tweety - January 12, 2015, 11:45 pm

What is AnimeFAN!?

AnimeFAN! used to be an unofficial group that has resided on HackForums for over 3 years. The group is now official, we have our own user bar and sub forum! We are one of the oldest groups of members on HackForums which had dozens of members coming and going. AnimeFAN! is a group of individuals who share the same interests; Anime, Manga and the Japanese culture. Our interests brings us together allowing us to participate in dozens of fun group activities.

What do we do?

AnimeFAN! members will be participating in various different activities that range from movie nights, group reading, group gaming and just engaging/having fun. The group is not strict, we expect you to be active, friendly and having fun in general. We have a Teamspeak and Skype group chat which you can use to communicate with other members, they will also be used to participate in activities. Members who are not in AnimeFAN! are free to join in to the server and group, assuming you are friendly.

time to apply filling out my application now gonna be a great and fun group to be in if accepted into it

APP:

How long you've been into anime/manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it ?

Its been around 3-4 years now that ive probably read or watched something daily, and about 1-2 years now that ive been heavily into Japaneses music and learning the language itself just from finding finding it as i came across it anime related images online and eventually finding out what they were about, but before that ive watched dbz and fma growing up like everyone else

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

As anime goes it used to be Steins Gate but now its the now airing Your Lie in April just the story and pure amount of emotion that drives the show is great and being a fan of playing the piano has part to do with liking it.

For manga it would be either Octave or Girlfriends yuri manga just makes you feel that type of way that other genres don't really do.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

As i am actively keeping myself up to date with everything under the the genre of anime/manga and

Japanese culture there will always be something for me to add to most of the topics discussed in the group and make my own points of discussion as well

What are your interests in Japanese culture?

Anime/Manga/Japanese Music, these are things that fill up most if not all my free time especially a lot of j-music, indigo la end, kana boon, and kpp are all great to listen too, and my recently discovered daoko(my avatar) she's a god (dj whispers ftw). As far as anime and manga go just the sheer amount of emotions that you can get from anime/manga is just crazy and same goes with any other type of medium for entertainment just anime/manga is how i chose to get that type of entertainment, music and culture goes just straight up to liking how the language sounds is one thing and having a thing for asian women is another thing too ;)

What do you expect from us?

A place where a group of friends with common interests come together to talk more about the latest anime episodes latest manga chapters music news anything Japanese culture related really and can have a lot of fun group activities together.

What do you think we expect from you?

Daily activity in the group's forum

Tokyo Ghoul.

School Days.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? My love for anime and the bonding between each members will be good, my online time also shows my daily activity.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? Mainly the anime, their way of doing things and their art also interests me.

What do you expect from us? To stay high quality and have eliminate drama that occurs between members, and to help us bond.

What do you think we expect from you? Stay high quality within and outside of the group, not break any rules, stay within guidelines, get along with each other and wear and represent the name with pride.

Please don't let my rep affect any chances of me getting in the group, it was a mistake I made and I regret doing the actions I did to get my positive rep removed.

Xepher The Cat - January 12, 2015, 11:55 pm

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? A year or so now. I watched sword art online as my first anime. Egregious recommended it to me, then Highschool DxD came along and I watched that too. That's where I got into Japanese culture and arts. For now, I've been watching anime almost every day. I'm currently following the series "Absolute Duo" and I'm liking it so far.

How did you come across Anime? My buddy Egregious showed me. He's on this forum, you can find him in my signature.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them Date a Live and Sakurasou no Pet na Kanojo, I like them because they're entertaining, some animes are less entertaining. But by far these two keep my day bright. They have comedy in different forms. Romance, accidental, etc.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? When I finish these stupid exams I'll show you my activity. I hope you can trust me for now. I'm currently studying for exams almost every day, I've stopped watching anime and activity on HF for a bit.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? Art, food, traditions.

What do you expect from us? A home. A place where I can share my experiences with others and not get criticized for it. I watch boku no pico, no hate.

What do you think we expect from you? Activity, contribution.

Holy fuck I've been waiting for this. Tweety, I know we don't talk that much but maybe that can change.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? I was introduced to anime by a friend a couple years ago, then after that I was hooked on anime and the Japanese culture itself. But I've been also watching since Pokemon, Sailor Moon, Digimon if that counts.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them Neon Genesis Evangelion and Hellsing. NGE mainly because for it being so old itself it was one if not still the greatest animes in existence. Hellsing, what can I say? I'm a vampire fan as well.

Title Neon Genesis Evangelion

Title Hellsing

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? I'm extremely active, even in AA. I have over 600+ posts in there also. I will also be very active in the subforum as well, you have my guarantees!

What are your interest in Japanese culture? My interests in the Japanese culture? Well, let's just say that Japan is probably, if not, the most advanced country in the world. (Yes I'm being a bit biased but who cares.) Let's face it, Japan has the best food, Samurai's, Robots, Anime (obviously) and the greatest creation on Earth, hentai. ??

What do you expect from us? To keep anime and AA alive on Hack Forums, duh!

What do you think we expect from you? Activity, activity, activity.

[Video: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=olRbG-9mfa0>]

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I've been watching anime since 2005. Well basic ones such as naruto, dbz. In 2011 a friend of mine re-introduced anime to me. As there was an amazing amount of anime being released during that time. Either way then I used to search for anime on google (stupid choice I know lol). From there it got hooked and I started reading manga since shounenjump would mail you books every month or so.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them
Steins;Gate

I loved Steins;Gate due to the science fiction behind it. When I was in school my favorite subject was science. I loved doing experiments with all types of things. The thing that got me hooked on this show was the fact that they were all having fun plus it had time traveling. Who wouldn't want to time travel right? I mean there was drama + romance involved but that's what made the story even better. Well that's why I like it.

Zero no Tsukaima

I know you're probably like "oh typical harem anime" but I really loved this series. Sometimes it got boring but the comedy in this was just great. I mean some episodes had me in tears like a baby lols. Anyways what made me love this show was the fact that the MC came from earth to an unknown planet/place which involves magic. Then there was the tsundere "master" type of girl who would beat the MC with a whip/magic because he would stare at other girls lol. The romance development is what really got me into it. I had high hopes for the show and it did not let me down not one bit.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

As I am a deep fan of manga,anime,light novels, and visual novels I will not decrease my activity within the group. If I do get accepted I will be as active as I am in the typical anime adventure section.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Hmm I took a liking to vocaloids such as Hatsune Miku, Rana, Meiko, and Rin & Len.

I am not up to date with j-music but I am updated within their video games, tv shows, dramas, and movies.

What do you expect from us?

A place where I can meet new people and an extremely active anime/manga/light novel related sub forum where I can express my thoughts freely where there won't be someone thread bashing it. (Hopefully it doesn't happen)

What do you think we expect from you?

An extremely active member with positive thoughts. Maybe some humor here and there.

[Video: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=HqfMWuzqEwQ>]

How did you come across Anime?

More like- Anime crossed upon me. It just happened.. From memory my first anime actually watched would be yu-gi-oh or naruto. I thought it was cartoons at first ofcourse. I got obsessed by its art until i met the first anime i actually liked as an "Anime" which was REC. It had a different feel from the majority of animes- Romance and i was a child back then. Hungry for more- then a very long story.. i ended up here.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them
Title

Hayate no Gotoku(manga) (Click to View)

My first favorite and longest manga, i just love everyone on the cast and how a very funny comedic slapstick anime can turn very deep on the very far chapters. This series is most likely the reason i love long lasting series- I love to get to know the characters longer.

Title

To aru majtusu no index(Anime/LN) (Click to View)

I love its concept and the main character actually being to nullify everything magical- or similar. One of my favorite bit in this series would be random encounters and then the characters relating to each other.. also the story gets long in the LN.. saying more would be spoilers.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

Reading anime/manga will always be one of my favorite hobbies. So i don't think i'll be able to become inactive when it comes to discussing this genre.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Not much. I just love their discipline- they are hard working and productive people and i respect that.

What do you expect from us?

Everyones of course- It can't be a animeFAN! group without any animeFANS!. :)

Spoiler (Click to View)I'd also like a copy of everyones panties

What do you think we expect from you?

Myself. I'll be active and dedicated to this group and try my best to discuss favorite animu's and mangu's to everyone. :)

Chips Ahoy McCoy - January 13, 2015, 12:30 am

Well, I got access to my PC and here's my application. Thanks again for making this possible guys.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? Well, I got REALLY into it 2013-2014. Before that time I would just watch whatever was on Toonami and stuff.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

#1, The Pet Girl of Sakurasou.

#2, Zankyou no Terror.

Why do I like these? Well, I get extremely attached to characters in shows for some odd reason and when I started watching The Pet Girl of Sakurasou I started to just love those characters so much. Also, it has the best soundtrack/art I've yet to see. (Aside from movies of course.) As for Zankyou no Terror, I really liked the story and how there wasn't really anything left to uncover. You were able to learn everything possible from the show and they did it really nicely. Also has a great soundtrack/art.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I'm not a very social person when it comes to hanging out with friends etc so I'm usually always on and available.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I haven't really found something that I'm not interested in to be honest. I think part of it could be because of how different they are compared to the West, but If I had to point some fingers at some stuff, I'd say Vocaloid and Anime/Manga. Also, I love how much they get into decorating for holidays and stuff. I remember seeing some amazing decorations for Christmas in Tokyo I think? They looked really sweet.

What do you expect from us?

I expect some activity in the subforum that I haven't seen much of in the normal AA section. (Like some of the older members.) Since I've only been browsing AA for about a year I haven't seen quite a few people to post. Also, I expect to see discussion of the thing that all of us love. :)

What do you think we expect from you?

