So you're adding credits to yourself lol? Anyway uhm, that theme is not really my cup of tea. But I hope you learned something from making it.

It's my first theme, im trying to go as much close as i can to what i was searching for.

Me in the credits is not needed then?

But its still away from what i was searching for too, posted here just to have feedbacks atm, on both graphic and source.

Why wouldn't you credit yourself? ?

Graphically, I've never been a fan of lime on lime. Try a lime-grey color scheme.

Because by releasing content, you're already crediting yourself.

Dude check any release ever (esp. themes) and you'll see the creator put his name/alias at the very top.

Yeah I think that's so people know its them that created it in the future. They don't actually say "Credits to Myself" like OP did but but fair enough.

Nathan is very expert coder in vb.net, he might have created similar theme & shared or changed colours of your theme & showed screenshot ;)

@OP nice start... keep coding & keep learning ;)

Earn - December 26, 2014, 10:52 am

This is a good theme for your first time. An idea to improve your theme & to make you learn more about it is to add Properties to enabled users to chose the colors of the different controls.

Shoot - December 26, 2014, 11:42 am

this looks like a good theme, should add some more controls

Already working on that, thanks for the suggestion.

There is a problem... To make some colors i take the main one, and add or remove R/G/B so if they choose 250,250,250 and i add 10 id get error.. thinking for a solution for that.. (pre-made colors list, like just choose light or dark property?)

Rhez - December 27, 2014, 7:15 am

Gonna make a remakes of this theme. :)

Hahahaha my shitty theme remaked? I used most basilar features and got this.. But if you want so... ;)

English is not my mother language, so i cant understand some jokes, but i think most of replies in this thread are trolls..
