Thread: {NEW} Clash Of Clans REFUND Method!

nondescriptoldie - January 1, 2015, 7:00 am

Working AFTER patch! :)

Method:

1. Buy the CoC Gems!
 2. Go to support (on the PHONE)
 3. Say "When you went to confirm the purchase the app crashed and you got charged but reopening the app you did not get the Credit"
 4. DO NOT DO THIS METHOD 3 TIMES OR MORE FOR 2 WEEKS DUE TO EXTRA SECURITY MEASURES!
- Do not forget to ENJOY! ?

MarSy - January 1, 2015, 8:30 am

Supercell support or google/apple support ? Thanks :)

Dwight Schrute™ - January 1, 2015, 9:22 am

Sounds like a good method. I could see some problems though, them asking you to uninstall/reinstall and them being able to verify if you did so. Could be very annoying but working definitely.

You could easily think of other excuses also: my kid bought it unauthorized, the app bugged out I clicked the 99 cent one, etc.

Remember with this types of things it is necessary to be original, otherwise it gets saturated way faster!

Anyone has tried this on Apple devices :) ? Also if I make a purchase right now, can I just try refunding right now ? Or I gotta wait ?

And another thing, how many times can you do this in 1 week ?

Once the support mails you back just tell them that this happens everytime you try to buy stuff in-game and that you have multiple purchases that have never gone through.

I got 27 payments reversed.

I have heard that the Google support is more relaxed for the US and can be harder to talk to for EU.
You should at least try it before paying someone to do it for you.

They can monitor the gems in your account. They'll ask you for your username and check!

Sumix - January 4, 2015, 6:31 am

I usually use the excuse - "My kid bought something in one of his games, and he didn't know that it would spend real money" works almost every time and if it doesn't work just call again and hope you get a different person.

I don't really have any form of online money for me to try and refund some gems, do you think I can get away with talking to support saying I "bought" some gems and I didn't receive them? Like they won't ask for some receipt number or say I didn't get one. First time doing this lol

Golden Chariot - January 5, 2015, 7:43 pm

It should work with paypal. Worked for me at least.
To keep it safe, only do it once or twice a week.

Doubt it. no reports so far from getting banned. the worst thing they can do is say no to your refund and you're stuck with the gems/money out of your pocket

I did this for the first time (same as you, 14k gems) a few weeks ago, saying I meant to press the lower amount.

Google said they would refund my money as a one off gesture. Again not sure whether to try a different method.

I bought 20500 Gems before 3 days and i called them and told them my child bought it by mistake and they refunded the money in the same day about 200 $

stevenv409 - January 13, 2015, 2:09 pm

It worked and took a day to respond. Told them my "child" purchased $99 worth of gems and she said it will be a one time thing. That's more than enough to help me finish pushing my AQ to level 40 and will likely never need gems again(i farm alot already). No need to be greedy hehe. Thanks OP.

Hmm, maybe with the amount of people doing it, they are actually confirming..

Usually its a reply in under half an hour, but this took 4 - 6 hours, so I'm guessing they asked supercell.

Keep trying to bullshit your way through and say thats you've been 'scammed'. It should work.

Kinda risky but I try every other morning and they seem so gullible.

nerdtopia - January 19, 2015, 3:03 pm

Confirmed working, but I however used apples live chat service instead of calling them. I find it a lot easier to kiss ass by typing instead of talking to someone. Here's an actual conversation I saved, this one wasn't for clash(Hearthstone) but it works for every game if done properly.
