

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: A beautiful sunset.

Sacred Symmetry - January 8, 2015, 1:06 am

Taken in South Africa (As all my pictures are lol)

*Canon 5d Mk3

*Sigma 18-250mm f/3.5-6.3 HSM OS lens

*1/25 sec at f/6.3

*ISO 200.

*It's a pano of 3 portrait shots.

<https://i.imgur.com/H8voT73.jpg>

Please leave your thoughts below

EDIT:

I had to actually stand knee deep in mud to get these shots.

#DPT - January 8, 2015, 1:07 am

Wow man, just great! I'd like to see more photos of you!

Tomaten - January 8, 2015, 1:08 am

It looks unreal.

Definitely an amazing picture.

Sacred Symmetry - January 8, 2015, 1:11 am

(Jan 8, 2015 02:08 AM)Krixus Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It looks unreal.

Definitely an amazing picture.

Thanks!

I guess standing knee deep in mud for 45 minutes was worth it :P

Light. - January 8, 2015, 1:13 am colors look sick as fuck tbh you ever touch up your photos?

'Psyduck - January 8, 2015, 1:14 am

I have never seen anything more like it. I would really like to see more photos from you.

But I really need to ask.. is the photo you took edited the slightest? or? I mean, the photo looks so good!

Meow - January 8, 2015, 1:14 am

Awesome picture,was worth standing in mud lol! ?

Sacred Symmetry - January 8, 2015, 1:21 am

(Jan 8, 2015 02:13 AM)Light. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) colors look sick as fuck tbh you ever touch up your photos?

Sometimes i do yea, saturation mostly.

megabelkit - January 8, 2015, 5:40 am

Amazing picture!! still i dont believe its real ^_^

Cubs - January 8, 2015, 8:17 am

I feel the image is a bit soft because of the 1/25 shutter. You need to buy better glass if you have a 5d iii

All though the motion of the wind mill is nice.

hk_Reborn - January 9, 2015, 3:58 am

Wtf did i see ? This picture is one of the best shoot i have seen here. I like pictures of sunset/sunrise. Where is it plz ?

5/5

Thanks

Positive - January 9, 2015, 9:35 am

(Jan 8, 2015 09:17 AM)Cubs Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I feel the image is a bit soft because of the 1/25 shutter. You need to buy better glass if you have a 5d iii

All though the motion of the wind mill is nice.

Agreed.

I feel that motion in the wind mill kind of brings the "life" to the picture.

The red sunset it nice, but I would tone a few things down in Lightroom.

Nice shot man.

Jordana Brewster - January 9, 2015, 9:38 am

Is that the original picture or was it made smaller in file size cause I would love to set that. As one of my wallpapers if your fine with that

Simply amazing

Cam - January 9, 2015, 9:39 am

That's a very beautiful picture. 10/10 good work.

Albion - January 9, 2015, 9:46 am

It's kind of hard to look at this and just think "That's completely real." when you've hardly left the country :O

Looks wonderful man!

Denitorious - January 10, 2015, 9:11 am

If you want an honest opinion.. the sunset is great, the location is really awesome as well.

The photograph, well.. I am confident that I could have taken pretty much the exact same shot with my cellphone.

You need to get a) a tripod or monopod for that kind of work and b) a decent lens, otherwise an expensive camera won't perform anywhere close to its price tag.

The 5D MK III is a very modern camera with good dynamic range, you could picked a faster shutter speed and fixed the exposure later on. It is easier to brighten a dark picture than tone down a too bright one. Always keep that in mind that it is better to underexpose. If that still isn't enough step up ISO to 400, you could even go to 800 and still have zero problems removing noise if there is any.

Keep working! ?

Deni