I think you guys expect to see high quality posts and threads and discussions. Which I'm more than willing to give. <3

Fox's Application

How long have you been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I have been watching anime since I was a little boy, but I didn't really get into it until around 2010 when someone gave me a manga to read.

The manga in question was Midori no Hibi (Midori Days).

Clannad + Clannad: After Story

I love this series because it was very emotional and it had a great mix of drama and romance.

As of today, I've never seen a romantic story as good as Clannad's.

This anime inspired me to do my best and enjoy life.

NHK ni Youkoso!

This is one of my favorite anime because this show had a lot of references that I understood when it came to anime culture.

During that time, I related to the main character in many ways.

This anime was very emotional at times because it hit close to home.

I learned that no matter how bad your life may be, you can always make it better if you are dedicated to doing it.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I have a lot of time on my hands and I browse this site almost every day.

In the Anime Adventures section, I have over 700 posts.

What are your interests in Japanese culture?

Aside from anything related to anime, I am interested in the Japanese language and would like to be fluent in it.

Their food is great and I live near many Japanese restaurants so that I could enjoy them anytime.

I also like their music and have dozens of Japanese songs in my music library.

What do you expect from us?

I expect this group to be active and high quality, and that also applies to members.
There should be lots of discussions among members who treat each other with respect.

What do you think we expect from you?

I think that you expect me to be an active, high quality member.
I always post using good spelling, grammar and punctuation and I will continue to do so.

I will contribute to the section and have lots of nice discussions with members.

(Edited to increase readability)

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

Since late 2012, so just over 2 years now. I saw Chobits on YouTube jokingly, but then suddenly felt the urge to watch some more because I found it oddly enjoyable. Started with the classics like Death Note and Elfen Lied, and it soon after spun out of control until where I am now.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Kiniro Mosaic

Must I repeat why I love this series? It's perfect. Jokes are well executed, characters are 110% loveable (Tweety can confirm), storytelling is just the way I like it - not there, and the entire series is pure entertainment.

Non Non Biyori

This has to be, if not THE most relaxing anime in a Japanese countryside setting. Characters come from varying age groups and give the series that feeling of relatability for more than one age group.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

Since I watch pretty much more than 50% of currently airing anime at a time, along with others from past seasons, discussion threads will be my main source of activity within the group. Along with my overly cynical remarks I plan to bring some genuine positivity to the other members :')

What are your interests in Japanese culture?

Anime, Visual Novels, Doujins, and J-Music (e.g. IOSYS, HujuniseikouyuuP, daoko).

What do you expect from us?

Chill group of familiar and unfamiliar people who cast aside any prejudices and thoroughly enjoy being with other people with similar interests.

What do you think we expect from you?

Pretty much what I expect from everyone else (see above). The same principle I've applied my entire life.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? Uh, this is actually a good question. I've been onto anime for a while. (A good 5 -6 years.) Only picking up here recently after I watched Full Metal Alchemist (I had read the manga). Ever since then, I've been hooked on what crazy ideas, art styles, and story's were out there. Haven't stopped since.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them Fullmetal Alchemist, Hands Down, has to be my favorite manga. Simply for it's themes, art, and surperb storyline. I don't really keep favorite anime's but my top is always in my AP, which can linked from my signature.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? Well, I am in AA Weekly. >,>

What are your *interests in Japanese culture? I like pretty much everything japanese. Including its subculture, ancient culture and history, current and upcoming trends and fads, music, anything anime related of course.

In?sane? - January 13, 2015, 4:42 am

Much love for actually starting a group for this! This has so much potential of becoming the highest quality group on the entire forum, i'm sure of it.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? I came across manga in 5th grade when a friend brought he's Dragonball manga over to school, it became really popular in my class and i bought all of the original books myself and then went on to reading One Piece but then kinda slided away to other stuff until i later picked up both anime and manga around 2010 or so again.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them Zankyou No Terror's rollercoaster scene is probably my favourite moment of any anime so far. Berserk must be my absolute favourite manga of all time, never read anything as good as it. Only played one VN in my life and that is School Days because i was unhappy with the ending and kind of curious of this gaming genre, i do like the concept and all a lot but haven't brought myself to actually exploring this to much yet. For light novel's im also really new, started reading Sword Art Online and Yahari Ore no Seishun but haven't progressed to much on that part either.

Title Zank you no Terror and Death Note.

Title Berserk and Minamoto-kun Monogatari for manga.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? My registration date, i have been around the anime section (mostly lurking) since the good old Nyx days, being in an actual group dedicated to anime is something i really like the idea of and i feel i will be must more active posting as well.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? Not digged to deep into this but i adore the language, the food and the music a lot.

What do you expect from us? A home group where i can meet some nice people to talk about stuff i like. Would also be cool to get some core games in the group that you can play with people.

What do you think we expect from you? An active, veteran member of the community who can hopefully start some interesting discussions and maybe bring some cool ideas to the table.

I've been into anime for around 5 years right now I think. I started reading manga 1 year ago! :)

Edit: My brother used to watch some anime like Elfen Lied with me.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

1: I love the movie called 5 Centimeters Per Second, the story is beautiful and heartbreaking and oh my god I love the art style! :)

2: I think I have to go with the Anime Called Nazo No Kanojo, it was one of the anime's that really made me hyped to talk to people about anime. A lot of people call it weird but I loved it! :)

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

A lot of posts, I'm not really good at making threads. But I will be active.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? I've been watching anime really for 5 years. I watched some before that but I didn't know what anime was so I don't count that. The first real series I watched, that was of decent length, was Full Metal Panic! and I fell in love from there.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Ga Rei Zero, such a magical series. Sad to know it's only 12 episodes, never loved characters so much.

Sword Art Online, despite all the hate it gets and it's justified, and despite all its flaws, I really enjoy SAO. I like the story, the art, some of the characters. I just like it.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? I've been looking forward to this group for 5 years. I've been active enough in AA to accrue 1400 posts, through the thick and the thin I have been there for the most part. This is something I have wanted for a long time, and I will do what I need to represent my interest accordingly.

What are your interests in Japanese culture? I like some of the music and the food. I admire the sense of honor that is portrayed from families in Japan.

What do you expect from us? I expect this to not become like many other groups and gain popularity extremely for the sake of selling it in the future. I want AnimeFan to be worth something other than money, I want it to be a group that people want to join when they see the UB and the people that represent that. If this group does rise in popularity just to get sold, I will be utterly disappointed.

What do you think we expect from you? I feel you expect me to carry myself in a decent manner when posting and to post frequently. But more than that, I feel you want me to just be me. :)

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

Off and on from when I was a kid until my senior year in high school. Last year, quite a few of my friends were talking about some anime such as SAO, AOT, Clannad, etc. I was hesitant to come back to anime since I was one of those people who heard heavy prejudice and such about those who are into anime. I was not trying to look like a pleb so I watched it but rather didn't talk much about it. This would be the first time I watched anime in years, aside from watching bleach, fma, naruto, and yuyu hakasho when I was a kid (watched on toonami). I watched SAO and Kill la Kill and those two were enough to spark interest in anime for me (although I think that SAO is yuck now). I continued onto things such as Clannad and was immediately stuck on anime. I've never cried watching anything before and to have such strong feelings while watching an anime made me want so much more. Ever since, I have watched what my friends have recommended me along with fellow HF members that I met in AA as well as Studio.

Clannad This is hands-down, my favorite anime of all time. I have never cried watching anything and to see something give me such feels was enough for me to find more anime. This was the anime that got me to continue watching anime. If it weren't for Clannad, I doubt I'd be watching all the anime that I do as of now. Reason why I enjoy it so much was because the character development was spot on. I felt completely attached to everyone in the anime and really loved it. The story was one of my favorites and I enjoyed every episode. I felt Tomoya's pain as I have had similar things happen to me and I understood where he was coming from (im such a weirdo). Anyways, throughout the anime, I was always on the edge of my seat, which had me watch after story in one sitting because that's the best way to watch it.

Fate Zero Another great anime that I really enjoyed. Characters were all very developed and I enjoyed everyone's story. The story was amazing. In fact, the story was a lot better than pretty much all anime that I have seen. The journey that Kiritsugu brought me through was rather amazing. The critical thinking, strategic planning, sacrifices, etc. were all things that made me love the anime even more. I mean that's not the only thing. The animation was 420/69. Fight scenes were amazing and I loved every single one of them. The grail was something that brought out the true emotions out of everyone and it made it so much more entertaining. The reasons that some of these people were fighting for made me have conflicted views on who should win. I have never enjoyed such an action anime as much as this. There has been absolutely no contenders in this genre of anime (for me at least) and I continue watching anime to find something as good, if not, better than this one right here.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I've been an active member of HF for quite some time now. Reason being is that I have people I enjoy talking to about various subjects, including anime. Studio was the one group I had quite a lot of members I could relate to and talk about anime. Those people have kept me more active on HF than ever before. Everyone's tastes were similar to mine and everyone was recommending good anime, which was something I really appreciated. I want to return the favor by recommending anime that I really enjoyed and such.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Well, before we go into anime, I have to say that I am a huge Japanese food fan. In fact, probably as much of a fan of Japanese food as I am anime (no im not fat rofl). My favorite Japanese food is Ramen and I heavily critique all ramen that I eat. Aside from that, I am into their sense of high fashion and street-wear. BAPE, a famous Japanese clothing brand, is one of my absolute favorite clothing brands of all time. I have a few pieces from them, despite the amount that it costs. I'm also into Yohji Yamamoto's work, especially with Y-3. But most importantly, I am really into anime (duh). I spend more time watching anime than I do, wearing bape and y-3 or eating Japanese food.

