There are various compartments to your header, as not everything is coded together.

Navigate to the following;

ACP --> Templates & Styles --> Templates --> Your Theme Template

Now scroll down and look for "header".

Feel free to provide me with a URL if you need anymore help.

Ok i made a logo , its a png and is sitting on my desk top.

i renamed it newlogo.png.

i went to ACP --> Templates & Styles --> Templates --> Your Theme Template >> header

i went to my FTP and went to upload/images and have that open, do i upload my newlogo.png to that folder 1st ?

and then what do i change in the code to make new logo appear ?

Aha, a logo change!
This wouldn't be in your templates.

/images would definitely be the right place to upload this. Navigate to the following;
ACP --> Templates & Styles --> Themes --> Your Theme.

Once there, scroll down and you'll see a field labelled "Board logo". I believe that is what you're looking for. Just upload the new logo to the images file, and the new text in the input should be Code images/newlogo.png Let me know if you need anything else.

excellent, that worked super good,.

if i was to add my own icons to each forum {do away with standard icons}

Firstly, please do not follow any tutorials you find on the internet. Majority of these are for 1.6, so I don't want you getting confused.

Navigate to the following in the ACP
Templates & Styles --> Templates

The first thing you'll want to do is expand the template;
Forum Bit Templates.

Under Forum Bit Templates, open the template forumbit_depth2_forum.

Find

Code `<td class="{ $bgcolor}" align="center" valign="top" width="1"></td>` And replace this with

Code `<td class="{ $bgcolor}" align="center" valign="top" width="1"></td>`

Once you've done that, Save and Return to Listing

Now, in your file directory, head over to your /images/ folder, and create a folder called forumicons. This is where you will place all your forum icons.

Heed my warning; the name of your forum icons will have to be the forum ID for the icon to display. For example, the first Forum ID (FID for short), would be 1. The name of my icon would be 1.png and I would then proceed to upload my icon to the "forumicons" directory

To re-size them and make them all the same size, you can use the width and height tags. To do this, head back over to the template

forumbit_depth2_forum

And find

Code `<td class="{ $bgcolor}" align="center" valign="top" width="1"></td>` Replace this with

Code `<td class="{ $bgcolor}" align="center" valign="top" width="1"></td>`

Crying Blood - December 28, 2014, 10:59 am

OK I'm back doing a little more on this, :)

what Ive done now is the following

I went to forumbit_depth2_forum. and found the code you posted above { didn't change it to new code yet }

I have it open and ready to change in another tab to the new code you posted above,

I then made a folder on my desk top and called the folder forumicons

i then locate some of the icons i want to use and resized them to 48 x 48 and put them into that folder, i have not found all the icons i want to use, {il find the rest as i go along } i opened the ftp and uploaded that folder to the images folder, that's as far as i went, my question now is , how do i find the proper forum id { i will then re-name the new icons to same as forum id when i find out what they are} and where do i enter the code for them to show.

i hope that makes sense above.

FID's can be found when clicking on the forum link. It displays in the URL.

View Screenshot (Click to View)

Simply click on the forum from the index and look in the URL.

Code? I'm not sure what you mean here. Rename the icon fid.png. So for example, in the screenshot the FID was 2, I would rename my icon 2.png and put it in the folder.

I hope that answered your question.

Set your theme as default. If you don't want users to be able to view the white theme, you can remove their rights to.

To do this, go into your ACP, and back into Templates & Styles. By default, you should already be on the Themes tab. You want to click Options on your white theme, and select Edit Theme.

Once there, scroll down and you will see Allowed Usergroups. Select Administrators and this will no longer be accessible to the general public.

Now you want to save theme properties.

Now, you should be back where you started.

Select Options on your dark theme, and click Force On Users. This will switch every existing users account to the dark theme. To set this as the default, in the options menu select Set as default.

Those are 1.6 but if you look on the first page here you'll see tutorials, there is one for upgrading files to 1.8.

