there fucked I wouldnt think omni would do it like this....

Anyways will look more into this matter. Must be serious but still dont see how/why HF will be affected.

EDIT:

HF not really affected I think. Is HF considered a common carrier?

It Seems ur dumbass actually gave legit info. Well I guess you wanted trouble. Sometimes its best to tip ur hat ? and move on bandors - September 23, 2014, 11:10 am

(Sep 23, 2014 11:08 AM)Panik Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) HF is affected because the tools that attacked van dyke were claiming to be doing it in the name of HF. At that point, he made an account here and screenshotted the entire thread and uploaded it to one of his websites. Had the shit really hit the fan, Omni could have gotten slapped with a subpoena for the information of everyone involved, and then a lot of you would be getting grounded with no bedtime snack after the sheriffs department came knocking on your doors.

It's the same reason we have a policy not to deface or attack any other sites in the name of HF. Omni doesn't want to catch backlash for something he isn't involved in.

Some people are dumb. One of the number one rules to follow in life is to never fuck with lawyers.

Website_Hitincreaser - September 23, 2014, 11:19 am

Yep. What many here don't get is that Regardless of if hf or 4chan did anything ...he would have sued me for a 100% legal review.

I can't reply to your pm.

Basically he claimed that I enlisted everyone to help me do the shit that was done to him. Then I didn't answer the court so he showed up without me and got a default. It's what he does ...look at his history.

He just wanted the attention. (Good publicity ...let's be fair) So he released the judgement on me. Which he honestly had no way to get it anyways. I down own anything legally. It was all handed over incase he won. It's in other people's names right now.

But yeah I'm clearly a retard for taking a stand for my first amendment rights.
