Thread: [\[Phoenix\] Free Compliments :\) A giveaway to all members.](#)

Woden - December 2, 2014, 2:00 pm

Introduction: I have done this several times by myself but I got into Phoenix a couple of weeks ago and so I wanted to open one up in its name :)) Please note that this is only done to bring smiles to people and no other reason (had to say this beacuse someone last time tried to claim I was only doing this for attention)

General rules: The only thing that is required is for you to have at least 200 posts. If you have less it would be hard to try and found something to compliment you on.

What we will do: Anyone of the approved helpers will go through your profile and your posts and try to find something we like about you.

Official Phoenix Helpers

A message for Phoenix Members ~ I probably dont have to mention anything because you are all so kind but make sure to have legit wholehearted compliments. Not little things like "Your signature is cool".

Hello :) Thank you! Was this a post asking for one or just saying its a cool idea? Hahahah. I can give you one anyways :)

Well it looks like you just did a BTC giveaway which is awesome! Keep up the good work man :) Im also really surprised you got that username. I love that game so much.

Dean Winchester? - December 2, 2014, 2:06 pm

I'd love a compliment from a noob ?

Feel free to add me to the list of complimenters, I'll try to compliment all I can, but I can't guarantee anything.

Well Mapl3, looks like you have made some amazing and useful tutorials for Linux. And although they may seem simple to others, you should know that every little helps and I would encourage you to do more. Things such as tutorials in a specific section as significant as the Linux section on the forums gets noticed very quickly, and you may even end up in the HF News! Outstanding tutorials matey, keep it up. <3

Heyo! Although you do not have that many threads, you still are actively participating in solving personal issues as well as helping out the forum at the same time... whether you know it or not.

By asking the questions you have in your threads, you are assisting SO many people who will also have the same question and that are in the same spot as you (or were). Your overall persona on the forums is rather good, and I like the attitude you are displaying throughout your posts and post activity. Keep up the awesome work mate, you're doing fantastic!

Baely,

Your assistance in the eWhoring section of the forums does NOT go unnoticed. I love the work and effort you are putting into this particular section and I encourage you to continue. I myself used to do decent in eWhoring and starting out was extremely tough considering I had no idea what I was doing, but because of you, new people today are able to understand that much more and it will help them succeed in that business. You seem to be active in several sections including the Lounge (which leads me to believe you're extremely sociable and friendly), Visual Basic and .NET Framework (which is something I have no idea about, but I know it's technical jargon for intelligence. :P) and Free Services and Giveaways finally. (This leads me to believe you're both very charitable, and friendly with others. You appreciate something when given to you, as well as enjoy giving away to others.)

All around you're intelligent, fast paced, and quite friendly with people.

If I missed anyone or swapped someone around please let me know, I did everyone one after another, and I don't want to mix things up. :P

The fact that you are stating I cannot find something to compliment you on, is in itself a compliment.

This is why:

Due to your inconsistency in posting in specific sections, you are a wildcard that is always making people laugh and have a good time, sometimes in the most serious threads. You are a great personality on the forum, simply by looking over your threads and posts, you are consistently funny (even if you don't mean to be). Everyone has something to be complimented on, so don't say there isn't anything because there is, and for you my friend, its being absolutely unpredictable... in the most positive way.

From what little I've gathered, I can see that you are one of those creative minds that has yet to lose their determination. You work often with graphics enough to have made something of a presence here, but you dabble in other things as well. Ewhoring takes charisma, so you're clearly not socially inept and can probably talk your way out of things (Or rather, into them). This is also evident by how much of a lounge whore you are, like me, which I just love seeing from anyone (:

You seem to take a moderate interest in hacking so if I can close with a bit of advice:

The unknown takes our minds to strange and awesome places. Exploration is vital to our own sanity, but do not let your curiosity land you in a hole from which you cannot climb out. It is much more useful to watch and learn than to act and regret.