What do you expect from us? To have the amazing members that fuel me to stay on the forums. I expect members who aren't talking out their butts but rather have good recommendations and perspective when it comes to anime. I expect some who share similar taste in anime and those who are completely different in regards to genres and such. I also expect Tweety to call everyone faggots in the stickies.

What do you think we expect from you? To be the awesome member that I am ?. Rather than that, to bring my insight and alternate perspective when talking about anime. To be a fun and chill member along with the rest of the AnimeFan members.

Notice me senpai

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

Well since I was born, I am half Japanese so I have always been into the Japanese culture. The actual time that I became addicted to anime was about two years ago. I was on YouTube looking at dancing videos (don't judge ;-;) and when I looked up 'Shuffle', I found the anime Shuffle. At first I was hesitant to watch it but I was like eh whatever and eventually I finished watching it. It was sad but I wanted more, something happier and with time, my anime list grew bigger and bigger. As for manga, I don't read that many since I prefer watching anime. I have read several manga in the past, (maybe about 200-300 volumes?) the only ones I can remember are DBZ that my friend gave me, Naruto and Rabbit Doubt. I might start reading Domestic na Kanojo.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Title (anime)

Quite frankly I don't have any favorite anime at the moment, there's too many good ones for me to even choose from.

If I were to pick a few I'd have to say these:

Sukitte ii na yo, My Little Monster and Kaichou wa Maid-sama.

I loved the romance between the characters and I think it's the best romances I've seen in anime.

Death Note, even though I know many hated it.

The way the author created ways for the main character to avoid and kill people amazed me.

I loved every part of it and would watch it again.

Sword Art Online and Gun Gale Online.

Oh boy, this one's been bashed on many times but I honestly don't care what others think. I LOVED IT. The art style, the story, the romance... I enjoyed it all. At one point this was my favorite anime out of everything.

Kuroko no Basuke.

I can't tell you how much I loved this anime. At first I didn't think an anime about sports would be interesting at all but the way it was made, gave me an adrenaline feeling. I mainly like it since I relate, I play basketball five days a week. I am very happy that this anime is popular and is getting a third season. I will be very sad the day it ends.

Title Rabbit Doubt (manga)

I got into it after Tasemu held the forum game Rabbit Doubt, it was an interesting read.

I guess it's my favorite out of what I read. I kind of like all of them equally.

Title DBZ (manga)

I read a lot of DBZ volumes in French when I was little since my friend bought them and gave them to me after he was done with them.

I liked it because it was simple and killed time easily.

Title Katawa Shoujo (VN)

I don't play VNs (at all), doesn't interest me and I find it quit boring to have to press a button 10k times and read a ton. I also don't have the time to do that. The only VN I've ever played was Katawa Shoujo, I didn't even finish it but I still enjoyed the scenario.

Title Hentai Doujinshi (close enough??)

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I will be active in the group since I am already active in the AA Section, most of my posts come from anime related things. What guarantees my activity the most is my passion for anime. Usually I take a trip once a year to Japan so I could bring back some videos, pictures and whatnot. Not only will I be active in the sub-forum but in the TeamSpeak and Skype group. Already I join the TeamSpeak almost everyday.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

What I like about the Japanese culture is how it's very different from American culture. They have many unique and interesting things being made everyday. There's so much that I love about Japan, the food, the kindness of the people, the art...

Most importantly them knee high socks...

What do you expect from us?

I expect it to be different from other groups meaning being more relax like NightFall. I want it to be more of a group to socialize than to have a bunch of projects or deadlines to complete by set time. Since it's like a fresh start, I hope I don't see a huge list of recommendation threads.

What do you think we expect from you?

An active member who can help other new members to the Anime side of hf.

Somebody who shares the same interest and is motivated about the anime culture.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? I've been into it before I even knew what it was. I remember around the time i was in elementary or middle school , my moms would wake me up for school and I would iron my school cloths in her room, and always catch the last bit of inyuasha on adult swim. It was like the best way to start the day. (Don't forget this was years ago)

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

TitleNaruto (I know band wagon) But I literally grew up watching it. It's only narutal.

TitleBlack Lagoon - If you know the show then you know why.

TitleAttack on Titan, I like the character development the have in the show. Characters have real life reactions to situations. Everyone doesn't try to play hero all the freaking time. Unlike Naruto.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?Well as long as there anime then I'll be around. But other than that, good recommendations from other group mates, discussions, as mentioned in OP movie nights seem interesting and community involvement.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?More than the anime itself is the food.

What do you expect from us?Quality, and a good time. Like it's a anime group it should be fun active and should run the AA forum.

What do you think we expect from you?To be involved. Not be a hobo.

Please link your MAL (MyAnimeList) profileTBH I never thought about documenting the shows I watched. I don't know how much this counts but I don't have one.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I believe it was around 7 years ago or so, I stumbled upon the manga "dragonball" - a friend of mine had number 42, I read the summary, and instantly felt like buying the first one, and so it started.

Later, after reading dragonball and yu-gi-oh, I found the anime "Naruto", at this time I could understand english, and began watching the subs, as I preferred reading. I also bought a couple of the manga volumes. I looked for some more, as I would have to wait for the next episode to come and stumbled upon InuYasha. This was when my love for romance bloomed. That was how it started ^^

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them
Spice and Wolf

Favourites, I would say Spice and Wolf is one of them, possibly the best I have watched. The anime simply adapts so many emotions, and the characters and development is amazing. The thought behind the show is great, the music is great and the setting is absolutely brilliant.

The best part of it is though still the characters and how they interact.

ToraDora

For another one in the romance field, ToraDora is a favourite of mine, it embraces so many cute feelings, and describes a very great relationship.

It's take on the tsundere characters is great, but what really makes it shine is once again the characters. The feelings through the show and how they are dealt with is adorable and great overall, also from a psychological perspective.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

As you people know me from the AA section, I am mainly a lurker, thus whenever time comes, and if something I enjoy is being discussed, I will show up.

It would be rather hard to guarantee my activity... Well, not because I am not to fulfill it, but the only reason I can give is simply that some might know me from the AA section and skype chat.

I can of course give a guarantee myself, that I will post in the group.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

The language is interesting, so as the general culture, such as shrines and ideas.

The traditional art style is also of interest to me, not only anime.

Generally, Japan is interesting, ranging from culture to language ^^

What do you expect from us?

I expect to have some fun and to be able to enjoy the time with you guys.

What do you think we expect from you?

Well, a member that will join in on discussions, movie nights etc.

And a member who does not mind to host such events or help planning them. I could also eventually help out with some graphics ^^

Vandie's Application

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?
I've been watching anime and reading manga for roughly 3 years now so nowhere near as long as some people. I think I started with death note because a friend recommended it.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them
So I really enjoy Highschool DxD even though I see soo many plot holes . I just seem to enjoy it . I dno.

I also rather recently have been really enjoying Akame Ga Kill which I started to watch because I had nothing better to do. In my opinion it has a really enjoyable story and as such I have put it up here.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I have reviews to write and have no intention of pissing you off tweets. Also I will have way too much time invested to even consider inactivity.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

My interest in Japanese culture is high. I've tried learning Japanese numerous times and failed miserably every time so far. They also are host too many of my interests such as technology and gaming...

What do you expect from us?

I expect that you guys will be there for the fellow members as I know I would be for those who asked it of me.

What do you think we expect from you?

I hope that you think we should be active, HQ, friendly and non-toxic (because that no good for anyone). But those are only my thoughts.

Spoiler (Click to View)

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I originally watched anime back around early 2000 or so, without realizing it was actually anime. I always enjoyed watching Naruto and Yu-Gi-Oh, nowadays however I enjoy watching all sorts of anime ranging from romance to horror.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Title

Code Geass - I've always enjoyed Code Geass because of the turmoil that the protagonists face, you feel as if the entire show is nothing but a giant chess game between LeLouch and (until later on) some unknown antagonist. I've always been a fan of mechs too, and they did it very well. I know Code Geass is a popular anime but that doesn't stop it from being on my top 5. :D

Title

Noragami - Noragami is more of a manga however it does have a 12 episode anime series, which I've seen it and I've also read the manga. Noragami is one of my favorites mostly for character development and the characters themselves. I absolutely love Yukine and Yato, they show a perfect brotherly love for one another. If you didn't realize my avatar is actually a picture of Yukine, as he's my favorite from the series. :P

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I stick on this forum because I find it enjoyable. When I joined Phoenix about a month or two ago, I had 0 posts in their subforum, now I have almost 1,000. I definitely post actively in sections and groups I find myself comfortable in. I try my best to be friendly and open minded to people's opinions and preferences, so you'll see very little drama or arguing from me. Sure I debate, but I try not to argue. :P

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Well I suppose I've picked up a few interests over the years, mainly their story telling and the way they treat family. I know that what's portrayed in anime isn't really how things work in Japan. One of my Japanese friends informed me that in Japan they never actually use the word "senpai" or it's Japanese equivalent. Not only that but she also told me that in Japan their version of anime is our American/ Western cartoons such as Spongebob and Adventure Time. She says they watch both the subbed version (subbed over to Japanese) and the originals, and for certain shows there's actually a fully made dub. I've always found it interesting how we're both so fascinated by each other and we tend to pick up social standards from one another.

What do you expect from us?

I expect a welcoming community of anime/ manga lovers who'll respect my preferences and introduce me to more options. I would love to be apart of some live watches where we all sit down and watch a certain anime all together. I've been active in the AA for some time now, and I think I'm actually a member of the original unofficial AnimeFAN group.

What do you think we expect from you?

From my experience you'll be expected activity, a friendly attitude, and for me to cooperate with as many "events" as possible. I work at night, however during the day I should be able to cooperate with really any events or plans you may have planned.

Please link your MAL (MyAnimeList) profile

I don't actually use MAL however I do use Hummingbird (which could be converted over to MAL quite easily I believe.)

