

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Sports World -> Personal Life Forum

Oak - November 24, 2014, 8:26 pm

It's not a big deal, just thought that Sports World would now fit better under the Personal Life forum than The Lounge.

INB#4 (Click to View)

Quote:4. Layout Suggestions. I control the design of this site. I don't want to know what you think is better.

I could see how you think this is a Layout Suggestion, but I don't consider this design nor layout (theme), I consider this a logical location.

TL;DR:

The Fro - November 24, 2014, 8:39 pm

I fail to see how a subforum dedicated to talking about sports is in any way personal.

Oak - November 24, 2014, 8:41 pm

(Nov 24, 2014 09:39 PM)Valderino Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I fail to see how a subforum dedicated to talking about sports is at all personal.

I would say that sports are entirely personal, isn't that the very definition of a fan?

Definition (Click to View)

A majority of these threads, even if not entirely about being a fan, seem pretty personal to me.

Pic (Click to View)

Sports are entirely personal imho. I also think it'd fit better there than in The Lounge of all places.

Wheezy Gang - November 24, 2014, 8:45 pm

Although I totally understand what you are getting at, the lounge is usually a place for discussion. Therefore sports being sub forum of lounge, is logical as there is discussion about sports. Just my 10 cents.

The Fro - November 24, 2014, 8:47 pm

(Nov 24, 2014 09:41 PM)Sir Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I would say that sports are entirely personal, isn't that the very definition of a fan?

Definition (Click to View)

Sports are entirely personal.
I also think it'd fit better there than in The Lounge.
What.

We have to use the second definition given. Under the first definition almost anything would be considered personal. Did you create some graphic art? Better move all the graphic sections to the personal section.

Now look at the Sports World section. It's all about the professional world. So unless we have some HF members who are in the NBA, NFL, etc. who want to talk about their personal sports related struggles, there's nothing personal about that section.

If you want to talk about how you're performing in sports / how to get better, then that belongs in health wise, but that's the only case I see where sports could be considered personal.

(Nov 24, 2014 09:41 PM)Sir Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I would say that sports are entirely personal, isn't that the very definition of a fan?

Definition \(Click to View\)

A majority of these threads, even if not entirely about being a fan, seem pretty personal to me.

Pic \(Click to View\)

Sports are entirely personal imho. I also think it'd fit better there than in The Lounge of all places.
Fixed that picture for you:

Oak - November 24, 2014, 8:53 pm

(Nov 24, 2014 09:47 PM)Valderino Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What.

We have to use the second definition given. Under the first definition almost anything would be considered personal. Did you create some graphic art? Better move all the graphic sections to the personal section.

Now look at the Sports World section. It's all about the professional world. So unless we have some HF members who are in the NBA, NFL, etc. who want to talk about their personal sports related struggles, there's nothing personal about that section.

If you want to talk about how you're performing in sports / how to get better, then that belongs in health wise, but that's the only case I see where sports could be considered personal.

"We have to use the second definition given." Lolwat. Because fuck logic.

My point still stands imo, this is merely a suggestion. I think it'd make more sense under Personal Life to talk about your favorite team, who you think will win the championship, and what kind of stretches are good for playing basketball, etc. The Lounge is a worthy overarching forum too, but that would mean Pet Peeve should go there too, Vices as well. Personal Life exists for a reason, thus Sports World should be relocated.

EDIT: Do I really need to highlight how many times people said "Your?" Or can you make that step on your own? What's an opinion if not your personal opinion?

Tonight - November 24, 2014, 8:55 pm

For great discussions on various subjects and to have some fun relaxed topics you can enter our Lounge. Read the rules in the forums as trolling, spamming, or flaming are not allowed.

The Fro - November 24, 2014, 8:55 pm

(Nov 24, 2014 09:53 PM)Sir Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) "We have to use the second definition given." Lolwat. Because fuck logic.

I'm sorry, were you incapable of reading the sentence that immediately followed that?

Quote:My point still stands imo, this is merely a suggestion. I think it'd make more sense under Personal Life to talk about your favorite team, who you think will win the championship, and what kind of stretches are good for playing basketball, etc. The Lounge is a worthy overarching forum too, but that would mean Pet Peeve should go there too, Vices as well. Personal Life exists for a reason, thus Sports World should be relocated.

Of course, if you just ignore any argument against you, you will believe that yours still stands.

