The Online Gold Mines of 2015

Hello HackForums, this is a thread about where the online gold mines will be in the year of 2015. Jumping on these gold mines early is always better and will get you more for less. We are living in the day and age where millions / billions are easily accessible by those with the right mindset and ambitions and having the right mindset and ambitions is also easily accessible if you put your mind to it. If you are the type of person who aims to achieve more in life, such as living a wealthy life, continue reading, if not, wait for my thread on positive mindsets and how to achieve more in life.

Smartphone Applications

This is a topic and a business that has dominated the online world for many years running now and is getting larger everyday. Smartphone applications have the potential to become huge successes and earn their creator's billions.

One example of this is SnapChat, an application that allows users to take photographs (or "selfies") of themselves and send them to their friends via the SnapChat app, only once they have viewed it for a set amount of seconds, it is deleted forever. For just this app alone, the app has over 100 million downloads (Android+iOS combined) and the creator has been offered $3,000,000,000 (3 billion) to buy the application by Facebook, who also purchased WhatsApp for $19,000,000,000 (19 billion) and also bought Instagram for $1,000,000,000 (1 billion).

The great thing about applications is, as they are right now, anyone can get on it, the only difficulty is finding an idea that is worth sharing with friends. Right now, I am finding the most successful and best apps are apps that help people socialize and connect with friends. Now, the idea behind the app has to be unique, it can't just be your regular old IM. The idea must be very unique (the app I am developing has a very unique idea behind it) and this means improvising. If you was to do a chat one, a function that could draw the users attention would be the ability to delete messages from both your device and theirs so it is like it never existed or was sent, however, this isn't a niche and couldn't base an app around it, just an extra function.

The trick is, to have a feature in your app that makes socializing and connecting with friends easier / fun.

Bitcoin

Since 2012, Bitcoin has always been on my list of gold mines, however, I have never actually invested myself. Bitcoin will still grow, it will always grow, the main hope with Bitcoin is that it can become the first worldwide currency accepted by every country and in every store. This coin gets closer to it's goals everyday and the closer it gets, the higher the price goes. Bitcoin could potentially rise to $15K / BTC one day, most likely even more, this is not guaranteed but it has the potential to do so. When investing in BTC, you want to know what you're doing, talk to a BTC expert on the forum or elsewhere before investing. I would always recommend investing at the start of the year or in summer, these times tend to be the hot times for Bitcoin.

Bitcoin is something that is certainly worth investing in if you have the money to do so.

Nanotechnology

Nanotechnology is the technology of the future. It will eventually change the world with a series of revolutionary breakthroughs in the technology. I would highly recommend jumping on the wagon now as in the near future, this will be the technology in every computer system. The good thing about nanotechnology is that it can be used ANYWHERE. It can be used for computers, clothing, food, ANYWHERE. I'm not an expert on the topic so I couldn't recommend you where to invest but if I had to hazard a guess, I would tell you to invest into shares of a company that is looking to revolutionize the world with nano science.

You can post here of course, eventually, I'd like to go with this and interview users to post in articles.