Follow those steps and you'll have it compatible with MyBB 1.8.

Do you have the NewPoints plugin installed? Is that what you mean when you say Coins? I'm positive there is a plugin to go with that which allows people to purchase coins.

How would I get latest threads from a spesific forum section in the middle there? Do I have to edit the PHP code of the announce module or create a new module?

Also, thanks Nasyr for replying on my thread. However, I managed to solve it my self.

Not sure, but maybe you missed my reply? Sorry to nag about it, but I would really appreciate some help here!

Admin Control Panel > Configuration > Portal Settings > Forums to pull announcements from > Select forums > Select Forum Here.

Once you've got that done, check all the other settings are how you want them to be.

The thing here is that it was working just fine before I installed ProPortal. It now uses the announcements function in MyBB instead of the threads in the forum I spesified.

Thanks for your reply though!

With ProPortal what was the purpose of the installation? What did you want to do with it? We might be able to code you the portal without using that plugin.

I wanted to be able to move modules to left, center and right. As well add new modules. That's pretty much it lol.

If you could code me something that works better than this, I would greatly appreciate it! I don't care if it requires some coding to add new modules or move them to left, center or right. I'm experienced with HTML and CSS, and getting there with PHP (mostly pulling and inserting data to MySQL databases).

That's pretty much what I want it to look like. I mean, the layout with modules and such. (Yes, I own that site.)

<http://dev.dodian.net/> is the site I will use it on. However, I'd like it to be compatible with themes. I guess that's standard for anything anyway haha, but yeah well, just want to be as clear as possible.

Sorry mate, we won't be able to do this. I think I already responded to you about this? A VB theme conversion to MyBB if I'm correct? This would most likely take weeks and we would more than likely, need the original developers expressed permission to do this.

This has been made clearer in the original post. Sorry.

No no, not the theme. Just the layout on the front page lol, the placing of modules. I want the portal page to have same layout, not same theme. So basically I just need the skeleton, and I will make the theme my self.

Yeah, MyBB is what I will use it for. I already have it made for vBulletin, but I won't use vBulletin anymore, since that's not my vBulletin license on that site. I bought that site from someone, and he took away the license, so I moved to MyBB.

However, I discovered a huge problem with my registration, no matter what username I try to use in the registration, it displays a red box without any error message.

It should be working once you change the compatibility. What error does it give?

This wouldn't be the problem if it doesn't show up in the plugins directory in ACP. Pm me with a test login to your forum, and the plugin file you used.

Complete what Wires has suggested but at this time I'm thinking there may have been a glitch in the merge somewhere.

Okay what I have tried so far;

- Replacing the member.php file with the original (in case it was messed with).
- Tried to use the default MyBB theme.

Neither of the above methods will work. I will list all my installed plugins below:

- Multiple Usergroup Images on Postbit
- Apply Thread Prefix
- Buy Credit
- CKEditor
- Disposable Email Blacklist
- DVZ Mentions
- Edit History
- Extended Useradminfos

- Login Password Conversion
- MyBB 2FA (2 factor authentication)
- MyPlugins
- NewPoints
- Permission Viewer
- PHP and Template Conditionals (Allows PHP in templates)
- Private Message Log
- HTTP Referers
- Related Threads (Gets related threads using AJAX, while posting)
- Report Private Messages
- Style Usernames (MyBB 1.6)
- Thanks System
- Ticketsystem
- ToDo-Liste(+)
- Referred by in Profile

These plugins are deactivated:

- PluginLibrary
- Portal Announcement Cut Off
- Servers Board
- Team Online

MyBB Version: 1.8.3

I also used ProPortal 1, but it's now removed.

EDIT 1:

I found where the problem is, but I don't know how to solve it. In the registration template (member_register) at the very bottom, it is a javascript.

