

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Suggestion for all aspiring GFX designers.

Veezon - October 24, 2014, 7:11 pm

I recommend that everyone who wants to get into GFX design or people who are already into it go to DaFont.com and just spend about 15 minutes downloading every font you see that you like.

Just doing this can be so useful and change a good design to an amazing design.

cortz - October 24, 2014, 8:49 pm

Eh no. Probably the worst suggestion for 'gfx designers'

Especially for those that can't (and those that think they can) differentiate LQ fonts. It makes your work look even more unprofessional.

Bass_Drop - October 25, 2014, 4:34 am

(Oct 24, 2014 08:49 PM)cortzetroc Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Eh no. Probably the worst suggestion for 'gfx designers'

Especially for those that can't (and those that think they can) differentiate LQ fonts. It makes your work look even more unprofessional.

Vouch, so much fkin vouch... Holy shit.

Hire - October 25, 2014, 4:35 am

Yeah, i suggest Open Sans Pro, looks very good to me :)

Bass_Drop - October 25, 2014, 4:37 am

(Oct 25, 2014 04:35 AM)Michelle Keegan Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yeah, i suggest Open Sans Pro, looks very good to me :)

Never heard of 'Open Sans Pro'.

They don't include it in the name.

Hire - October 25, 2014, 4:38 am

Source Sans Pro, my bad. Sorry.

<https://www.google.com/fonts/specimen/Source+Sans+Pro>