Hi guys, I tried to make a Youtube logo - like Tweeday uses a penguin, I decided to use a tiger.

What do you think?

Tried with Fairview, I think it looks a little better now - any other improvements?

Well, You really have to put things together. It's not one piece of work atm. Work on color schemes. Also, i don't really see anything special about it. You added a render, a text, and a background.

I know you're better than me.

I'm just asking for help :)

Is this any better?

Or at least, is it an improvement?

Well, Not sure what style you're going for. I personally hate the blue gradient.

Aggressivity.

I've got a Youtube account where I upload CS:GO, so gaming / blood / fps content would be nice.

I'm thinking about changing the colors to red & orange.

You might want to change the background to a white grey one and the text color to fit more.

As the tiger is not yours, or the font. There's not much you did to be fair...

PirateSec - June 8, 2015, 4:36 am

The text looks really wierd. Maybe you could change font.

ItsMehBart - June 8, 2015, 6:08 am

I suggest bringing the text to the front, add some effects to it using blending options. Then maybe use an image as a background and lower the opacity. And maybe use some effects on the tiger. ?

Good for the first time, just use a good font.
