Kiseijuu: Sei no Kakuritsu
Parasyte -the maxim-

Description courtesy of Wikipedia

Based on Iwaaki Hitoshi's science-fiction horror manga by the same name.

The 17-year-old Izumi Shinichi lives with his mother and father in a quiet neighborhood in Tokyo. One night, worm-like aliens called Parasytes invade Earth, taking over the brains of human hosts by entering through their ears or noses. One Parasyte attempts to crawl into Shinichi's ear while he sleeps, but fails since he is wearing headphones, and enters his body by burrowing into his arm instead, taking over his right hand and is named Migi.

Because Shinichi was able to prevent Migi from traveling further up into his brain, both beings retain their separate intellect and personality. As the duo encounter other Parasytes, they capitalize on their strange situation and gradually form a strong bond, working together to survive. This gives them an edge in battling other Parasytes, who frequently attack the pair upon realization that Shinichi's human brain is still intact. Shinichi feels compelled to fight other Parasytes, who devour humans as food, while enlisting Migi's help.

I'm super hyped for this show, I've had it on my watch list since I found out there would be an anime adaption to the popular 90's manga counterpart. I don't watch many horror anime but recently I've found well done one's to be really enjoyable, I mean c'mon, Kiseijuu is even being produced by Madhouse. The first episode is still a few days away so prepare yourself ?

And please, for the sake of people that have yet to watch it, use spoiler tags.

Damn, the manga for this anime was amazing in my opinion.

Once I started reading, I could not stop and I ended up binge reading the entire series.

Can't wait for the premiere!

Tokey - October 5, 2014, 10:26 am

This looks promising, looking forward to it!

I'm pretty hyped right now, episode one should air tomorrow.

Madhouse you say? My interest is peaked, but the plot looks 2 derpy for me m8.

?????? - October 7, 2014, 10:45 pm

When I first heard of this, I wasn't sure if this'd be any good, but I saw a trailer a few weeks ago, and I'll definitely be watching it.

Rakshasa - October 8, 2014, 2:46 am

First episode is supposed to air today if I'm not mistaken. Looking forward to this.

Personally I'm glad they're adapting an old manga for once. Although Madhouse did make a few major changes in the character design department to modernize the atmosphere a bit, they will no doubt respect the plot and story progression in the manga, including the ending. Although it might take a few seasons, they will adapt it from start to finish I'm sure.

Never got around to finish reading the manga myself, but I do know people who absolutely love it. Enough to get me hyped.

Or better yet, a Blood-C, in which case I will proceed to kill myself.

Currently watching the first episode and I say this is actually pretty awesome.

What in the fuck did I just watch? Definitely going to be the most interesting show this season.

Bezo - October 8, 2014, 3:24 pm

Mad House just shit on every Censor heavy series this year.

Ang?l - October 8, 2014, 4:33 pm

Wtf did I just watch.

I don't understand why shows like Tokyo Ghoul get heavily censored and then you get shows like this that have no censoring at all it seems. Regardless, the first episode was really cool and left me with a lot of questions. It's going to be a bitch waiting a week between episodes.

I also really liked the music throughout the show.

I just downloaded it, can't wait to watch it sounds pretty good, loving the psychological sub genre's this season :D

Tokey - October 9, 2014, 12:33 am

Ended up watching this pretty late since I went to a party earlier. It was pretty good though, the plot seems solid so far and the main character isn't annoying af. The "parasytes" (I suppose is what you would call them) are pretty funky looking but they're also interesting and I want to see more from this series. Hope it holds up to some of the hype it's been getting. I like it so far.

Okay, I watched the first ep even though the plot sounded derp to me.

After watching it, I actually like it now. It was a trip, but besides F/SN this has to be my second favorite of the season.

I like the animation style and lol@ the boob grab. I wasn't paying attention much towards the end, so could you explain the ending to me? Was it showing how the parasite found him?

