Thread: Space to City - New Style - Thread Design

Hydra - December 31, 2014, 12:57 am

The idea was as you scroll down/read through, you'll go from space down to the subway. Very simple, minimal effects, and light(thin) text, shapes, icons.

The only thing I couldn't decide on was the Pricing section: should I leave it color-coded as it is now or make it the navy blue like the rest of the thread design?

Anyways, what do you all think? Do you like it, what changes should I make, etc.

PS: The cool thing about it is that all the city and subway pics are in New York so all in the same setting. I will also attempt to do a color correction on the backgrounds and see if the same color tone would fit it well.

That's one delicious thread design, it has a definite flow as you scroll down.

Incredible, but I really think the companies logo will really either value, or devalue the entire thing.
but 10/10

Yea, only flat or simple logos would fit it. It's just a placeholder so it's optional.
