Thread: Someone who is good at monetizing...

Police 10-13 - November 4, 2014, 6:50 pm

Ok, so I brought this ebook yesterday, and I'm new to monetizing online.. Im just wondering if someone could please help me earn a bit of cash from it..

I spent hours online last night with this method, but can't seem to find what the ebook says..

I know nothing about earning online at all.. So Im basically new.

TIA.

First of all, what is the product about generally? You do not go into detail about anything about the product and what you have done so I am assuming you would like to be contacted privately.

Have you contacted the author for support?

I've contacted the author but he hasn't replied for hours, I've asked for his skype and nothing.

Basically, it's the good ol' Craigslist sell, fiverr buy type of ebook..

I find someone in need of a certain thing, and go to fiverr and buy it and sell for higher, but I just can't do it! I searched for hours, and can't find anything.

I see. Have you tried searching for ads in other cities?

Another thing you may try is to look for companies that look like they need a graphical facelift. Look for some gigs on Fiverr with what would look good for them and pitch them an E-Mail stating you could redesign their site, page, ads, for X amount.

I'll give it a shot bud, thanks for that.

Ill let you know how I go :)

Also the thing is, every ad I've clicked on they all want a resume sent to them...

Send them a portfolio of some work of your Fiverr gig producers. If they are interested at all, they would contact you about it.

So when they say resume or cv .. they dont really want it, they just want some work "i've done"

Usually in a resume, you note down your skills and some sort of portfolio attached to show your work (especially in the graphic work world.) You would want to show your employer what you are capable of, so showing them your projects is the best.

So yes, they do want a resume style input, but since you are just a reseller of work you do not have one since you are not the artist at work.
