Group Podcast #7

So this week we talked about the new Titans graphics, the selling of Polymath, and the purpose of groups on Hack Forums. We mainly focus on how a group's graphics affect how the community sees it and how being a salable commodity affects how groups are set up and run. This has definitely been one of our best discussions to date. We also had a few new people come and be a part of the discussion, as per the title of this thread. If you have any topics that you would like to listen to us discuss next week just post them below.

Looool, I thought we were talking about a graphics card in the beginning.

That's why you don't show up to the podcast blazed kids.

Anyway, great podcast.

Can vouch. I'm the reason why the podcast happened in the first place.

I would have enjoyed this but Premortality kicked me from it because he is a racist.

I joined right when the podcast ended, shame I couldn't be in it.
Rip sat classes.

Thanks for telling us who made the graphics. We'd already established in the discussion that Titans do not sell membership spots; somebody just thought that we were talking about graphics cards.

Yeah, just thought I'd clear up confusion haha

Nice job on podcast.

It's looking like you caught me red handed.
