Turning off the monitor is already a feature. Nanocore is not malware so there is no need for a steam stealer and there is ssnf file recovery for steam RECOVERY. and Lazy already has made a stress testing plugin (NanoStress) far better than i ever could. Thanks for the suggestions though. i will look into disabling the mouse Understood. Mind posting version numbers or something so people know if they need to update etc?

I've got a few suggestions for ya:

- Disable client's direct control (mouse, clicking, hotkeys, keyboard). Helpful if I ever need to take sole control.

- Turn off webcam lights (not sure if you already discussed this or not)

- Persistence + Rootkit (in case there is a need to prevent the client from closing administration of his computer)

- Change desktop background

Oh nice awesome plugin keep up the good work! btw where would i put the ssfn files?

C=APHP?C=HA - March 14, 2015, 2:57 am

I'm very interested in the System Locker add-on. It's first of it's kind on any RAT with the exception of Blackshades feature that didn't work too well. And before everyone starts screaming "ransomware" (somebody already did), locking the computer doesn't necessarily mean to extort the money. It can be done for all kinds of legal purposes, example of a legal one would be to remotely password lock your own computer so others won't use it. So it's about time that winlocker finally gets to see a light of day on HF. I hope that you will expand the custom settings of it allowing to set a custom locker design/size/font/background image, etc.

Thanks for your hard work.

Heh, anyway, good luck with this, op. I could just direct others to this if they're not satisfied with my plugin, and since there are bugs in it and I'll be away from my desktop, they could use a fully functioning plugin.

Batch scripting would be nice. Like you make a script and then launch it on the selected machine.

EDIT: Just realized that you can just make a batch file and use the upload and execute function.

Maybe a speech function where you just speak into your microphone and then send it to the

I think you should add a multi-user password recovery, with passwords from all selected clients. You'd be able to view them in either a tab on the side, or a window that pops up. Make it so you can export these passwords as an html, like how the regular password recovery worked.

Oh, sorry. Haven't used this plugin recently. You'll probably just want to unzip the contents into the Nano Directory, or drag the resources into the Nanocore resources, as well as the ncp into the Plugins.

You can grab their ssfn files manually by going to file manager, browse yourself to the Steam folder, usually in Program Files (86), one of the ssfn files are hidden so you have to press right click -> view hidden entrys, then download them both (should be 2, can be more). Then you go to their config folder (Program Files/Steam/config) and grab their vdf files (config, loginusers and SteamAppData).

What i like to do here to prevent fucking up your own is either way backing up yours (same place as you got them from your victim), or use a VM with steam on (this is what i do) and replace them with what you already have. This will easily let you login straight to your victims steam account without email verification needed.

So the only VDF files needed are config, loginusers and SteamAppData?

wow, I seriously spent HOURS learning how nanocore plugins work, and how to set one up to get steam files and such... and of course in my search, after I already spent all that time learning, I find this plugin that does exactly what I need it to do...

thanks though, haha.

EDIT: Just curious, but why isn't the steam file recovery option listed as one of the "On-Connect" command options?

EDIT2: Updated the plugin, and now the recovery option is completely grayed out?

If you read through the change log, you will see that the on connect recovery was causing unstable network issues. As for the steam recovery in on connect, I'll look into it when I fix the root problem.

What does screen off and on really do? Can you explain a bit?

I mean programatically, are you using SendMessage?

sirlenni - March 29, 2015, 11:00 pm

Add a functions: AdClicker, Youtube Video Viewer, and open Url which just opens their browser and a url in the browser.

AdClicker and Youtube Viewer should be silent

For YouTube Videos the Client needs to have the video open for 30 seconds

Also a function where if they open a certain link they get auto redirected to a different one, like client opens amazon(fot)com/ and gets redirected to (amazon(fot)com/?tag=your_Associates_ID) would be nice.

Thank you so much for this plugin, it helped me a lot.

make the messagebox support "/n" (newline) and custom .ico.

dump processname/id memory to a file.

hidden .mp3 or .wav player.

when processname/id is shutdown show/play a notification on nanocore.

if client has regkey/file in path color/identify the client as something special (if multiple filters could be set, it would be superb) silent hash cracker (well, thats a littlebit malicious)

add some basic nanocore functions to the onconnect

add batch script to run onconnect

there are some suggestions for you :P
