Thread: Profiles Hidden from Ignored

Omniscient - December 3, 2014, 12:57 pm

If you use the ignore list on HF then I've added a feature for all upgraded members that you should like.

Anyone on your ignore list cannot view your profile. They will be blocked. Could come in handy when ignoring those who stalk and harass.

Enjoy.

Simply™ - December 3, 2014, 12:57 pm

Nice. Sounds like a nice change, thanks for adding this.

Now the people who scam. can just ignore the person they scam.

Q1W2E3 - December 3, 2014, 12:59 pm

People will do this mid argument to stop people leaving rep on their profile. For example, if I was upgraded, I could negative rep someone then block them and they couldn't retaliate. Has this been thought about.

You can still rep someone without needing access to their profile.

Scymo - December 3, 2014, 1:02 pm

Couldn't this be used to block someone after scamming them for money, and then potentially causing havoc for the person trying to conduct a scam report?

Someone add me to your ignore list, please.

Not really, if you are smart you should save all his information Before even making a deal with someone on HF. Like screenshot every piece of intel with gyazo or something. It isn't that hard and that should be necessary with or without the ignore tool.

Staff needs it because we can do quick actions like edit user or ban them from that page. Mods do not have warn, ban or edit ability on profiles.

Quote:This is a scammers heaven tool. Because they can block people right after deals and just change their name.

That doesn't matter. You only need UID anyways. And you can still view their reputation and give them rep.

I just think it makes sense that when you ignore someone you block them from your profile. I came up with this because Twitter has now added the feature and so have other major social networking sites. No reason that when you block someone they should be able to view your page.

On that same concept I will be working to add additional viewer information for anyone on your buddy list.

Well shit. This will just make everything more difficult when doing stuff. If I wanted to view someone's posts, threads, reputation, etc. I could just go to their profile. Now I have to know the URL and replace the UID with theirs. A bit more tricky, but I see no purpose in this at all.

This is not something I like, even though not a lot have me on their ignore list. But who cares about my opinion anyways.

Why does the member need to view their actions? They should just open a scam report and if they're upgraded they can still leave a rep if they want.

brian188246 - December 3, 2014, 3:00 pm

Hm.. I'm not really sure how I feel about this.

In the long run I don't really see it effecting me personally, but I see some potential for harm.

Here's one example of a situation on where I think this may be harmful.

There's a member who scammed you in currency exchange. You make a report take all the appropriate action, they add you to their ignore list. Now, you want to make sure that they're not posting more exchange threads looking to scam others, but they have you ignored. You can't monitor the section all day, and some inexperienced users just look at the number rep, not the actual descriptions.

Maybe instead of not being able to see their profile, just their "status" is hidden?

I would like to see view some opinions on the scenario I gave.

Nevertheless, always nice to see additional features being added.

Just curious, that's all. I know many of the mod links for a user are on the user's profile so could be some abuse there

No, they will still be able to see your profile. Something along the lines of admin/staff being able to easily warn/ban members. But it will work for mentors.

This is a great feature for scammers lol, good job Omni.

tweety - December 3, 2014, 3:12 pm

Omni, I found a slight problem while I started mass adding people to my profile. If they have me on their ignore list, how am I meant to add them to MY ignore list, since I can't view their profile?

Fixy wixy.

You can still add people to your ignore list without access to their profile page.

10/10, probably one of my favorite updates this year.

Could you make it so that only people in your friends list can see what page you are currently viewing?

Or even maybe ub3r ep1cs have the option to toggle on/off thread viewing for public.

Similar to how you can show or hide your age on profile.

I really really like this idea. Be all ninja and shit. ?

Aura 2.0 - December 3, 2014, 4:42 pm

To make it easier we should be able to add users to our ignore list via their UID.

Might make it difficult to find one of their posts to get to their reputation.

I was skeptical of this at first but now I think it's a very good implementation, considering the amount of stalkers I've had in the past.

I just cleared my block list and this thing gets implemented :C

@Spart. You're completely off-topic. And you just got a nasty PM from me. Don't fucking do that shit again. Posting suspended for a month and sig for 3 months. I won't tolerate your nonsense.

Quote:Here's one example of a situation on where I think this may be harmful.

There's a member who scammed you in currency exchange. You make a report take all the appropriate action, they add you to their ignore list. Now, you want to make sure that they're not posting more exchange threads looking to scam others, but they have you ignored. You can't monitor the section all day, and some inexperienced users just look at the number rep, not the actual descriptions.

None of that requires profile access. Your scenerio and every single one in this thread concerned about scammers is all bullshit.

Quote:This is a great feature for scammers lol, good job Omni.

Always the assholes have to say asshole things.

Quote:What if they have invisible chars or something?

No, it's not. You're just a fucking asshole about it.

This feature could get you hit by a truck when you're crossing the road because for a brief moment you'll see you're on ignore and then you won't know what to do and so a truck will hit you and kill you. That's how fucking realistic some of you fucking idiots are.

Don't have time for more stupid replies in this thread. Feature was added. Won't get altered. Enjoy...or not.

Omniscient - December 6, 2014, 3:27 pm

Just a quick update to this.

I added on the ignore error page the username of the person ignoring you as well as a link to your own ignore list because seemingly some people don't realize you can use that to add people to your ignore. Should make this feature easier for people who are unfamiliar with ignore/buddy list functions.

Thank you.