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? I got into anime my freshman year of High school, so for about four years now. A friend of mine online recommended I check out FMA: Brotherhood and so I did, been hooked sense.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Hunter X Hunter (2011) I know very well this isn't one of the best anime I've watched in terms of story, art style, etc but its the anime I've probably have had the most fun watching and talking about.

Code Geass This anime shows how important an ending is. It's all because of the ending that caused this anime to stick with me. If your put everything together and understand the subtle hints throughout the show it really was the best possible ending for the show.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? You can see in my post history I only became inactive once finals started and a little before, now that they're over I'll be as active and no-lifeish as always.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? I have been watching anime for about 6 years and growing. I've read so far only one Visual Novel, but have many others in my library. My friend made me watch it and it was truly beautiful. For those wondering, I highly recommend watching True Remembrance. I suppose I've been involved with Japanese culture for a while now considering I've been hanging out with one of my friends who enjoys this content more than I do.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?Well, I was in Japan as a kid, around the age of 2, so I experienced it around that age. I began to watch anime around 6 years ago (Apart from the mainstream stuff such as Naruto or Pokemon).

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Katawa Shoujo because Emi Ibarazaki is best girl. She's very open to trying new things, and she's cute, even without legs.

Boku no Pico because it's a classic. The initial character development for Pico was excellent and characters were introduced at a pace that allowed for good development for each individual without it becoming a bore watching the same people repeatedly. There are also many aspects of the anime that sets it apart from anything else that I have ever watched, however, potential viewers may not want to read spoilers.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?I'm very active on Skype chats, and can also be equally active in the group as it will be about a topic that I really enjoy. I'll be far more active in the group than in the Anime Adventures forum because I'll be around nearly exclusively people that I know and like, such as Tweets. <3

What are your interest in Japanese culture?The anime along with the differences in socializing from Western cultures.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

A few years ago, I wasn't really into anime. My cousin spent the night at my house one time and he showed me Bleach on Toonami. I wasn't really into anime at the time but I started to watch Bleach with him. He wasn't really an anime fan himself, he just like a few mainstream anime like Naruto, One Piece, and Bleach. I was really interested in the action that Bleach had so I sat and watched it. After a while, I wanted to watch it more and more. Every Saturday, my TV would be turned to Toonami so I could watch anime. I tried my best to catch it every time it came on. Pretty soon I started watching different anime like Naruto and One Piece. I was only really into mainstream anime at the time because I was just getting into anime and I didn't know many. I started watching these anime more than I watched regular TV and I wanted to see more so I started finding ways to watch them online. I was checking others' MAL to see what to watch since I was done with the Bleach anime after some time. After that, I kinda just gave up watching regular TV and now whenever I'm watching something, it's anime.

Bleach

Bleach is basically my favorite anime/manga because it's the first anime I've watched. As I said before, I was really into the action that Bleach had. I couldn't get enough of watching it. I tried to catch it everyday I could on Saturday. I wasn't aware that I could watch anime online at the time because I didn't know much about anime so I was super eager every Saturday to catch it. Then I started getting really deep into Bleach and other anime so I tried to find it online. Come to find out, every Bleach episode is on YouTube so I tried my best to catch up. I was watching every episode every chance I got. This is around the time I started getting into anime more. It's what got me into anime and it's always been my favorite. Most people don't really like it because it's mainstream and it has fillers or whatever but it's still my favorite.

Another

I guess I could say Another is another favorite of mine. It's one of the anime that I saw when I was getting more into anime. I was used to watching action anime so this hit me by surprise when I saw all the gore and blood. I didn't really want to watch it as I was interested in action but I kept watching and I ended up really liking it. It's also something that helped me get into more anime. After watching this and Bleach, I was watching all type of anime genres.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I'm really active on HF so I'll be able to post in the group forum a lot. I also have a lot of posts in AA so I'll definitely be active in an anime group. I spend a lot of time on HF and it'd be no problem posting in the group a lot. I'm sure to be very active.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Well, I like the TV shows obviously. I watch anime a lot more than I watch regular TV or movies. I'm also interested in manga. I don't usually read them as I'd rather watch anime but I have no problem with watching manga once in a while.

What do you expect from us?

I don't really expect much. Just a fun group to sit down, chill out, and talk about anime with. It'd be nice to talk about anime with people that have similar interests in a group. Most people just talk constant shit about people that like anime so it'd be cool to have a place to talk about it where I know I won't get hate or have someone talk down on me because I like things in the Japanese culture.

What do you think we expect from you?

I'm assuming another person that likes anime and other Japanese things. I also assume you want someone that'll be very active within the group while getting along well with other members of AnimeFAN!.

Please link your MAL (MyAnimeList) profile

<http://myanimelist.net/animelist/iDontHentai> - I haven't really updated it in a while as I've been pretty busy. I've been keeping up with a lot of anime, I just haven't been updating my MAL so it's not as up to date as it should be.

Thanks for looking at my app. Good luck to all.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

Approximately 6+ Years, My cousin introduced me into Naruto.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Most Memorable/Favourite Anime:

Angel Beats... Why? First anime that I watched that differed from the standard shounen that I usually watch

Became the 'Gateway' for me to watching other types of anime besides 'Shounen' types like Naruto

Naruto... Why? It may be a generic/cliche answer but I can't deny that this was basically my childhood

First or one of the first anime I have ever watched

Most Memorable Manga:

Berserk... Why?

My first ever mature series I've read

I love reading about controversial topics like politics, religion, races, etc...

Most Memorable/Favourite Light Novel:

I've only read 3 Different LN (NGNL, MKnR, and SAO)

Mahouka Koukou no Rettousei... Why?

Even though it's one of the few LN I've read, it is certainly my favourite because it gave an impact of how harsh a world could be when discrimination against different types of people were shown (ie. Magicians and Non Magicians and the prejudice between the two)

Tatsuya. If you know who this character is, you will know why I stated his name. All Hail the One True Tatsuya.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

Seeing as this group is solely based on anime and coincides with my interests, I will probably never end up being in-active as long as the discussions are worthwhile and entertaining... ?

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I can honestly say that I do not know much about the Japanese Culture besides anime. The only things I know are the stereo typical High School settings in Anime. (And some other settings like after school [NHK]).
I'm hoping to learn more about Japan in this group as it solely focuses on Anime.

What do you expect from us?

Decent community of people who know what they are talking about and aren't afraid to argue their view points against me. I love a good debate. As long as the group stays social and active, I can say with certainty that this will be a fun group to be in... (As long as you like anime anyways).

What do you think we expect from you?

Stay Active (Obviously)

Be Polite and not trash people and their opinions(too often).

Contribute by joining the chats, activities, etc...

Please link your MAL (MyAnimeList) profile <http://myanimelist.net/profile/ZephK>

Note: Don't have much watching as I normally do as exams for the end of my semester is coming up.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? About 6 years now and it started when I watched Elfen Lied.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Elfen Lied, because who doesn't love action and gore?

Katawa Shoujo, because of how well the emotion was portrayed.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? Nothing

What are your interest in Japanese culture? Art and history

What do you expect from us? A place to hang and talk about our interests.

What do you think we expect from you? To be active and not a weeaboo.

Soooooooo happy this is finally an official group!

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? I started watching Anime about 7-8 months ago, and was introduced to it by my friend, who's also a member on this forum.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Mirai Nikki is tied for my number one favorite anime of all time, with the other being Tokyo Ghoul. For me they were both very unique and had amazing story with even greater character development. (Yuno Gasai<3)

As for my favorite VN I'd have to say Sakurasou no Pet na Konojo, was my first VN actually, and it made me cry, plus it had the added bonus of being much better than the anime since I actually got to finish the story.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? Honestly the only reason I got on HF anymore is to post in the AA section. My recent posts prove that. So if I were in the group I'd be extremely active.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? I wouldn't say it's extreme but I'd love to visit someday. I admire the culture, plus I really really want to go to the Pokemon center.

What do you expect from us? A bunch of fellow non-judgmental weaboos.

What do you think we expect from you? To be active and stay HQ within the subforum and the AA section.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

When I was 10-11 years old, I picked up on Naruto. It was on TV late at night and I would watch it every time. Fast forward to age 13, I picked up Bleach. The way I found it was through AMV's, they have (even to this day) have been the most useful tool for finding and enjoying different varieties of anime. That summer I would just sit on the computer watching every single episode, including the filler. I was hooked at this point. I continued to watch any anime that seemed interesting, and it took up more and more of my time. Eventually in middle school, I found a group of friends that shared similar interests, we would even play a Naruto MMORPG online, good times.

I then moved across the country (Canada) and found myself with more free time as I had to start new with everything. It was at this point that I really started to go crazy with the genres that I watched. I also picked up on manga and would pick a random one out of the library every time I went there and if I liked it, I would see if there was an anime for it (manga really isn't my thing, I prefer animated visuals and amazing soundtracks).

The reason I watch anime instead of any other filmed show is because I feel like anime is highly relevant to most people's lives. Every time I watch an anime that I would rate 10/10, my values and outlook on life change. It's quite fascinating how an animated show could spark great changes in a person, even now, when I'm 17 years of age, I continue to be startled by how much I can cherish every episode and how much it resonates with me.

Sorry for the extensive explanation, but I felt like it was necessary. So, I've been watching anime for around 7 years and continue to watch it on my free time.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Sakurasou no Pet na Kanojo

This was the first anime that made immediate changes in my life. I wasn't expecting such an enjoyable series, I simply wanted to try the "slice of life" genre and it is definitely one of my favorites. The issues that the main character faced were highly applicable and the romance on the side was really really enjoyable.

