

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Preview of a twitch client

ElementalTree - November 1, 2014, 6:12 pm

Hey,

Created a Twitch Client and "finished" it today, just wanted to get some feedback on the looks and features of it, and maybe some ideas that could improve?

Spoiler (Click to View)

To connect to the chat you have to generate a password token, which you can do inside the app

Also has the feature of saving the username and token to do an auto-connect

Creds to Austrix for helping me with the chat

Hell yeah, could finally post with images and links :D

If you want to try it you can just pm me, got some bugs though

SIM-1847363 - November 1, 2014, 6:35 pm

Yeah i was talking to Austrix about this, he said you worked hard so i might have to try this later. Maybe a MiniView Function where you can have a viewing function that goes in the bottom right of the screen and it stays on top so you can do other work while you can still watch the stream.

ElementalTree - November 1, 2014, 6:40 pm

(Nov 1, 2014 06:35 PM)Nettro Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yeah i was talking to Austrix about this, he said you worked hard so i might have to try this later. Maybe a MiniView Function where you can have a viewing function that goes in the bottom right of the screen and it stays on top so you can do other work while you can still watch the stream.

Oh hi Nettro :)

Great idea, I could do that fairly quick. Will also add support for dual stream :) just pm me if you want to try mystrikhax - December 28, 2014, 9:38 am

Holy shit. How do you make this? I've been trying to search a tutorial on how to make a chat bot for twitch using VB.Net but i couldnt find it.

ubbelol - December 28, 2014, 9:41 am

There's another really good twitch client here: <http://www.twitch.tv/>

(Dec 28, 2014 10:38 AM)mystrikhax Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Holy shit. How do you make this? I've been trying to search a tutorial on how to make a chat bot for twitch using VB.Net but i couldnt find it.

Look into how to use IRC with VB.NET. That's what the twitch chat uses IIRC.

