Dude, i think you have to fix the bug.

The software closes automatically and failes to update.

Also, have you fixed that it will automatically startup on the clients computer?

No need to crypt a rat if it disappears when the client restarts.

How can it be no dependency crypter when it is coded in C#?

I think of my personal knowledge, that you need to have Net Framework v2.0 atleast, to run C# programs.

And by the way, i just bought the crypter right now and cant wait to test it out.

I can't refer to any of free binder and icon changer.

You can get a free Icon changer online, but if you find any free binders online, its gonna be 99% of time a malware.

If the crypter doesn't have any injection in .NET Processes, it will never work.

Because an injected file can't call dependencies, if you inject a .NET file into a Native file, that won't work, if you inject a native file into a .NET file, that'll work, because the native file doesn't need dependencies, you can inject native file, in anything you want, you can't inject a dependant file in a native one, In case the crypter is injecting into ItSelf, i think, Autoit don't have any dependencies such as .NET Framework, that won't work, if you inject a .NET file into a not dependant file like AutoIT.

You can try to convert a NanoCore server to a "Native" File using the .NET Reactor method, last time I tested that doesn't work, but some change has been made on Nanocore you can try again.

That's autoit, without any injection, or just itself or native one, that can't crypt any .NET File.

I know how to crypt .NET with Autoit, you need to inject into a .NET Process, I forgot Infinity added a .NET Support Button :/

As i Know nanocore need ItSelf injection, but last time i tried with NanoCore, and injected into RegAsm.exe, that worked, I think since the last update, Aeon changed some things in the stub.

You're incredibly rude, unprofessional, and have the reading comprehension of a tick.

I didn't want your "Support & Troubleshooting", I wanted my money back, because your software contains Racism, and I don't support that in any way at all. Nor do I want to support a user who thinks it's funny to have it embedded in his software. Among, a handful of other reasons mentioned.

I understand you may take this as an offence but it is his crypter, his product. You chose to purchase it and that is final. I suggest making a list of issues and presenting it to him. Asking for a refund once again, maybe if you compile an in detail list of the issues with the product maybe he can better it.

As Infinity is unable to post:

An update was released containing:

- 1) new GUI
- 2) refud

3) embedded Scanner

Besides that a support section within Internetation Forums was set up for Immortal Crypter:

I really like this crypter. It stays FUD for several days for me. The only thing that I miss build in the crypter is a binder. Tho, there are other tools to bind so it's not a biggy. I think the build in virusscanner is great, and the new icon option is also lovely. Works a lot better then the icon changer I used first.

Often old malware requires EOF-Support in order to be crypted. Most of the stuff you can find on HF won't need it though.

The .NET Support gives you the ability to crypt files that are developed in the .NET Framework, such as NanoCore.

What does this do in terms of obfuscation or runtime code signatures?

Does running it on the same exe over and over again generate different results?

if so how random are they?

I am interested in using something like this to easier obfuscate my public cheat so it stays UD longer.

Does running it on the same exe over and over again generate different results?
if so how random are they?

I am interested in using something like this to easier obfuscate my public cheat so it stays UD longer.

Well reading this makes me laugh. I don't want to business with you, sorry.

It makes you laugh because you don't know what your product does?

I didn't want to use my own private obfuscation tools on my public cheats since I have spent a long time coding my code macro obfuscator/randomizer.

I'm not a virus skid so I have no idea what these shitty crypters do.

I've already decided to go another route since nobody from this section that I speak to really knows what to do anyway, and with all the time I've already wasted I could have written a different version for the public cheats already.

But since you are obviously a cunt glws. Probably just another copy pasted crypter.

Yes if you have no idea what a Crypter does then you should refrain from buying it.

And yes it makes me laugh because you are such a skid.

And no its not a copy pasted crypter. You don't even know what a crypter do, how can you even possibly start judging this one?

I'm a skid? Imfao guy I've been developing for 10 years. I know 6 languages fluently. And I have my own polymorphic engine.

I know what crypters do, but there are various ranges of crypters. Most just "encrypt" the data on the drive and patch the application or whatever you want into an application, mostly skidware tactics.

I was just wondering if this one was beyond the typical skiddie tools or if they offered anything other than useless stubs with shitty encryption algorithms. Because tbh I could make something like that in 1 days work.