Sakamichi no Apollon

I actually only watched this anime around Christmas time, and I spread it out between the days as far as I could. The vibe I got from this anime was unreal and highly applicable. I could see myself in the main characters shoes, and man, almost every episode gave me the chills. It was a great feel good anime and I ended up ordering a $90 harmonica as a result of this musical vibe that refuses to fade. It's great, I'm going to be going to university next year and I believe I will be doing music as a past-time once again (used to play instruments in middle school), all because of this anime.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I've already decided that anime is something that will most likely be a life-long past time. Every season I'm blown away by the new anime, and I'm sure this will continue for years to come. As long as there is anime to watch, I will be watching it. I feel like discussing anime makes it that much better, just like collaborating with people who share similar interests. I'm sure being a part of this group will allow me to meet similar people, the Skype group sounds amazing.

What are your interests in Japanese culture?

I wouldn't consider myself a weeaboo, but I do have my moments. ? Naturally, as with anyone who's watched a lot of anime over the years, I've picked up on Japanese words, phrases, customs, and traditions. Japanese values are really interesting, it would be interesting to visit Japan, which I plan to do. One of the aspects of Japanese culture that I'm interested in is the idea that high school students have to join a club and school goes longer than school here in North America. I honestly think that would be so much fun to be apart of, although it's a little to late for that now.

What do you expect from us?

I expect that this group will be full of opportunities to discuss anime and the culture surrounding it. I'm really hoping for mini-events or contests that we host either in the private subforum or in the AA section. I'm really hyped about meeting people that probably have similar values, making it really easy to get along with this group. Aside from that, I don't have any expectations and the expectations that I do have are more along the lines of a group-effort, not just something that the group leaders have to do by themselves.

What do you think we expect from you?

Activity in the sub-forum as well as representing the group well outside of the sub-forum. I'm sure that I'm also expected to participate in every event possible, the more the merrier.

Please link your MAL (MyAnimeList) profile <http://myanimelist.net/animelist/GrimSeal>

P.S. - 2013 Animeography was better in my opinion. ?

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I've been into anime since around the age of two lol. I first came across anime by staying up late and watching the late night Toonami run, back when it was ran by Moltar, and I saw Inuyasha. I think it was the Noh Mask episode.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

~Mobile Fighter: G Gundam~

This one is literally a staple in my favorites. G Gundam is one of my favorites purely because it's so ANIME! It's so preposterous, it's good. I remember in the first episode when Domon caught all those bullets in his hand so carelessly. Good times.

~Big O~

This is ANOTHER one of my big favorites, pun not intended. What makes Big O one of my favorites is the mix of classic film noir elements and mecha anime. When do you EVER see these two attributes mix? Never. Plus, Rodger was a badass; he's basically the anime incarnation of Bruce Wayne.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

Activeness. Nothing attracts me more to groups and things than activeness.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Basically all of it. I tried learning Japanese for a while, but I got sidetracked and I never really resumed my studies.

What do you expect from us?

I expect you to be a well organized anime group that's active and is super welcome to newcomers and won't kick me out for something stupid like not being active for a day or two.

What do you think we expect from you?

Almost the same as I expect from you lol. Respect and kindness and a love for anime.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I've watched anime since I was a baby because my parents liked diverse old anime shows, but it wasn't till 2001 when I got really hooked into it after watching Spirited Away at the movies. I started reading manga somewhere in 2006 which was Death Note. About Japanese culture, my father is a Chef specialized on Asian food, and he always taught us about japanese food and their culture, at the same time I used to watch many Japan documentaries when I was little, so you could say to become an Otaku was a natural result after such a strong influence in my house.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Anime: Toradora!, I've watched that show countless times already and I still get the same feels as the first time, that deserves a spot, at the time Toradora came out I was in high school and had a girlfriend who looked just like Taiga, I think that also made me psychologically more attached to the show.

Manga: Death Note

As of now I've read a lot of manga, but none will compare to the first manga I read though, Death Note is by far the best manga (imo) out there, its a shame the anime didn't got to reach its awesomness tho.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I was very active in AA, I think from 2010 to 2012, I had a break from anime because of Uni and diverse life troubles so I spent 2 years away AA, but here I go again! I've been active for a month or so already and plan to keep being active!

And hey, just look at my activity in HF, AA is almost the only section I post on.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Although I initially got more interested in Japanese culture because of some anime I saw, my current interes in Japanese culture is apart from anime, I love their language, festivals, food, history and people. I plan on going the next year (2016) to make my study further.

What do you expect from us?

To keep spreading the word for anime here in HF and get more people into our fun and warm section.

What do you think we expect from you?

To help new anime fans, have a decent high quality activity in the forum, to contribute to the section and have fun to sum up.

Tohka Yatogami - January 13, 2015, 9:21 pm

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I've been into Anime for about....10 years now I believe. It all started when I was watching Anime on Toonami. I ended up staying up for longer than I should have that night and ended up watching InuYasha for the first time and I enjoyed it. From then on, I continued on watching all different kinds of anime from there on out.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Date A Live To be honest, I mainly like this anime due to my obsession with Tohka Yatogami. Besides that, I've never seen an anime before that's date sim-ish and in my opinion, it's pretty unique because of that aspect.

InuYasha InuYasha has been a favorite anime of mine since I was younger. I love the plot and character development that it has displayed across the many episodes it has.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

The thing that guarantees my activity in the group is the fact that it's a group about anime. Anime is love. Anime is life.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Not going to lie, my only interests in Japanese culture is simply anime and Japanese candy. Other than that, I haven't really looked deeper into the Japanese culture.

What do you expect from us?

Acceptance and new friendships

What do you think we expect from you?

I believe that you guys would expect me to be active in the group forums and contribute as much as I can to the group along with it's members.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? Read Shonen Jump around 2005, which introduced me to manga and the world of Japanese culture.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them:

Neon Genesis Evangelion - I've rewatched it time and time again, always picking up something new or some new meaning to the show every time. It was way ahead of its time in terms of animation, concept, and plenty of other things. I love the character designs and all, but the thing I like about it is the hidden meanings and religious symbolism in it. It was written when the director Hideki Anno was in the worst situation of his life and was overwhelmed by depression, and he used this series as a way to air out his emotions. Also, I'm a sucker for mecha.

Bakemonogatari - Shaft being Shaft. I love this show's humor, art style, and almost everything about it.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? Podcast, reviews, group activities, and members I actually enjoy being around.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? I enjoy the food, music, and the visual entertainment of their culture.

What do you expect from us? I don't really expect much to change from what we've been doing for the past month or so , aside from some new group activities.

What do you think we expect from you? Not acting like an idiot around the forum, some form of activity.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? I've known about it since I was around 8. Though, I did watch Naruto on Toonami along with DragonBallZ. Since late 2010. For the most part, it was on the behalf of HackForums.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them My favorite anime of all time would have to be Durarara. I'm really excited for season 2! My favorite manga is Himizu. I really recommend this one a lot because it's a master piece of an emotional rollercoaster.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

Personally, the section has had its up and downs. I'm sure a dedicated group to anime will increase quality in the section. For this reason, I feel like there is more value to posting. I will post and contribute to conversations for the sake of just wanting to.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? Well, I do like learning about the social constructs that are different from the western world. I also like anime a lot. Moe is the shit.

What do you expect from us? I expect that the group will be really fun. Probably just like AnimeFAN in 2010-2011. We were mostly just a group of people who liked anime that talked to each other. There were some cool threads and actives along the way too. Maybe we can do something else cool like it again. I want to be a part of that.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? A fairly long time, not counting pokemon or anything like that. I started FMA when it was airing on TV and I considered it "American Anime" because it was in English and I had no idea what I was talking about, eventually I watched Rasario which I believe was my first anime I watched knowingly.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Eden of the East The "Tournament" theme has always been one of my favorites and in my Opinion Eden of the East did the best. The MC was so smart and I loved all the twists of the show and the romance in it was great.

Usagi Drop I honestly thing this kind of explains itself if you've seen it, the characters are so loveable and Rin is one of the cutest characters I've ever seen.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? Ive been into the animooos since id say around the end of middle school. It started off with Inuyashi when it showed up on the Adult Swim line up. It caught my eye because of its themes (new to a kid like me) of demons, love, loss and all that jazz which i wasn't used to in some of the other programs i watched like spongebob or family guy ya know? After that i started frequently watching some of the other anime on Adult Swim from the more mature Samurai Shampoo, Big-O and Cowboy Bepop to the more silly ones like Fooly Cooly and Shin-Chan. Since then i started exploring different series as i discovered the interwebs and all of its glory. I haven't really had a preference to be honest. Ive enjoyed the Ecchi even Harem side of Anime from Rosario+Vampire to the fantasy game/action of SOA and kill la kill and even a political thriller like GS: Stand Alone Complex. Though i've noticed though i tend to stick to anime that have an underlying story ark but whos episodes have random tangents to keep it interesting. As for dislikes i can't really say i have any but i usually can't stick to yaoi, the closest i've gotten was Black Butler Season lol.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Ansatsu Kyoushitsu I recently read the first volume of this puppy which i thought was pretty ok for the first first chapters then with the introduction of a new character and the revealing of weaknesses of Korosensei's i feel like the next two volumes im bound to get are gonna be interesting with the introduction of more characters, maybe some background story on some of the students and maybe even some more human-like interactions from sensei could possibly in my eyes make for a bitchin series. So yea my hopes are set high for this one >.<

Samurai Champloo This one has to be the one i most thoroughly enjoyed for a few reasons. For one it has the same feel as cowboy bepop both visually and comically so i was hooked right away. The intro is just amazing to watch not to mention it made me discover Nujabes and all of his glorious work too bad he passed away though before i could fully appreciate him :I Also it tackles so many different themes throughout its episodes from the randomness of playing baseball to love lost when jin falls in love with that prostitute. Just overall a really great series that i had the pleasure of watching.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

What guarantees my activity in the group if accepted honestly relies on the group itself. If the group is going to be a supportive group full of people who can help me explore and share my growing interest then i have no doubt in my mind that i would be as active as could be.

