An early build has finally arrived for the Oneplus. A lot earlier than I expected. Keep in mind there are still a lot of bugs.

What has been reported to not work yet:Bluetooth

NFC

Network carrier text shifted oddly to the right

Weird things happen in gmail (lots of things have sent crashes apparently)

Trying to set an alarm will more than likely send your phone into bootloop

Keyboard crashes when swipe gestures are attempted (I presume on stock keyboard shit)

If you want to see more discussion/links from the OP head over to XDA

Two guides have been written by the same person on how to go about flashing the current lollipop build. One on XDA and one on OPO forums.

Ye, it's easy to do, it's just a matter of whether it's worth it or not.

All of the top devices usually get the latest updates pretty fast by 3rd parties.

We should soon see official CM nightly builds soon. :D