But maybe in the future you act professional (I know this might be hard for someone who seems to be obviously about 15) but I started devving when I was 15 too and didn't write the way you do.

This is useless stubs with shitty encryption algorithms that I made in 2 days, a little extra time than yours, you win there, that provides stability to 600+ customers.

Are you kidding me? You say I should keep quiet if I don't know what your going through? Well you didn't know that I'm very satisfied with it, then maybe you shouldn't of posted. Lmao, your logic. Talk about Zeus is specifically forbidden by the help documents on hf, and many other crypters forbid the use of their crypter to be used with it in their T.O.S. Be happy you got a refund.

When you say the crypter has no dependencies....is the crypted file in C++?

What is the runtime fudness?

Crypter has no dependencies meaning it doesn't require your victims to have .NET framework installed.

Runtime crypter means when you execute your crypted file it still is undetected by AV. Runtime crypter uses RunPe module, which inject your malware with some process from task manager(like vbc.exe).

Looks like my reply was too harsh for you? Need someone to remove the truth from this shitty thread? whatever, thanks for a giveaway and not willing to give me the product again when it your fault with your HWID trash system. Every other program I use on this forum works fine.

EDIT: How can you remove an honest review on this product? The product description on the file is "DamnNigger Crypter" that's amazing. Take FUD out of the thread title because it isn't FUD at all, looks like a Visual Basic project you decided to do on the weekend for High School.

Took you long enough to think of a response, I'm glad I got this for free because I would never waste $20 on something like this. You take about 2 months to re-FUD the damn thing and it's never FUD. I guess you get what you pay for $20 lifetime is too good to be true.

Honest review: Program is half ass, never FUD, support sucks, and change the "DamnNigger Crypter" it makes this product look more shit then it already is.

You know what? Beggars can't be choosers. Get that shit in your head.

Support doesn't suck, if you fucking care to check my thread for it, go ahead and see for yourself.

Changing the the description of the program doesn't have to do anything with how the product works. Like I said Beggars can't be choosers

This x2. I no longer use this crypter, but when I did (not long ago) support was A+. The stub obviously isn't going to be FUD, but what is he supposed to do? Put "not rilly fud m8 but kinda" in the sales thread? All the morons will buy all the other crypters, which are all false advertising, even some of the expensive ones.

His "shit" hwid system sometimes screws up, but he has always been able to get me my license back in under an hour.

Beggars can't be choosers. Just imagine if you had 5000 randoms purchasing LIFETIME licences for 20$ only and have no f*cking clue what distribution is and can't read the TOS, scanning the shit on virustotal, and you had the job of re-FUDing it every time one of them complains.

If you don't have much money for a crypter, believe me, spreading with a crypter like this will still make it SO much easier then without one. Vouch.

Hi I just tested out the crypter I've bought from you to use with my NanoCore but It doesn't work unfortunately I did use you YouTube video to crypt my file but It doesn't I test It on myself and lots of other bots but still It did not work. The file crashed when I opened It the normal file worked like a charm en was connected within seconds. Also the file is not FUD and add 900kb to the stub but I would like a refund because It didn't work even tough you told me It would.

I paid with Bitcoin I got transaction IDs in saved up.

Getting high detection rates -

<http://www.refud.me/results.php?id=pjrpnjxtb0lmzrx6m9pvyqz xu2mhwre7ej>

Even though in this test it says norton and avast doesnt, it very much still does.

josimc - August 28, 2015, 9:41 pm

Yeah, I got a lot more detections than that... Sent him a PM with the link and waiting for a response.

There are so many icon based detections in the scan link you provided. I've told a lot of times over pm's to use hq icon, if the next time I get a scan link from you which has detections not stub related, I'll ban your license.

These detections are mostly not because of icon, Twister is because every file compiled using autoit 3.3.12.0 is detected by it, Eset Nod 32 is code fault, DrWeb is maybe Icon/Version Info, the other are also definitely code fault.

Ban my license? like Ive said before though, Even the ones with HQ icons IVE made or stubs that dont even include an icon still got detections. Im not trying to be a bother im just saying literally EVERY av ive put it up against detects it