What are your interests in Japanese culture? Well aside from the obvious otaku bit in me i also have been having an increasing interest culinary wise from Japan. I hit up a local ramen spot (I live in Los Angeles lucky me lol) last weekend for kicks because i mean i have had basic ramen and tempura from more commercial spots but ive always wanted to go eat at more intimate locations with friends and so i did and i gotta say ive gone back since then and plan on checking out different spots downtown as well. My food adventure had just started lol

What do you expect from us? As a group i generally just expect a relaxed environment. Somewhere where i can geek out without feeling uncomfortable because i honestly dont discuss any anime with any of my friends let alone on the internets so i hopefully this will be a good place to start. :)

What do you think we expect from you? You expect obviously activity from me by me sharing my ideas. Also probably a sense of maturity and sincerity when replying to threads and such.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

Around 8 or more years. On some television channel, though I don't remember what it was called as they changed the name.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Title: Naruto

This is one of the first anime that I saw as a child. I grew up with Naruto and I was hooked on it ever since. I was surprised they actually let this on a children channel. Heh.

Title: Shinsekai yori

One of my recently watched anime. This anime has everything I wanted in it. A bit of action, adventure and it was mostly psychological. If only there was more of these...

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I have been in a group before and I was really dedicated to it. Plus the group all about anime, why not stay active?

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I like Japanese food (I love sushi) and entertainment (anime/manga/light novel)

What do you expect from us?

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I've really been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture since roughly 2013. It's affected me a great deal as it's gotten me through many tough times.

I was shown this amazing culture by my friend Brenden. We started watching a bunch of anime together, it's how we really bonded.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Clannad

This is personally one of my favorite anime, As the way the characters are portrayed is amazing. I also really loved the art and the soundtrack, two of the most important things when it comes to anime in my opinion.

The scenery was amazing along with great character designs as a whole.

Angel Beats!

Everyone talks about the ending of this anime, which had most people crying.

The emotions that this anime can stir in my is amazing. I don't think I've ever cried so much as I have since this.

My only complaint about Angel Beats is that they should have made it longer, 24 episodes and maybe (stretching it..) 50 episodes.

They should have delved deeper into each character's lives and how they actually ended up being in this place.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

Honestly, my love for anime and the anime community as a whole, along with me being pretty into all of the newer anime stuff that's coming out,

I should always have something to contribute.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

My main interest, as many others, is the Japanese language. I find it so very interesting how it's spoken and even written.

I've been trying to learn words here and there, and hopefully I can take a class in college and learn this amazing language.

The food culture is also really neat, I'm starting to get quite interested in that also.

What do you expect from us?

I expect to be apart of a friendly group of friendly people who share the same love for Anime/Manga/Japanese culture , as I do.

What do you think we expect from you?

I believe you should expect for me to be a positive and friendly member who is contributing to the

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

Not very long, I'd say about 6-7 months. I started watching anime and reading manga to have a common interest with this girl I sat next to, being in a class with very little people I needed something to talk about with this girl. After leaving the class I continued watching and reading, and now I'm at this point where I come home from work and watch and/or read. It's become a daily routine for me. Japanese culture on the other hand has always fascinated me since I was very young. Being in a family situation where my father travels constantly, my family and myself have moved seen the world, but yet the only place I have yet to see is Japan. I plan on taking a couple months off when I finish university to go over and spend time travelling around.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Title Bleach

Title Cowboy Bebop

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

Well I have been on here since early 2012 and have yet to get bored of it. I generally keep to the sub-forums of the groups i'm in and I'm on here quite often. I do watch a lot of anime so I can always discuss things within the sub-forums, and there are animes I always have questions about, things that don't necessarily need a thread in the AA sub forums, so to be able to ask in this sub forum would be great.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

It's difficult to answer this, I'm not sure what draws me to Japan and it's culture, I just have one of those gut feelings that I need to go there and experience it. I suppose the food and entertainment would be a big thing. Nothing in North America can compare to the food experiences such as the monkey cafe, the Robot Restaurant, only to name a couple, I just think everything about Japan is amazing, the street life, the housing, of course the anime/manga scene. Going to a convention in Japan for anime/manga would literally blow my mind, I expect that it would be like comicon, but millions of times better.

What do you expect from us?

I don't expect anything really, as long as there are friendly people in the subforum that don't mind talking.

What do you think we expect from you?

A member that will be active in the subforums who promotes discussions on manga/anime, and doesn't start shit within the group. There is nothing wrong with members debating, but as soon as the members intentions are to flame then things generally start to spiral out of control.

Please link your MAL (MyAnimeList) profile

I don't update it often because I tend to switch between shows quite drastically, I have at least 5 tabs open at any given time with 5 different shows.

Tohka Yatogami - January 15, 2015, 6:29 pm

((this is to re-apply to the group :3))

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I've been into Anime for about....10 years now I believe. It all started when I was watching Anime on Toonami. I ended up staying up for longer than I should have that night and ended up watching InuYasha for the first time and I enjoyed it. From then on, I continued on watching all different kinds of anime from there on out.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Date A Live To be honest, I mainly like this anime due to my obsession with Tohka Yatogami. Besides that, I've never seen an anime before that's date sim-ish and in my opinion, it's pretty unique because of that aspect.

InuYasha InuYasha has been a favorite anime of mine since I was younger. I love the plot and character development that it has displayed across the many episodes it has.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

The thing that guarantees my activity in the group is the fact that it's a group about anime. Anime is love. Anime is life.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Not going to lie, my only interests in Japanese culture is simply anime and Japanese candy. Other than that, I haven't really looked deeper into the Japanese culture.

What do you expect from us?

Acceptance and new friendships

What do you think we expect from you?

I believe that you guys would expect me to be active in the group forums and contribute as much as I can to the group along with it's members.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I don't really know how I came across it. It was probably because of a video I saw on Youtube. My cousin was mentioning mainstream shows like Naruto, Bleach, and One Piece to me when we were younger, but it wasn't until just a couple years ago that I really got into it. My first show was Kiss x Sis. I don't really know what that says about me though. o.O

White Album 2

Beautifully told and brilliantly executed, White Album 2 is definitely a show overlooked by the majority of romance lovers (although I don't exactly know why). Hidden amongst the thousands of shows in its genre, this show shines above all the rest for me due to its characters. These characters all have the best of intentions; however, as we soon see toward the end of the show, acting solely on emotions is the surest recipe for disaster. It is because these characters are so realistic, so dynamically human, that I felt truly immersed in its story. A show that captivated my attention from its very first scene, and still lingers in my heart long after its last.

Kimi no Iru Machi

Another romance show/manga that follows a similar format as White Album 2. Kimi no Iru Machi takes place in Hiroshima and Tokyo. Without spoiling anything, I love this show/manga because of its interesting setup of characters, the premise of its story, and overall, how it was executed. It is nothing more than a simple love story revolving around Eba and her childhood friend Haruto, and how their romance comes to fruition. It never once falters from what it intends to be.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I'm very active in the AA section (more than half of my overall posts belonging there). As long as the group's members are active and there is discussion going on in our subforum, I'd be glad to take part of it. :)

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Aside from its anime and food, I love learning about its history, pop-culture, and how life there differs from life in the US, be it for better or for worse. I love learning about other countries, the lifestyle its people live, and why they live it the way they do.

What do you expect from us?

I expect that AnimeFAN will be a fun group, in which its members enthusiastically discuss, debate, and even sometimes, bicker not necessarily just about anime. I expect that AnimeFAN will become less like a "group" and more like a "family" where all its members are friendly, understanding, and ultimately have fun interacting and talking to each other on a daily basis.

What do you think we expect from you?

I'd love to contribute to this "family" by joining in discussions, debates, etc.,.

Orochimaru - January 15, 2015, 7:09 pm

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

It was when i was 10 years old, i first got into some of the basic animes like Naruto and Bleach and kept watching that until i got to the most recent episodes, during that point I got impatient and decided to read the mangas because they were ahead. The first anime i watched was Bleach, one of my friends told me about it. Over time I grew and learned about more anime/manga of different genres like Death Note, Attack on Titan, Durarara, Soul Eater, Blue Exorcist, Gintama, One Piece, Sword Art Online and a lot more.

Death Note

Death Note is the story of a boy named Light who acquires a book known as the death note which grants him the power to kill anyone he wants. I liked this series because of the excellent script writing as well as characters, for example L who is my favorite character in the show as well as one of my all time favorite anime characters.

Durarara

This series follows the story of high school friends who are involved in the tokyo gang life and are unknowingly in rival gangs, i like this series because of the atmosphere and setting, i love reading/watching anime revolving around populated city lives as well as gangs. Another thing i loved about this series were the comedic and memorable characters such as Shizuo and Masaomi.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

My passion for anime/manga is all that i need to guarantee my activity in the group, i'll post daily on discussion threads as well as post reviews on certain anime/manga that i've come across. I also always make sure to keep myself up to date with the newest series.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Of course aside from the Japanese Anime and Manga, i love Japanese cuisine. Things like tempura, sushi, sashimi, ramen, certain types of curry, and a lot more. I also like to listen to Japanese music occasionally.

What do you expect from us?

I would like a place where i can discuss anime/manga with other intelligent and knowledgeable members of the group through discussion threads, suggestions, polls, reviews, skype chats and more. I would like to be able to talk about what was good or bad about a certain series or what i think would happen next, as well as hear what other people have to say about them.

What do you think we expect from you?