Code <script type="text/javascript">

[b]<!--[/b]

$.ready(function() {
    // validate registration_form $("#registration_form").validate({ rules: { username: {
                required: true,
                minlength: {$mybb->settings['minnamelength']},
                maxlength: {$mybb->settings['maxnamelength']}, remote:{
                    url: "xmlhttp.php?action=username_availability", type: "post",
                    dataType: "json",
                    data:
                        {
                            my_post_key: my_post_key
            email: {
                required: true,
                email: true,
    });

```

email2: {
    required: true,
    email: true,
    equalTo: "#email"
messages: {
username: {
    minlength: "{$lang->js_validator_username_length}", maxlength: "{$lang->js_validator_username_length}",
email: "{$lang->js_validator_invalid_email}",
email2: "{$lang->js_validator_email_match}",
});

{$validator_extra}
});
// -->
</script>

When I remove the above code from the template, it works completely fine. Except it doesn't use AJAX to verify if the input data is okay.

EDIT 2:
I solved it, I think my member.php backup file were broke, either that or global.php were changed. I replaced both of those files, and now it works fine.

Both are for 1.6 so you'll have to upgrade them. There is a tutorial on the main post about upgrading. Follow that tutorial.

As for installing simply put the files in the correct folders such as inc, admin etc the files when downloaded are already in those folders just put them on your website cpanel/vps in the same folders.

Hi guys its me again :)

i got sick to my teeth trying to mess around with the 1.8

it seems every thing out there is for 1.6 etc and the 1.8 is plain as F@@K

so i deleted the whole thing thing and want to install the 1.6 version as i feel there's more for it anyways when i go to the install screen i get the following

Upgrade my existing copy of MyBB to 1.8.3 (Recommended)

This option will upgrade your current version of MyBB to MyBB 1.8.3.

You should choose this option when you wish to retain your current forum threads, posts, users and other information.

Install a new copy of MyBB

This option will delete any existing forum you may have set up and install a fresh version of MyBB.

You should choose this option to erase your existing copy of MyBB if you wish to start again.

How do i get past this to install 1.6

Its ok i think i did it, il update you shortly :)

Ok guys i didnt sort it lol

right i deleted the upload files from ftp

i deleted the data base

i down loaded 1.6 mybb version again from there site and uploaded the upload folder to public_html

i made new data base

and on the install screen i get the follow

<http://prntscr.com/5p7kdp> and if i click either tab and install it and go into mybb acp it says im running the 1.8 version ?

what do i do :)

You must be applying 1.8 files, that screenshot you showed is the layout used for 1.8 installation.
Make sure you are using the 1.6.16 files located here - <http://www.mybb.com/download/>

It is located at the bottom.

First, make sure all your files are uploaded to the correct directory. (re-install them just to make sure.)

Secondly, install the plugin and make sure that it's adding the hook in your index page. Add a test tab. If you don't see it then, feel free to PM me.

I was able to adapt the plugin by editing a few things, nothing much. Yet I'm back here again with my last two issues, one is, I have a custom page <http://bunchedsocial.com/community/awards.php> when you click on awards up top it does not highlight the tab black

Illuminati - August 7, 2015, 10:43 pm

How could I improve the security of MyBB overall?

Any changes of improvements I could make to it? :P

Change that plugin with this one: <http://www.mybbcentral.com/thread-8418.html>

It's much better and more user friendly.

You will have to upgrade it to 1.8.

You must have a broken theme. Is it a 1.6 or 1.8 theme?

Mutual - August 8, 2015, 7:18 am

It's a 1.8 theme and I literally did everything I found it cant be the theme because I went back the previous before the new one, and it's not even their. I'm assuming it has something to do with a plugin, but I've removed all new plugins,

I think he means when he tries to rep a user from the thread. Now there's two possibilities, voodoo either have to edit the link or review the pop up script depending on what kind of theme it is and how it's setup. A link would suffice.

Your niche will be pretty hard to populate. Social Networking is the best way IMO. I've also found another good way to advertise is to be known and trusted on another forum, that can always pull a few more members. Work on your tags too and how engines are able to find you. Pretty sure Nasyr may be able to give you a few more pointers too.