Someone can correct me on this if I'm wrong but I think

Spoiler (Click to View) If you're talking about the crazy motherfucker who stabbed that girl then I have no clue, but I remember the parasite speaking that it had no memories of before it found Shinichi. So I'm guessing just by chance, the parasite fell from the sky and attempted to infect the first living thing it comes in contact with, in this case being Shinichi.

Too far fetched. Guessing she knows something about the parasites or how they work, but that's about it.

Watched the second episode yesterday. Pretty good, but I have no fucking clue where they're taking this. On the second episode you'd think they'd at least started establishing some overarching objective to the story, but I still feel like the show could easily flop on plot basis. Have my hopes up, but I'm somewhat skeptical.

Animation is good as expected of Madhouse, and I love that there's no cancerous censorship. The music is my biggest problem. I can deal with techno/dubstep in soundtracks, but only using that type of music is just no. Not to mention the musical editor is a fucking retard. I'm not impressed.

Now I'm going to make some predictions just like I did with Tokyo Ghoul. ?

Spoiler (Click to View)

Satomi will end up with a parasite if she doesn't already have one. If she has one, the reason Migi can't sense it is because her parasite is unique. It's probably a rare species that emits really low

I'm kind of scratching my head on how and why do you think Shinichi is a "pussy". I thought his actions were reasonable regardless of how pathetic he may seem.

Spoiler \(Click to View\) If you're talking about the fights with the bullies, I still don't see it since he didn't run away and at least attempted to make things right. But if you're talking him killing his mother, I don't see how that would make him a "pussy" since it's his own mother and he'd probably end up blaming himself on how he killed her if he did end up killing her. So I find it understandable on why he would breakdown like that at the very end of the episode.

Spoiler \(Click to View\) If you're talking about the fights with the bullies, I still don't see it since he didn't run away and at least attempted to make things right. But if you're talking him killing his mother, I don't see how that would make him a "pussy" since it's his own mother and he'd probably end up blaming himself on how he killed her if he did end up killing her. So I find it understandable on why he would breakdown like that at the very end of the episode.

Because he's like every other damn shounen character in the world, he posses inhuman power but avoids using it for whatever reason.

"I have the power to catch all of these punches and fight back, but I think that's a dumb idea I'd rather get the shit beat out of me." I believe that's nearly spot on what was going through his head.

He showed he had the potential to fight in the cat scene, he isn't weak but he lets himself get beat up? Because he doesn't want to embrace the parasite? If that's the reason which is pretty blatantly obvious it is, this show is generic garbage which I didn't expect it too much to be and I'm dropping.

No seriously.

Just off the top of my head, similar anime include:

- Gokukoku no Brynhildr (Aliens and killing each other with blood)
- Mirai Nikki (Killing each other with blood)
- Shingeki no Kyojin
- Tokyo Ghoul
- Deadman Wonderland
- etc.

Like seriously, if you just want to watch a shounen series with more than average gore, there's quite a few other choices out there. Nothing really makes this series "unique".

TL;DR Generic for anyone who's watched enough anime.

Are you implying that "Killing each other with blood" makes a series generic? Every genre might as well be generic if we're going to look at it that way. The only series from that list that I consider similar would be Tokyo Ghoul. But they're the same genre(s) so you should expect some similarities.

Unless you can explain to me what part of Kiseijuu actually makes it different from most shounen series (aside from the blood thing), then yes, the "killing each other with blood" along with all the shounen tropes that are present makes this series generic.

Kind of but kind of not.

He's actually far Superior to all of the others he's fought so far at least, not like Bleach or Naruto where it's like a magical thing that they won.

I will say though I've read the ending of the manga and if it follows the mangas ending I'd say it's rather unique and not cliché in the slightest.

Exactly.

Spoiler (Click to View) Her not knowing about his mother's death led her to believe that Shinichi has changed for a whole different reason. But there is also the fact that Migi is basically blackmailing Shinichi, not guaranteeing what could happen to others if he revealed his secrets.