To provide discussion and information, suggestions, reviews, etc about animes and manga. To be an active and contributing member of the group as well as take part in skype chats, etc.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I've always thought Anime was interesting ever since seeing some shows on TV when I was a kid. Toonami was a big thing for me back in the day.

I just recently (about 2 years ago.) seriously got into it.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Zankyou no Terror

Honestly, this show isn't close to being the best Psychological around, but it's a personal favorite because there were absolutely no unanswered questions, a great ost, and to go along with that there's brilliant art.

Sakurasou no Pet na Kanojo

I thoroughly enjoyed Sakurasou due to how uplifting the show was in general. Also, I'm a sucker for the art/soundtrack of it.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

Because I really enjoy talking to people about the same interest we share/love. It's a great feeling to have a community that enjoys it. And having two separate communities would make it even better. I'd have no reason not to post.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I'm interested in the style of Music that they like making. I feel that they put a lot more emotion into what they do which makes it so much better.

Also, Anime. I love the types of emotions anime can drive out of people.

What do you expect from us?

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I've been into all of this since roughly 2013, as I learned about it from my friend Brenden. He and I would watch anime together on weekends and it was really a lot of fun.

It's affected me a great deal as it's gotten me through many tough times. It's really made me appreciate different cultures.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Kaichou Wa Maid-Sama! [Manga]

I've been reading this manga for a while, as I found it quite humorous.

Takumi Usui, one of the main characters, really makes me laugh. I enjoy it for comedic values.

Sora no Otoshimono

This was the second anime I had ever watched, and I got really hardcore into the whole series. Notice my signature? It stirred up a lot of emotions inside me (not just the sexy ecchi ones).

The characters are absolutely cute as hell(I love you, Ikaros..), and Tomoki is as funny and pervverted as they get.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

My activity will be guaranteed because I have really been trying to keep myself up to date on mostly everything having to do with anime/Japanese culture, I'll always have something to contribute.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I guess you could say that my main interest is the language, but I just don't have that time to learn a whole new language and it's writing systems right now.

My biggest interest is the music, as I'm working towards becoming a music major/producer?? so it really appeals towards my interests. I've just recently dicovered a lot of the vocaloid music which is really neat.

One of my favorite songs honestly, is the intro to Angel Beats!... I've been working on playing it on piano, It's not an easy piece. It's beautifully written, emotionally driven too.

What do you expect from us?

I just expect a laid back, friendly environment, A place where a bunch of people with a common interest can come together and talk with each other and spread new information. Maybe even watch anime together at some point.

What do you think we expect from you?

To be active, To contribute positively, Not be a dick.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? For over 14 years I would say. When I was a kid I would watch anime such as Inuyasha and Rurouni Kenshin and it stuck with me.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them Rurouni Kenshin:

I love Rurouni Kenshin, Nobuhiro Watsuki really loved history and tried to mix fiction with as much historically accurate information as possible. He was a history buff I would say, and you can really see Japan come alive as it was back then, of course with some fictional elements. Kenshin reminded me of myself at the time, so I could relate to his character of wanting to be kind but snapping when his life was in danger and becoming the legendary assassin he once was. Most of his characters are based on real people, such as Saito Hajime of the Shinsengumi.

The real gold however is the OVAs. Samurai X was a master piece in my opinion. Sometimes I want to watch the beginning because it is so amazing, and I find myself re-watching the entire movie. I cannot even count how many times I have watched it. It shows the darker side of Kenshin when he fought in the war, and how he got his scars.

Full Metal Alchemist: Brotherhood

FMA: Brotherhood was much better than the previous series in my opinion, and was an amazing watch all the way through. Definitely an anime I plan on re-watching sometime. The characters are amazing as well as their development. Nothing seems to fast, or slow paced. Aside from the story and development the animations are superb in every way.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? My sixth highest activity category is Anime Adventures, I have wanted this group to happen a long time ago and I have participated (Not directly help, but used and been active in) in many AA member sponsored services, such as Anime Radio and AnimeFan.me the website. For what its worth I was one of the few paid members.

I stayed on HF for the AA section in the beginning. It was the first part of HF that really spoke to me. You can check my post history if you would like to verify this.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? I watch all anime in Subbed, I have seen a few Japanese movies based on anime and I took a history class which covered Japanese history from ancient Japan to modern times. While some here definitely know more than I do, I am highly interested.

What do you expect from us? I expect you to be the same as you were before, but inside of a subforum with more direction.

What do you think we expect from you? Participation in discussions, projects and in the Anime Adventures section of the forum.

tl;dr version

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? A little more than half a year.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Spice and Wolf - Fell in love with the characters, the environment in the anime is really peaceful and nice. I am generally a fan of medieval times and economy, so my expectations were high and it hit the mark. Wanting more of the story after the anime I proceeded to buy some of the manga which also holds high standards.

Grisaia no Kajitsu (VN) - I like almost all of the characters, it is a very long VN which is a good thing when I enjoy it this much. Great art, great writing, great OST and SFX & VFX. Completed almost all the routes; going to finish the rest anytime soon and waiting for the sequel games.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? - I do need a place to talk in HF, and while I usually just lurk some of the programming forums and the AA section here, I always check my group forums because I think it's important to stay active in there when I am committed to a group.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? - Anime, manga, art style, music.

What do you expect from us? - I expect a good amount of active members with roughly the same interests as me. This is a great way to share thoughts and talk about things in common interest.

What do you think we expect from you? - I think you expect me not to be a dick and to stay active with high quality posting, and participate in group activities.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

For around a year now. I first started watching anime with Mirai Nikki sometime in the summer last year. Then once I finished that I became in love with anime. Since then I have watched a wide variety of anime and my favorite genres are Slice of life/Romance & Harem ? I've only read 2 Manga/LN's which are Tokyo Ghoul & Sakurasou no Pet na Konojo which were simply amazing.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Mirai Nikki For my favorite anime of all time, it'd has to be Mirai Nikki hands down. Not only because it was my first anime, but because the character development was amazing. Seeing Yukki transform from a super pussy to a crazed murderer. Plus Yuno Gasai amirite?

Akame ga Kill! My second favorite anime would have to be Akame ga Kill! I started that anime a bit late into it's air date(around episode 16) but I still loved it to bits, while others hated it for swaying to far from the manga. For me personally it just had everything I love in anime. Plus my Waifu Esdeath is in it ?

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

To be completely honest, I only really stay active in the AA section. So if I were to get accepted into the group I'd be even more active in both the subforum and the AA section. Plus there'd be more people who share interests with me so I'd have many more people to talk to which would lead me to becoming more active!

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I haven't really looked into Japanese culture much to be honest. However, I can say I do admire it. I really like pocky though!

What do you expect from us?

I expect an extremely active subforum with a lot of anime/manga lovers in which we can all get along and talk about our shared interests!

What do you think we expect from you?

To remain active throughout HF whether it be within the subforum or not. And to remain respectful of others.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? - 10+ years and still going strong

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them - Cowboy Bebop and Samurai Champloo. Two classics, great soundtracks, great stories and can be watched over and over again. There are times when I would watch Bebop or Champloo again here and there due to the watchability of both shows and it never gets old. That's how you know that those are 2 series that are timeless classics.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? - I was one of the original AnimeFAN! owners 4+ years ago and I'm a HackForums veteran, being here since 2009. I'm very active in the anime forum as a lot of people know and my activity can only grow from here.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? - Everything, even outside of anime. Maybe even living in Tokyo, Japan in the future. I've been into the Japanese culture for 10+ years and have a plan to live out there in the future one day. Visiting Japan for me a must within this year or the next for the cultural experience.

What do you expect from us? - A lot, because AnimeFAN! is huge, and it's still going strong after all these years and it's still going strong with more things to come!

What do you think we expect from you? - Everything, from me doing giveaways, anime discussions/topics and my activity in the group.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?.

First came across it about 8 years ago on Toonami, and as a kid I would look forward to Ronin Warriors, Mobile Suit Gundam Wing, Blue Dragon, Mobile Suit Gundam SEED, One Piece, and Rurouni Kenshin. Having strict parent they didn't allow me to watch it when they found out that it wasn't "American". Forward about 6-7 years later I picked it back up. and have been watching it ever since then

Golden Time: Being a stick for romance, this has to be one of my favorite anime that I have seen. The break in cliché about trying to figure out if this romance is going to end with them dating or not. Another thing that stands out to me is the comedy that brought into the anime with a very relate-able jokes and plot points that anyone in life can experience.

Tengen Toppa Gurren Lagann: I really don't need to say much about this. Epic speeches, characters development, and laughing in the face of death, "Go beyond the impossible and kick the logic to corner".

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

Now and days I really don't come to HF for much other then the AA forums, anything I really need from the market, and sometimes not even the market because you have to deal with a bunch of retards. I just like interacting with others and discussing the same thing that we all like, Anime.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

My favorite part about Japan is the openness on their lifestyle, including the buildings, and mountains are beautiful. Also who doesn't love some sumo wrestling ?.

What do you expect from us?

Hopefully a interactive group of friendly people that like anime/manga.

What do you think we expect from you?

active, friendly and having fun in general.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? Since I was young like 7-8, DragonBall, Pokemon, however into more "serious" (heh) anime for slightly over a year now.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them
Anime: Spice and Wolf and Mirai Nikki
Manga: Tokyo Ghoul and Tower of God (Manhwa)

VN: Steins Gate (only1 I've watched anyways)

Light Novel: Never completed all the volumes of any series but I got mostly interested in Accel World, Spice and Wolf and Sakurasou No Pet Na Kanojo

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

The fact that I've been an active member in anime section for like a year now?

