Thread: DDoS a High School Network

SHRAPNEL - December 28, 2014, 10:20 pm

So this is my senior year and i'm transferring out next week to finish school in Boston. I would like to pull a huge prank by DDoSing the school network during the huge computer sciences exam this week. Please tell me how I can do this, and what I can use to do this. Nothing I've used has been strong enough.

Not really a fun prank, you're fucking with the people who studied hard for that exam & are prepared for it, why don't you play a normal prank like lets crickets out in the school, it's annoying as fuck & hard to get rid of

I used to do this in my old school, only for 30 seconds though most hilarious shit ever in computing lessons when the kids keep moaning that the net is down.

Not only is this not a funny prank but this is also against federal laws.

I did something similar and I luckily got out of the school's administration trying to press charges. They were serious and all I did distribute the password to the wifi to the entire school. LOL and they took that so serious. So..... advice: don't do it.

I'm only looking to do it for around 2-5 minutes plus i'm not gonna be around for long and i'm moving to a school across the state... any useful advice?

I wouldn't even try it dude. Stick with DDoS'ing home connections. When it comes to the government, I wouldn't mess with it unless you knew 100% what you were doing. Good luck dude.

These posts are great ^^ I think these will suffice for your pranking needs OP

The other students have studied very hard for their exam. It's not a 'prank' by fucking them over.