Personal and professional are opposites.

I've proven that the Sports World is a subforum dedicated to professional sports.

I think it's obvious that the personal section is dedicated to personal things.

Therefore, the Sports World subforum does not belong in the Personal Life forum.

Oak - November 24, 2014, 9:00 pm

(Nov 24, 2014 09:55 PM)Valderino Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I'm sorry, were you incapable of reading the sentence that immediately followed that?

Of course, if you just ignore any argument against you, you will believe that yours still stands.

Personal and professional are opposites. I've proven that the Sports World is a subforum dedicated to professional sports. I think it's obvious that the personal section is dedicated to personal things. Therefore, the Sports World subforum does not belong in the Personal Life forum.

The first definition details that anything can be personal. You can't dismiss a definition just because you don't like it, try that in court bud. You won't get far.

I have sufficiently responded to your arguments from a rational standpoint. Yet you ignore mine. The same could be said to you.

Where does it at all say "Professional?" Anywhere. Please show me. The very information on the subforum is "For sports discussions like football, basketball, MMA, baseball, and hockey we have this forum just for you. Please keep all sports topics here." Are discussions not inherently personal?

You've made your point, I've made mine. Let's not let this degrade into foolish debauchery and part ways amicably.

b?xxy - November 24, 2014, 9:02 pm

I personally disagree with this...

The Lounge just seems like the better place since sports are where people chill out and watch you know?

:/

Roger Waters - November 24, 2014, 9:03 pm

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=1363259>

Based on this thread, the Sports World section is no way personal, and some topics that would be posted in there should be posted in other sections.

Tonight - November 24, 2014, 9:03 pm

Woah, you really rustled Sir's jimmies when he brings out 'advanced' vocabulary.

Oak - November 24, 2014, 9:08 pm

(Nov 24, 2014 10:02 PM)b?xxy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I personally disagree with this...

The Lounge just seems like the better place since sports are where people chill out and watch you know?

:/The same thing could then be said for Vices then. Just chill out and take.

(Nov 24, 2014 10:03 PM)Roger Waters Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#)

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=1363259>

Based on this thread, the Sports World section is no way personal, and some topics that would be posted in there should be posted in other sections. That thread doesn't say anything about it being personal or not personal?

Furthermore:

Personal Life (Click to View)

I would very much say that sports contribute to the identity of individuals, as people follow a specific team and watch sports in a very personal atmosphere. Fights occur over sports, people gamble over sports, people watch sports: all personal things.

The Fro - November 24, 2014, 9:09 pm

(Nov 24, 2014 10:00 PM)Sir Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The first definition details that anything can be personal.

You can't dismiss a definition just because you don't like it, try that in court bud. You won't get far.

The definition was not dismissed 'because I don't like it', it was dismissed because it was too broad.

Why not move the SRPP to 'Personal Life' after all, people are expressing their PERSONAL views on things.

Why not move the Anime section to 'Personal Life' after all, people are expressing their PERSONAL views on anime.

Why not move the Music section to 'Personal Life' after all, people are expressing their PERSONAL views on music.

If we did as you suggest, we'd lose a huge number of vast subforums, and for what? Because there's a personal aspect to something? Guess what. Every poster here except for maybe Motherlode and Vitani is a person, and their posts are going to be personal, but just because that's the case doesn't mean that their posts belong in the personal life section.

Quote:Where does it at all say "Professional?" Anywhere. Please show me. The very information on the subforum is "For sports discussions like football, basketball, MMA, baseball, and hockey we have this forum just for you. Please keep all sports topics here." Are discussions not inherently personal?

Yes. They are inherently personal, hence the need to either:

- 1) Restrict the definition of personal
- 2) Move every discussion to the personal life forum.

Quote:You've made your point, I've made mine. Let's not let this degrade into foolish debauchery and part ways amicably.

How about you junk this thread if you have a modicum of respect for yourself.

Oak - November 24, 2014, 9:12 pm

(Nov 24, 2014 10:09 PM)Valderino Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The definition was not dismissed 'because I don't like it', it was dismissed because it was too broad.

Why not move the SRPP to 'Personal Life' after all, people are expressing their PERSONAL views on things.

Why not move the Anime section to 'Personal Life' after all, people are expressing their PERSONAL views on anime.

Why not move the Music section to 'Personal Life' after all, people are expressing their PERSONAL views on music.