Like wires said, you want to be on Social Media like Facebook is the best option for this. At the same time SEO is your best friend. Learn SEO and put a lot of time into making quality threads that will attract traffic from Google Searches. You can always look for people willing to exchange ad space on their forum with you.

There's no plugin as of yet which can meet your needs of posting an x amount before being able to view a forum. Without having to pay for a custom plugin, I can only think of one way to do this:

1. MyBB's promotion system. Set the default members group to not able to view a forum, and use the promotion function to promote users with x amount of posts to a new usergroup. Of course, the new usergroup should have permissions to view the new forum.

As for categories, I'm unable to reproduce that error within your forum when clicking categories. Mind letting me know what categories you're clicking on? Although, regardless of whether I can see it or not, the most obvious solution would be to disable the Many New Posts plugin and see if the errors disappear. If they do, then the plugin's not fit for use and you should report the error to the plugin developer.

Thank for your help bud and yes there was something wrong with that plugin and no i disabled it, everything is running quite fine

Take a look at that, appears there's a way to work around it with a couple of conditionals added to forum display. Read down from that point, details how to work it based on forum ids. So it won't affect all problems. Haven't tried it myself but it might work out for you.

That would work yes, it's an option as opposed to making a group promotion after x posts.

I did consider that option, but I think you should use MyBB's functions as much as possible, just to prevent installing additional plugins and group promotions is more reliable IMHO.

Why would you ask a question like this? It is debatable based on the version of the plugin, what the exploit in it is and how commonly known it is. There is a lot of variables in just how secure a website actually is, especially a MyBB website.

ACP --> Templates & Styles --> Templates --> --> Your Theme --> Member Templates --> member_profile:

Amend `<td class="trow7" width="100%">` and `<td class="trow7" width="100%">` to the following:

Save. Add the following to global.css:

OR you can edit the trow7 and trow8 css to match your preferences, however, that will change anything else that uses those classes on your forum.

Add the follwoing to global.css:

Are you able to apply these tags in the signature? Such a feature is indeed default within MyBB and comes included. Try enabling Mycode in posts by going to your selected forum settings and then Miscellaneous Options.

Edit: Just read your PM. Confused as to what actually comes up when you apply the tag. If anything other than `[IMG]url[/IMG]` comes up when using the tag ensuring you're adding a picture extension at the end of the URL.

You're using an incorrect link. As I said previously, your link should end in a picture extension. Try uploading the link <https://i.imgur.com/KmxZjPD.png>

Notice the ".png" at the end of the URL. When embedding a picture it needs to be a direct link to the picture, hence why a picture extension will always be present when doing so.

Without an account I can't see some of these errors specifically, but you can fix it by adding a `` tag or padding (you'll probably need padding-bottom) CSS.

Thats not his issue for the discord box. His issue is that it is isnt inside the sidebar element at all. It's outside of it.

I'm still confused at to what he's trying to achieve. The first Discord table looks fine IMO.

By the looks of it, he's used a plugin to implement it for at least that discord box. It uses an iframe and a few other things that a sidebar doesn't usually have when adding a sidebar via template only. If I'm honest, I'm not sure how he implemented it without looking at the template code. The best he can do is place the iframe (if he didn't want to use an iframe, he'll need an API and PHP Conditionals to allow PHP in templates) in a sidebar table and ensure the table has a max height/width with a hidden overflow to ensure the iframe doesn't expand outside of the sidebar.

As for the second discord box, all he needs to do is replicate the template code he used for online staff or the welcome box and then replace the contents.

FiberSprite, feel free to PM me with what you're exactly looking for so we can discuss. Unsure if it's me that's not understanding it right or if you're just not explaining it correctly. As for the spacing around the "Post Reply" button and the other boxes, you can add padding around the sidebar table.

Again, unsure if I understood it correctly so feel free to PM me FiberSprite.
