Thread: First Photo Manipulation in over a year!

zSerity - November 5, 2014, 2:31 pm

I know this should be in Graphics, but I felt like sharing it in more of an active section such as the lounge.

Recently I found my old portfolio from 1-2 years ago of around 20 of my photo manipulations, so it inspired me to try again and see what I could do.

Sorry if it has mistakes, I'm so rusty.

What I started with

The outcome (re-sized for hackforums)

If anyone wants the .psd to check out the layers, etc.
Or the full HD picture download, lemme know! ?

FreeAnneFrank - November 5, 2014, 2:32 pm

Rote - November 5, 2014, 2:35 pm

Wow, that's actually really good! Not going to lie. ?

It looks real even. I probably wouldn't have been able to tell the difference if you didn't show the files.

Thanks man, I should've matched up the darkness and contrast on the tiger and the rest of the images but didn't bother.

ItsFluffy - November 5, 2014, 2:48 pm

ok see this is the sh im talking about!!!!

i do not get how you set those layers like that as in, how do u get the water that is already there, in front of the tiger which would be a new layer

i would LOVE to see you do this kind of stuff live b/c my mind can't yet grasp how this kind of stuff is done

i really do like it. im not a PS pro but i can make some things look decent like my server thread i did but it's not this quality

It's basically all just on top of eachother, to give the illusion the waters legs are under water I simply cut off the tigers legs from his body, then lowered the opacity on the legs so they fade and slightly go blue.

Also I used two different water pictures, just positioned one in front of the other.

Masks is the way to go if you want to do that. ?

Grohl - November 5, 2014, 2:52 pm

Nice job. Masking is definitely the way to go, though.

?GMSora - November 5, 2014, 2:54 pm

Wow that's amazing. Wana do a tutorial? Would definately give it a few hours of spectation!

Vinster - November 5, 2014, 2:55 pm

Thats really awesome! Could I get the PSD to take a look at the layers/size it for my background?

VRUMM - November 5, 2014, 2:55 pm

That is definitely one wet looking tiger.

holy shit this photo looks really good i would give it a 10/10 good work!

ItsFluffy - November 5, 2014, 2:57 pm

ive been told before that you should use masks to do this kind of stuff but i still dont fully understand masks to be totally honest as for cutting his legs and lowering the opacity, i sort of get what u mean but still don't entirely follow b/c im a visual learner i rele need to see this stuff like in a desktop recording to be able to follow it and remember it

this image itself is practically an hd desktop wallpaper

Maybe. I might just record a speed art if I decide to do one again.

The hardest part is thinking about what to even make :/

Eh, the image isn't too HD for a desktop wallpaper.

As for masks, there are several tutorials here on HF in the graphics sector that will teach you how to use them.

Once you get the hang of it it's insanely easy.

The raw image itself is HD, it looks a little low quality cause I just used puush to download it in a smaller form

Ah I see.

Should use minus.com if they support it. ?

ItsFluffy - November 5, 2014, 3:32 pm

Are there any tutorials you know of that are in-depth enough to visually teach someone how to use and develop masks?

Jagster™ - November 5, 2014, 4:53 pm

its actually pretty good mate, better than what I could do!

You should get back to it I bet you could produce so sexy stuff

zSerity - November 5, 2014, 7:12 pm

Thanks for all the nice compliments guys :)

ItsFluffy - November 6, 2014, 12:17 am serity, if u know any good tutorials i should use please let me know or if ur going to make one let me know i need one to be step by step :)

Nofs.y - November 6, 2014, 10:16 am

Good job, the only thing I don't really like is the color correction, looks abit too dark for my preference but apart from that, very nice

iReflex - November 11, 2014, 7:52 pm

Can i download this? It would make a great desktop background! Really nice job?

Sedo - November 14, 2014, 6:20 pm

Wow dude that looks really nice I like how you put all of it correctly and nicely together.

Kasparas - November 15, 2014, 1:41 pm

Beautiful, love it, well done. Keep it up!
