Thread: How to automatically download anything uploaded to my google drive

This is not really hacking but I don't know where else to put it.

Anyways, i want a script/ program/ way to automatically download any file to a computer that is signed into the Google account. Thanks in advance

This is really stupid but you could possibly have a bot on your computer running on scripts to click for you every 2-10 minutes or something. Have the cursor hover over the download button. And by the way your signature is great. xD

I suggest to try and use this.

Yeah..... this is actually a built in feature in Google Drive. Just download there program for Google Drive, sign into your Google account and then there you go!