If we did as you suggest, we'd lose a huge number of vast subforums, and for what? Because there's a personal aspect to something? Guess what. Every poster here except for maybe Motherlode and Vitani is a person, and their posts are going to be personal, but just because that's the case doesn't mean that their posts belong in the personal life section.

Yes. They are inherently personal, hence the need to either:

- 1) Restrict the definition of personal
- 2) Move every discussion to the personal life forum.

How about you junk this thread if you have a modicum of respect for yourself.

They indeed could be, but that is not the issue here. Each of those sections have earned their own individual section, while I am merely saying that Sports World would fit better under Personal Life than The Lounge.

Naw. I still think it'd fit better. Thank you for your opinion, though. Your thoughts are very much appreciated.

Tonight - November 24, 2014, 9:13 pm

Why in hell are you posting definitions like that makes any difference? The decision is at Omni's discretion, not some google search.

b?xxy - November 24, 2014, 9:14 pm

(Nov 24, 2014 10:08 PM)Sir Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The same thing could then be said for Vices then. Just chill out and toke.

That thread doesn't say anything about it being personal or not personal?

Yeah, but we all got tired of seeing drug discussion in the lounge, so Omni made the section..

The Fro - November 24, 2014, 9:15 pm

(Nov 24, 2014 10:08 PM)Sir Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That thread doesn't say anything about it being personal or not personal?

1) Look at this picture: <https://i.imgur.com/e3Mh7xx.png> and tell me that there is ANY discussion of teams or players that are not in the professional leagues.

If yes, then post them. Otherwise, the section is considered professional.

2) Professional is an opposite of personal.

If no, then tell me why. Otherwise, professional is the opposite of personal.

If you answered no and then yes, then you have you answer. The section doesn't belong in the personal life forum.

(Nov 24, 2014 10:12 PM)Sir Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) They indeed could be, but that is not the issue here. Each of those sections have earned their own individual section, while I am merely saying that Sports World would fit better under Personal Life than The Lounge.

Naw. I still think it'd fit better. Thank you for your opinion, though. Your thoughts are very much appreciated.

Ah okay, so we should move it because you say so? Because that's the only argument you have left standing, unless you want to refute mine?

Oak - November 24, 2014, 9:16 pm

(Nov 24, 2014 10:13 PM)xadamxk Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Before this thread turns into a flame fest, why don't you just close the thread Sir and wait to have Omni see it? I doubt it will degrade into a flame war, as a flame war requires two or more people. I won't let a few comments get the better of me.

I'll admit the relocation is iffy in its relevance to Personal Life, but my perspective is that it would both fit and be organized better under said forum. Sports World and The Lounge just don't mix imo, unless there were more abstract subforums within The Lounge. The discussion of and interest in sports is inherently personal, meaning it would fit within Personal Life if deemed necessary.

Roger Waters - November 24, 2014, 9:17 pm

(Nov 24, 2014 10:08 PM)Sir Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The same thing could then be said for Vices then. Just chill out and toke.

That thread doesn't say anything about it being personal or not personal?

Furthermore:

Personal Life (Click to View)

I would very much say that sports contribute to the identity of individuals, as people follow a specific team and watch sports in a very personal atmosphere. Fights occur over sports, people gamble over sports, people watch sports: all personal things.

The American 'Big Four' = Sports World

Other popular offshore sports = Sports World

Professional Fighting = Sports World

Alternative sports = Sports World

The Olympics = Sports World

Dieting = Personal Life

Personal Fitness = Personal Life

Player news = News / Happenings

Gambling = Not Allowed

Now, let's take a look at the current threads of that section.

Image (Click to View)<https://i.gyazo.com/ba17a45a4c4f322ef0e512786387e216.png>

Do you see anything that could be relating to one's personal life? To me, it looks like people are discussing sports teams. It is a rare occasion to see someone post about them playing a sport, so rare that it doesn't account for even a reasonable percentage of threads in that section. With that being said, there is no need to move the forum into the Personal Life section.

Oak - November 24, 2014, 9:22 pm

(Nov 24, 2014 10:17 PM)Roger Waters Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The American 'Big Four' = Sports World

Other popular offshore sports = Sports World

Professional Fighting = Sports World

Alternative sports = Sports World

The Olympics = Sports World

Dieting = Personal Life

Personal Fitness = Personal Life

Player news = News / Happenings

Gambling = Not Allowed

Now, let's take a look at the current threads of that section.

