

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Tricks That You Can Do With Locked iDevices On iOS 7 Or iOS 8

Demoralise - September 23, 2014, 11:30 pm

Locked devices on iOS 7 or iOS 8 with Siri enabled allow you to use Siri when the device is locked simply by holding down the homescreen. Many issues result from this:

The ability to update a persons Facebook status (if they have set up their Facebook with Siri)

Simply say "Post to Facebook" then after Siri responds, say want you want it to post then click the post button.

Message another one of their Facebook friends:

Say "Text Facebook."

See their last 25 calls:

Say "recent calls".

Find person in contacts:

Say "Who is (namehere)".

Call somebody:

Simply say "Call (nameofpersontocallhere)".

Master24 - September 27, 2014, 6:51 am

Cool man, that's really nice. Didn't know that.

Could use this to troll friends :P

Thanks for sharing.

cyberducky - September 27, 2014, 6:52 am

If this bug is legitimate, I am sure Apple will fix it quickly.

Water Aura - September 27, 2014, 6:54 am

(Sep 27, 2014 06:52 AM)Abide Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) If this bug is legitimate, I am sure Apple will fix it quickly.

I don't think it's a bug...more of a tool having more power than the lock screen ;)

Rote - September 27, 2014, 7:12 am

Thanks for sharing this the recent calls one was a good one.

iWatch - September 27, 2014, 7:16 am

There is the option to turn off Siri when the device is locked as far as I know.

1. Tap on Settings.

2. Go to Passcode (on iOS 8 or General -> Passcode on iOS 7)
3. Find "Allow access when locked".
4. Turn off Siri.

Nothing needs to be patched. It's just people must be aware of their options.

connormalc - October 16, 2014, 8:05 am

Will definitely use this on unsuspecting victims ;)