

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Is this vouch begging?

em0tion - November 12, 2014, 2:34 am

Is this considered vouch begging, rather know before I report a post that's all, don't want to be in the wrong.

<https://imgur.com/kzdnHGS>

<https://imgur.com/edwoBXD>

<https://imgur.com/cYJEV9i>

<https://imgur.com/LVnp0Zh>

haffy - November 12, 2014, 2:40 am

If all he's doing is asking for vouch copies, then no, there is no rule that I'm aware of that disallows that.

Vouch begging would be begging people to vouch for his product.

Funtage - November 12, 2014, 2:41 am

Without looking at what the rule actually says, my view on it is that it is - it's at least behaviour that should be frowned upon anyway

Truzzie - November 12, 2014, 2:42 am

If the owner of the product doesn't offer vouch copies you can report it as vouch begging.

Vegas - November 12, 2014, 2:43 am

(Nov 12, 2014 03:40 AM)Hafnium Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) If all he's doing is asking for vouch copies, then no, there is no rule that I'm aware of that disallows that.

Vouch begging would be begging people to vouch for his product.

There IS a rule that specifically states it, and it is what the Vouch Begging report exists for.

It's disallowed to request a free 'vouch' copy of a product unless the seller explicitly states he/she is providing them.

em0tion - November 12, 2014, 2:45 am

Ok thanks for letting me know, appreciated.

BITW - November 12, 2014, 7:58 am

If OP offers vouch copies and if it's still available then user could ask for vouch copies(if he meets with seller requirements).

Else it's violating site terms.

Site rule -

Vouch Begging

No post or PM may contain any request or hint at vouch copies or any other term (as long as the spirit is asking for a product for free). Vouch copies are to be given out at the sole discretion of the user by clearly posting in his thread that he is giving away or has given out such copies. This option is not for posts vouching for a user (which breaks no rule).

Fish - November 12, 2014, 8:01 am vouch begging is when it says like "no vouch copes left, I'm not giving out vouch copes, etc" then you post asking for a vouch copy when OP said that there are no vouch copes its considered vouch begging