Image (Click to View)<https://i.gyazo.com/ba17a45a4c4f322ef0e512786387e216.png>

Do you see anything that could be relating to one's personal life? To me, it looks like people are discussing sports teams. It is a rare occasion to see someone post about them playing a sport, so rare that it doesn't account for even a reasonable percentage of threads in that section. With that being said, there is no need to move the forum into the Personal Life section.

Yes, almost all of them are personal to me in that each poster is intrinsically personal about the team they support, the thoughts they carry, and the conversations they make. Seeing as Personal Life is so broad, there is no direct definition that would adequately scope its relevance. I am merely saying Sports World would fit better under Personal Life than The Lounge, as sports are inherently personal in nature. Not that it is as relevant as Vices or Health Wise, just that for the sake of organization and optimization, it would fit better there. Nothing more, nothing less.

Tonight - November 24, 2014, 9:24 pm

(Nov 24, 2014 10:22 PM)Sir Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yes, almost all of them are personal to me in that each poster is intrinsically personal about the team they support, the thoughts they carry, and the conversations they make. Seeing as Personal Life is so broad, there is no direct definition that would adequately scope its relevance. I am merely saying Sports World would fit better under Personal Life than The Lounge, as sports are inherently personal in nature. Not that it is as relevant as Vices or Health Wise, just that for the sake of organization and optimization, it would fit better there. Nothing more, nothing less.

You really love to tangle up somewhat coherent words to better suite your argument, don't ya?

The Fro - November 24, 2014, 9:28 pm

(Nov 24, 2014 10:26 PM)xadamxk Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Now that Roger mentions it, a matter of what topic is personal really just depends on your taste, no?

I think the iOS & iDevice should be in the personal life section, but that's just me.

I believe the Currency Exchange section should be in the personal life section. Does anyone else feel the same way? Going to open a thread about this now...

Tonight - November 24, 2014, 9:28 pm

(Nov 24, 2014 10:26 PM)xadamxk Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Now that Roger mentions it, a matter of what topic is personal really just depends on your taste, no?

I think the iOS & iDevice should be in the personal life section, but that's just me.

Well if it is intrinsically personal to you, why not?!

Seeing as Personal Life is so broad, there is no direct definition that would adequately scope its relevance!

Oak - November 24, 2014, 9:30 pm

(Nov 24, 2014 10:26 PM)xadamxk Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Now that Roger mentions it, a matter of what topic is personal really just depends on your taste, no?

I think the iOS & iDevice should be in the personal life section, but that's just me.

I agree with you, perhaps you should go post a thread here. They're very accepting and respecting of others' opinions. You'd fit right in :)

However, regardless of your attempted trolling, this is exactly my point. For organization and optimization, it'd fit better under Personal Life. It may not be the most relevant, but it is relevant.

Lol@Sat, five posts and zero fucks given by anyone.

Tonight - November 24, 2014, 9:33 pm

(Nov 24, 2014 10:30 PM)Sir Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Lol@Sat, five posts and zero fucks given by anyone.

You were doing so good trying not to acknowledge me, but I knew you'd break. I win again. :~)

Also, fyi, all three of the above users are pm'ing me in friendly conversation as we speak, so wrong again.

Anyway - Just because people think what you're saying is stupid (and we do) doesn't mean we're trolling. Get that through your thick adolescent skull.

Oak - November 24, 2014, 9:45 pm

(Nov 24, 2014 10:34 PM)xadamxk Wrote: CITE No no no, I actually was not trolling. Just trying to make a point that what's considered personal is up to who you ask, atleast that's how I see it.

I do agree that the site needs some type of break down, splitting some sections up an
It is indeed, as I've learned by posting this thread.

That is entirely my point, it was never meant to get so deep into "Define Personal" - which is my folly for bringing definitions into the thread - just that HF could use some general reorganization, and I see Sports World -> Personal Life being a beneficial relocation.

Viral Dragon - November 25, 2014, 7:08 am

No. If Omni wanted it to be there, he would have put it there in the beginning from the get go. And yes, this is a layout suggesting. They're auto denied and closed. If Omni ever finds himself browsing this section and wants to comment, then he can. Way too much flaming going in here anyway.

-Viral.