Thread: Bulls' Bot shop - declining service

klemmett - September 24, 2014, 9:43 am

I posted this on Bull's thread earlier but it has been deleted, so I have reposted it here.

On 4 occasions now, I have bought geo-specific loads for my BB from Bull, but I am concerned the service is decreasing in quality and cannot understand why.

The first order was on 4th August - $300/1000 loads. Rig exploit kit ran for 5.5 hours to find 1054 loads, 350 were received with another 26 appearing in the next 24 hours

15th August - $300/1000 loads, Rig exploit kit ran for 6 hours for 1002 loads, 290 received, 97 in next 24 hours

5th September - $300/1000 loads. This was the first Sweet Orange load. SO ran for 7 hours, 735 bots were received, with another 42 in next 24 hours. 400 of these only logged in once, but 300 were more persistent

Last order - 22nd September. I was sent a link to SO 15 minutes after my order, and when I logged in after 25 minutes, the "run" had finished.

$300/1000 loads, SO ran for 25 minutes to find 1468 loads (30 times as fast as previous orders), but only 82 were received, with 0 in next 24 hours.

I have asked Bull by PM, Jabber and on his thread to explain why the run was so quick, and the result so poor ($2.73 per load), but he has not answered and has deleted my post. I think this is a very poor deal, if not an outright scam.

rakuda - September 24, 2014, 10:10 am

The slave of bulls are kids that play videogames and use botkill. Not buy. I have buy a lots of bots are all kids that play videogames (14-15 age old). After 5 days losts all bot (botkill?). Is a very shit seller.

Kuky - September 24, 2014, 11:24 am he uses rig which is known for having very very low knockback rate of your file.

LeakIt - September 24, 2014, 1:05 pm

If you are receiving the traffic instantly then I know what he does. He just creates a new task in his betabot to open a hidden link with the link you give to him for exploiting.

So basically those are installs, not loads. All the time you were paying for installs not loads mate.

Open up a scam report. Loads last MUCH MUCH LONGER even if your file gets detections.

Problem - September 25, 2014, 6:39 pm

If you had negative results the first time why would you go back to the same seller?

IntelliJ - September 25, 2014, 7:13 pm

I found this to be the same. He went with his butt buddy's neg rep on me (claiming I would use fraudulent funds. No scam report, no community alerts, nothing) and an associate purchased "loads" from him, results pretty much mirrored yours.

Don't trust HF botsellers. I've said this before and I'll say it again: Their ToS are their best friend and they will screw you over in every single possible way and hide behind the ToS.

OP, put his UID in the title and in the post, as well as a thread link in the post. :P

XMarkX - September 25, 2014, 9:52 pm

Oh, look. Bull scamming more people?

Yet I was consider the scammer for wanting a refund for my 'loads' vanished within about 8 hours.

Heh.

xVulnerable - September 25, 2014, 10:11 pm

He sends installs not loads. It's all a scam and so many people are victims.

Add his UID in the title so this will show up when they look him up.

Agreed. The installs he also sells are botkilled within 24 hours.

LeakIt - September 26, 2014, 9:57 am

He probably has a botkiller running 24/7 . Also I heard from known sources that he has Jack Loader. If you folks know what it is, you'd never buy installs from him. It's for $10k and it has a bootkit which means it stores in the MBR and it is very very hard to kill it.

The Rage - September 26, 2014, 10:18 am

Looks he scam more users & buyers ! before we saw more threads on him.

No one in HF has the ties to get top tier shit like that.

Btw Jack does not contain a bootkit & the bootkit is not stored in the mbr you inbred.

It's called cutting-cost and making more profit. I'm afraid this is how most of the bot shop selling install/load works ?

no its called scamming. if you went to a car shop and bought a brand new car but they gave you a second hand one you wouldnt just accept that as their way of "cutting costs" would you?

Yeah Bull is a known scammer, my scam report on him still is ongoing but I've lost faith in it, I just hope it deters more people from doing business with the guy.

All he does is scam the less knowledgeable and eventually one of them clicks and is like "Wait how can I only get 60 bots out of 1,000 loads?" and opens a scam report.

From what I've been told my thread alone has deterred about $3,000 of transactions from about 9 different people. I'm very pleased with this outcome myself.

sometimes i believe a unresolved deal dispute is more effective than actually getting your money back. you have severely disrupted a lot of cash going to that kid. if he refunded you you'd of more than likely closed the thread and he'd of had that 3k extra.

Yeah I guess. I mean I'm out of pocket but quite honestly the kid is an absolute asshole. He even threatened me when I said I was going to open a scam report and just "just watch yourself" and some other crap hinting that he was going to do something to me. He said something if I recall correctly he was going to "reverse engineer my file" aswell and he was going to organize for some sort of 'professional hacker' to deal with me.

Theres only one person on this whole website that has jackloader, promise you that. It's not bull.

TheCrazy8th - October 2, 2014, 5:04 am

The truth about bull:

Bull aka Armando came to hf and made everyone believe he was a russian botseller, but in the beginning he use to sell from another botshop, no name included, once he got betabot and andromeda he started buying stickies and ever since his botshop was open he has been scamming, but when someone post somthing negative he cries to staff to remove it.

So, he isnt russian, he is a scammer, and you shouldn't buy from him, and the only one who has jack is mystical, I highly doubt bull even get invited to the forum its sold on

I think that pretty much summed everything up. Nice post.

The fact he lies about where he's from to try & gain attention is creepy to say the least.

There will always be the assumption that bot sellers are botkillers. Generally because most people purchase installs and expect them to last a week or more.

But it is just an assumption until proven otherwise. If you have credible evidence then by all means open scam report or community alert with it uploaded. Otherwise its really just hear say and unfair to the botseller.

Does it really matter what bot he uses. Most sellers will use more than one. The ones that don't are pretty much out of business within a week or 2. If JL is $10k, I dont know, it is not unobtainable or out of price range to a few people on this forum. Some people are better at holding their cards to their chest than others.

Not only botsellers have beta and for them it makes complete sense to purchase installs and botkill because it essentially makes the bots as close to loads as they will get.

In no way, shape or form is selling someone $600+ worth of "loads" and then killing them (or even selling them knowing they won't last more than 24 hours) justifiable. If you bought $1k worth from Bull and then found out you had less than 200 bots, would you really shrug your shoulders and say "well the ones that don't are out of business?" I don't fucking think so.

I can't believe someone with such a good rep is scamming so many people here. I was about to ask about $300 worth of loads, I'm so glad that I read this first.

Well if you are buying loads then it would be impossible for the seller to bot kill these since your malware is spread on the EK directly. These dont come from his andro or beta at all. If they are dying fast after receiving tjem then this can be attributed to a number of possibilities. Bad crypt, crypt size, bad bot, existing malware on slave, the list can go on. This is not to say that installs are sold as loads but you should get a stat link when buying loads.

I am not defending any side here but I think its only fair to have some proof before going on a witch hunt.

Why not? He could easily be sending a URL visit from his existing botnet and then his Beta is auto-killing them, of course this can't be proven but from what legit members are saying about him I am much more inclined to believe them. I doubt this is due to a bad crypt in this instance. I've had a look around the forum and others have actually scanned the machines and say some of their bots have up to 7 servers and many of them 5 servers.

Looking at this completely objectively the conclusion is Bull is almost certainly a scammer.

Depends what you're using, betabot and andromeda and top tier shit like that is difficult to kill, so the guy with virus that has the biggest virus balls wins the battle.
