People have said that this was an official google channel to test video quality. But it started uploading 1 year ago and has over 150,000 videos. It uploads like every 5 minutes and most videos are 11 seconds. Pretty interesting.

If you have trouble putting the link together, search Webdriver torso on youtube

Actually it does.

I just searched it up and it is connected to multiple youtube channels.

The reason for it is because it is testing more 3d features, plus video quality, and more software

I've officially decoded the secret encoded messages in all the videos. Took a few hours, but... It says:

It's Google's way of making sure that the video on YouTube is the same quality as it was before it was uploaded, including sound and picture quality.

It's not a conspiracy, it's not some random person, it's not fucking aliens; it's a test channel, and it's really old. Why the hell is this still relevant? There's about 10000 threads in the Lounge on this channel and most of them are like a year old.

Lol all videos are 25 minutes.

Pretty interesting.

Why so many spaces? Makes me not want to go through all the effort to click the link.

OP, those are top secret messages that are said that you will have bad computer luck after listening to them.

it's some kind of supernatural demonic thing, i'd recommend staying away from the channel before you get brain washed.

Actually, google had one of those videos as its easter egg on android L developer preview for nexus 5. Build LPV79 and LPV81C.

Check this video out for proof: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=vbPrHN0hw30>

I'm not copying this shit im too lazy, next time just post the damn link.

The Winter Soldier - December 21, 2014, 4:18 pm

There are a bunch of threads on this topic here lol

Varane - December 21, 2014, 4:21 pm

Lol quite interesting, i have known about this channel for ages tho and most people have aswell. Nothing new just a channel used by Google/Youtube to test quality and shet like that.

I hope this was informative. ?
