You could add all them onto one booter and run an attack.

You need something like novalytech.com/API/login.php , or you could use a different source.

I wouldn't suggest using NovalyTech for booter APIs. If need be, I strongly suggest you create a central API file.

Tip: Sending Command -> (e.g flood 127.1.1.1) -> Command Received, sending attack -> Server 1(received command, attacking), Server 2(received command, attacking) etc.

Do you have XMPP? I suggest getting one, I can help you on XMPP if you do!

Exactly as DotTXT said. HF invented XMPP, that's why you have to be L33T or above to use XMPP.

"Extensible Messaging and Presence Protocol (XMPP)". It's a chat protocol similar to Skype. It's known as a more secure chat channel because there's no central server for chats, this makes it harder for anyone to listen in on the conversation.

You can register a XMPP account from any of these sites
