

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: [Jobs for a 16-17 year old? \[Online based jobs?\]](#)

xMoD - November 16, 2014, 12:09 pm

Wondering if anyone knows any jobs someone my age could get preferably ones that are done from-home?

I'm doing a small lawn care service etc, and decided winter was a good time, besides fall, to start it due to all the snow in peoples driveways.

But what about jobs that I can do from home?

I couldnt give any examples besides something like telemarketing.

Anything computer related is even better, maybe some temp-tech support or something? o.O

Anything you guys got on mind would be helpful!

(Something that isnt location-dependent would obviously be best)

I really need the money, so I'm flexible!

Rote - November 16, 2014, 12:22 pm

Making websites for people and perhaps creating apps, just make a fun little simple game with some ads

NJKL - November 16, 2014, 12:23 pm

You can try to mine dogecoins. But first you need to make an investiment, good luck.

Stealth Byte - November 16, 2014, 12:25 pm

I am also wondering this same, i cannot create websites nor apps as i don't know much HTML, and for apps i would need a mac.

Excedrin - November 16, 2014, 12:28 pm

just go buy a ebook in the ebook section and attempt to make money online or get my free ebook in my sig

Credibility - November 16, 2014, 12:31 pm

(Nov 16, 2014 01:25 PM)Stealth Byte Wrote: CITE I am also wondering this same, i cannot create websites nor apps as i don't know much HTML, and for apps i would need a mac.

Learn it. And learn another language. I'm 19 now, and plan to get into the IT field after getting a degree in networking and my biggest regret is not learning a coding language.

I was learning LUA, though I don't think it counts, before Orange Box update on CS:S when scripting was really big I made scripted aimbots and sold those off.

I wish I would've learned something that actually helps in the real world. I've been considering learning one lately, not too sure where to start.

BTW; Buy and sell stuff, or if you're big into gaming boost accounts or start services like such.

firefusion - November 16, 2014, 1:25 pm

I would advise you to learn a skill such as programming. Learn it young, gain the experience, and freelance (here is a good start). That's what I did, after making some nice money freelancing, I got a full time job in web development as a result of the experience I got with the freelancing.

xMoD - November 16, 2014, 1:26 pm

Really the only suggestion is web site creation. (I really dis-like android app dev.) But website creation I can do.

Ninjadoll - November 16, 2014, 1:29 pm

one good way is websites or offer services that your good at. say for instance on Fiver. i started doing small time websites for people and i learned wordpress. i dont have a stable income off it but its good to start out with.

Ryan Cleary - November 16, 2014, 1:44 pm

Minecraft servers.

I make $2000 monthly from them. That's 1/4 of how much a doctor makes monthly and I'm still going to school.

MrOrang - November 16, 2014, 1:47 pm

If you know any programming langue you could start a little service on here or you could start a little tech support for people living near you.

iNarrateYourLife - November 16, 2014, 1:53 pm

I made $50 in a few hours of snow shoveling.

ChristianIce - November 16, 2014, 1:53 pm

You can eWhore, actually you get some Green if you are good

Flacko. - November 16, 2014, 2:16 pm

If you are able to access craigslist, try and look for jobs on there.

Eagerkid - November 16, 2014, 2:22 pm

You can buy and sell currency, and or code stuff like games/websites if you know how to do it