About iHydra

I believe I have a good amount of knowledge on what women and men look for in a relationship, along with some signs and decisions one needs to decide on for their potential relationship. I have helped many of my friends with relationships and it's been beneficial for them. I've seen a lot of relationships last for years or weeks and from that, I have a few things I follow when it comes to relationships and my advice comes from what I personally think of how a man or woman acts along with what I've witnessed with all these relationships between friends, family, and classmates.

What iHydra excels in

I wouldn't like to waste your time nor my time on topics I don't truly excel in so I'll be straight and forward with you. I have no experience with guy and guy or girl and girl relationships so I won't be of any help. I only have experience with girl and guy relationships. I am also not a doctor, so anything related to medical is something I may not be able to help you with. I don't mind looking into a medical condition for you but it's best you or whomever asks a doctor instead.

Why you should ask for advice

#1 reason to ask for advice from someone else is because you become blinded. It's psychology, if you like someone, you get blinded. Clouded judgements often are not the best, and they have the potential to end the chance of a relationship or ruin a current relationship. I wouldn't have a clouded judgement and the questions I would ask you allow me to get passed your clouded judgement a little so I can try to see the true side of the girl or guy you're trying to get with or with already. Another reason is you don't know what to do, out of ideas, and having a second opinion is always best in situations so critical and fragile.

How I will help you

Currently there is only one way, and this is through HF's Private Messaging system. You will contact me and I will reply with a set of questions, and it will be question/answer for a bit until I get enough information and then we will begin discussing your options and I will provide advice using what I have learned about you and your subject. You can use an alias for the girl(s)/guy(s), and nothing we discuss will be released to the public unless you give me permission to do so on your own terms. Basically it's confidential unless you ask me to tell others, but I will NEVER ask you permission for myself to share our conversation nor will I do it without your permission.

If you'd like advice for a relationship or girl/guy, please PM me using this link.

A few rules

I will not aid in anything illegal;

I will report you to staff of HackForums if you tell me something that breaks HackForums rules;

I will report you to the proper department if you tell me something that is life threatening and could pose a risk to public safety;

I will not disclose any information about other conversations with other people unless given permission by that client.

I don't like some of your rules. Other than that goodluck.

Like? They're all reasonable and there to protect me if anything were to arise. It also protects you because it's confidential to a limit(public safety).

Telling me you had sex, or went to a party and did meth, idc.

Telling me you killed someone or will bomb a building, you'll be reported.

Good to see a contribution from Red Lions, keep up the good work!

I wouldn't say that I don't like the rules, they're extremely fitting. It's just almost that it comes of as a terms of service. It feels like I'm purchasing your help, rather than you offering it to me.

Too bad people don't use these threads.. They think they should just post an entire thread.. This is why I've dedicated most of my time to replying to innuendo threads :).

Yea, I can see that. Adjusted the rules a little.

Thanks.

Sometimes people like to be private with their personal life so making a thread isn't the best way.

Me and my girl had a few arguments lately. And we spoke that we will leave together somewhere, anywhere, a new beginning.

Other day she left and I have no contact to reach her and her parents are saying I am guilty for this. No clue what to do, any advice?

Would you like to speak through PMs or are you fine through posts? Your choice.