Spoiler (Click to View) It was obviously going to happen, she kept sticking her nose in dangerous business, I wasn't surprised at all. But now we get to see Shinichi transforming into a more ruthless individual. The scene where he throws the parasite through the wall is just out of this world

I thought there where suppose to be two episodes coming out this week?

Mikoto Urabe - December 24, 2014, 8:08 pm

I was a bit disappointed with this episode not because it wasn't good but because it got spoiled for me when I went to download it, I decided to read the comments on it and bam someone spoiled the ending. But it was a great episode non the less a tad bit slow paced sadly.

Spoiler (Click to View) It's a shame kana died but that bitch was like a lost puppy on a leash(get the reference?) and that shit she wrote on the wall was kinda psycho shit, I bet if she survived she would of had Murano go to the building and see that name and then she would drop all contact with shinichi.

So when will Murano die? I mean I hate her as much as I hate Kana as well. I mean she's just annoying just like kana with them stalking methods. Also now Shinichi acknowledges that he's not human anymore. >.< Can't wait for next episode!

Wow, this anime is constantly arousing feels.

Spoiler (Click to View) It was nice to see Migi showing slightly more acceptance toward humans.

Maybe it's possible Shinichi will find another human companion that Migi can confront without worrying about death.

Sad to see that Kana died though. But at the same time I'm kind of happy. Now Murano will stay number one, for now. I keep fearing how this anime is gonna progress though.

The next episode is apparently coming on the 7th January in 2015. Other than that, I'm a big fan of both the Manga Series and the Animation! It is truly a masterpiece. Oh boy we're up for a ride! I hope they get a somewhat different ending than the Manga, who knows what'll happen?

Spoiler (Click to View)It's hard to not feel bad for Reiko after this episode. I think she really understood what it means to be human, I mean she even said thank you (which up to this point hasn't been spoken by any parasite other than here I'm pretty sure.).

I'm not sure if it was all of his bottled up emotions, but Shinichi finally cried. I guess he's still more human than we all thought.

Also, I feel like Shinichi's cover is going to get blown pretty soon, maybe even in the next episode.

Chad ThunderCock - March 25, 2015, 7:16 pm

Spoiler (Click to View)Contemplating, giving it a 9/10 or a 10/10. I'll probably have to go with a 9/10.

The anime started absolutely great, amazing art/animation, amazing concept and pace, however about half way I felt like things started to get a bit too dragged down and made me lose some interest in the series, hence why 9/10 and not 10/10.

The last 5-7 episodes were absolutely amazing not even 10/10, straight up 11/10, definitely some of my favorite episodes out of all the anime I've watched, it has now joined my favorites list.

What could you wish for more in an anime? You got everything, action, romance, philosophy/psychological and it isn't afraid of killing important characters without going overboard.

Absolutely amazing. Might just give it 10/10 in the end since I remember having pacing issues with steins gate and also gave it 10/10

PS: End was perfect.

Spoiler \(Click to View\) They both fall from the roof and it shows their dead bodies, but then shows migi smiling hinting that they are still alive, but you choose what you want to believe. I thought they were going to do that with her not responding but then she talked and ruined the ending for me. Also they added "there's three more bodies over there" which you could take as them being dead. Are you fucking stupid? What manga did you read bro.

If the anime followed to manga exactly, is the manga still worth reading? I know it's supposed to be really good but is there any point since I watched the anime first?

I can live with that end.

Yupp.. I enjoyed that. :)

'thumbs up'

Loved Parasyte, one of my favourites certainly. I'll miss Kaneki and Migi :'(

Not really, the anime was pretty much faithful to the manga, literally faithful, most of the scenes were taken from the manga, you'd just be watching the same scenes in the manga that you've already seen in the anime with a bit less quality since the manga was from 20 years ago.

The one laying right next to me on my shelf.

Edit: Ope just reread it and it's not how I remembered it, oops.

Not just that, Madhouse did an amazing job modernizing everything too.

Here's some anime/manga comparisons for those curious about the differences:
