Thread: Switching over?

Aur3xis - November 8, 2014, 11:48 am

Yo guys!

Soooo.... this will be the 7812378 time of me switching launguages...

I've been into Java last 4 months, i've got pretty smooth with it!

But im thinking of switching over to web developement!

What do you think guys? Worth it? Java just dosen't seem 'That' interesting anymore to me.

Is it worth it at all?

You make it sound like you have to completely abandon experimenting with Java in order to play with web dev. You can easily do both, in which case, I'd say yes. Do anything that piques your interest.

I don't say that im planning to COMPLETELY switch over to java, i'll 'combine them' but yeah... i just want to know if people think if its worth it or no ?

It's always worth pursuing an interest.

I'm not convinced. Why exactly are you trying to sell JS? It's pretty silly to claim a programming language is the best of all, just because you happen to enjoy it.

As im pretty smooth with java as of now, i think i'll just go and re-learn HTML/CSS from the basics and move on to JS and PHP! Thanks for all opinions ?