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Mainly anime however I enjoy light novels too, I enjoy the japanese culture overall, even tried to learn Japanese (GOD DAMN KANJI IS SO HARD) and definitely want to try sushi someday.

What do you expect from us?

Watching anime in group, even if its something I've already seen, opinions when I need a new anime, chit chat about anime we've all seen, hugs due to PADS after finishing a great anime ;_;

How long you've been into anime/manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it ?

I have been watching anime for around 6 years; of watching anime weekly or so, started off watching some naruto when i was 9 (My first anime), then i watched dragon ballz it was quite good actually till this day i still watch naruto i also watch one piece -- in love with OP :P also watched elfan lied, some random other anime, some fairy tail one day i will probably go to japan :3. I only watched subbed, dubbed are for fake anime fans. :]

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

One piece is my favorite anime because it's really interesting and i like seeing nami and robins boobs (jk). It has a really good story line and it keeps putting me in cliffhangers. My second favorite anime is naruto because naruto has a really good sense of humor and i like the ninja shit and 9 tails.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I like the food they eat and their anime, somehow i feel anime is better than british movies and stuff. I like their manga anime clothes and their songs like k-pop. I play !osu and i listen to the music while i play the game.

What do you expect from us?

I expect a place where we could talk about anime and talk about the characters and sometimes talk about music, if i have a cliffhanger we can predict whats going to happen.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I used to watch a lot of pokèmon as a child, but it was in 2012 I actually started to watch anime and read manga. What made me start watching and reading it again was actually a video on Youtube I stumbled upon, where the creator just randomly mentioned Elfen Lied. I decided "Hey, I got nothing better to do, so why not give it a try?" That's the best decision I've made in a while.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

My favorite anime of all time has to be Skurasou No Pet Na Kanojo.

Unlike most animes where you have one favorite person you want the main character to be together with, does Sakurasou make you attached to all of the characters. This makes you go on an emotional roller coaster throughout all of the episodes. I read the light novel after watching the anime, (Since the light novel goes further) and it was the final piece to complete the experience.

The second anime I would call my favorite is 5 centimeters per second .

The reason I really enjoy this anime is the touching story of Spoiler \(Click to View\) Love that could never happen between the main character and a girl he grew up with. In addition to loving the story is the arts tyle over the top. It looks beautiful, and might be the reason it has gotten the nickname "5 wallpapers per second" by some people.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

As I'm constantly keeping myself updated in the latest anime/manga news would I like to share what I know, and of course learn and take advice from other experienced people.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

In addition to manga and anime am I really fond of j-pop. I didn't really know about j-pop before I started to play Osu last year, but now is it one of my favorite genres within music.

Japanese cuisine is something I really enjoy as well. Especially shrimp sushi if I have to come out with a favorite.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

Probably about 8 years ago now, my cousin suggested it to me when I was looking for shows to watch, and he brought up anime and I have been in love with it since.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them
Love Live!

I enjoyed it quite a bit when it first aired and then basically fell in love with it shortly after, I am now desperately waiting for the movie that is supposed to air this year. I like it quite a bit because it got me into watching other idol related animes, and they are all really entertaining.

K-ON!/K-ON!!

I loved the manga and when the anime first started airing I really enjoyed watching it as well, I was surprised, I wasn't expecting it to be as good as it was.

(In case you can't tell I like animes having to do with music :P)

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I have been working hard to stay as active as I possibly can on HF, but I have been having some housing issues and have been moving around a lot and haven't been able to check in as much as I want to, mainly been using my phone to browse the forums. But I will try to be as active as I possibly can.

What are your interests in Japanese culture?

Obviously anime, but also I just really like the language and writing in general, and have been wanting to try to learn it for years now, but don't really have the time to take classes or learn it. I also enjoy listening to Japanese music, the way it sounds just generally makes it better than any other music in my opinion and is basically all I listen to.

What do you expect from us?

Just a cool laid back group of people that enjoy some of the same stuff as me and actually know what they are talking about.

What do you think we expect from you?

For me to be nice, act mature, not be rude to anyone, and be as active in the group as I possibly can.

VYKTOR's Entry:

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I started watching anime in the summer vacation of last year. My first anime was Death Note which I came across while browsing IMDb & I was astounded by it's rating of 9/10.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Though I have many favorites my best two would be:

Code Geass

This is one of the few anime which I consider complete. Everything from the start to the end is just perfect. The character development is awesome, the plot & storyline were great too. I felt a connection with Lelouch & that's why I love it.

Psycho Pass

This truly defines the beauty of anime. A story which can be expressed best with the help of animation & characters that stand out made me love this. I really loved the villain in this one & he comes 2nd after joker in the bad guy list for sure.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

From the moment I started watching anime extensively, the only section I've browsed in HF is AA. My post activity would show that & I almost reply to all the posts that I can in AA.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Oh I'm quite interested in it. I like the onsens they have, their festivals in which they watch fireworks at night, their dressing sense with kimonos(I'd like to wear a kimono myself one-day), the food they have especially rice balls since I haven't ever eaten one. The karaoke & cosplay sounds fun too.

What do you expect from us?

Well, most of the people who have been selected are chill guys whom I've seen a lot in AA. I haven't been in any single group uptil now so I don't know how groups work but I'd like to learn from this one as it's in my field of knowledge ?

What do you think we expect from you?

I think you expect a decent, laid-back attitude from me. I must take part in the events & plans you have for the group. I should help it grow more through various activities & have lots & lots of discussion about anime & manga with all of you.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I have been into The Japanese culture since I was about 14 (Current age is 18)

Name three of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Deadman wonderland
Elfen Lied
Ergo Proxy

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I can be active and talk about new animes, I had no idea that there was a group about anime and I would love to join and get to know the people of the group.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I like the way they prepare food and I also like the way they censor the nudity.

It brings more to the culture knowing that they dont throw nude images into little children s heads.

What do you expect from us?

A pretty banner that I can wear with honor, And a nice group I can be active in.

What do you think we expect from you?

To post regular and to keep the group active, I also expect you to expect me to NOT be a blackhat person. So the groups rep does not get affected.

I do not meet one of the requirements(500 posts) so hopefully that doesn't matter all to much q-q

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? I've been into anime for sometime now but got majorly into it 5 years ago. I came across it from one of my friends telling me to go watch clannad and ever since I was hooked.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Title

Anohana: I particularly liked this one more so than others because of it somewhat relating to myself one way or another.

Title

Mysterious Girlfriend X: Honestly i'm not sure why I liked this, it was something different that I hadn't seen before and just all around a great experience watching it.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

As long as group activities keep me interested then I will surely be active, that goes without saying i'm only online/awake a few hours a day before having to work so playing games and joining movie night might be really hard for me.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

The artwork with Japanese culture really caught my eye and would love to see more, also Japanese woman are just so darn cute .-.

What do you expect from us?

A friendly environment in which I can enjoy myself in.

What do you think we expect from you?

To show respect towards others interests and be active within the community.

Been a fan of anime and the like since I saw Cowboy Bebop on Adult Swim some years ago.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Both a very well done visually and incredibly well written.

Title

The Monogatari series and

Title

the Fate series. Both a very well done visually and incredibly well written.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I've been active every since I joined, why stop now?

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

The storytelling and creativity of it all.

What do you expect from us?

To shame weeb.

What do you think we expect from you?

Group activities. Secret Santa, convention and meet up coordination and possibly the resurrection of the anime webshow.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? Ah lets see it all started one night when i was alone watching netflix and felt to watch something ecchi so i started watching this anime called "Girls Bravo" which was apparently somewhere in 2010-12 and yes even tho my only desire was to see breast and ass i enjoyed the anime and continued to watch it and my second one was Angel Beats then Clannad and the story hit me pretty deep which was the first to ever happen to me so i got really attached to anime and procceded to watch more like FMA, Eden of the east, Spice and Wolf, soul eater, you know the ones on netflix but then i decided to watch the online which then started with The Melancholy of Haruhi Suzumiya and from there it just grew more and more and by then ive had watch over 700+ episodes till today and more just got lazy to keep track on what i watch on my MAL list but that's pretty much my story on how i became a Anime Fan and still am i watch Anime from time to time which im currently watching Log Horizon and will soon start more.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them The Melancholy of Haruhi Suzumiya, Just the characters and the story was very interesting and that im into anything related to Sci-Fi and Slice of Life Genre, but the main reason is the Character Haruhi shes just full of spirit no matter what sets down her path shes always full of Energy and Happiness and doesn't take No for an Answer, and i can say the same with Kyon :) and for my Second would have to be something very similar to it so probably have to be Angel Beats as Yuri/Yurippe is also the same and same goes for Otonashi.

Title The Melancholy of Haruhi Suzumiya

Title Angel Beats!

Naruto

-Probably my favorite. The characters are visual representations of myself and I really connected with the show when I was younger.

HikaruNoGo

-I actually play the game GO and am very good at it. This series really was cool to read just because it talked a lot about the game and just really got me even more into it.

Bleach

-Ah yes, ichigo was a fucking SOUL REAPER THE WHOLE TIME!

Zatch Bell

-Loved the character and how he learned a new spell every book. It was just amazing.

D.N. Angel

-I am a sucker for the dark / stupid / romance / whatever.

One Piece

-The dragon fruit made some white guy be able to bend like a damn tootsie roll.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I have been a fan of Anime ever since I was exposed to the culture -- probably back when I was 8 years old when Anime was still airing on TV in my area. As I started watching Anime, I quickly became a fan of J-Pop.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Bleach - Bleach is the series that I have been following the longest. It's amazing to think that I've grown up with it as I transitioned from a child to a young adult. The plot has always seemed interesting to me with the Shinigami and all, and watching the main character, Ichigo, ascend to seemingly infinite power levels really intrigued me. To this day, I still follow the Manga.

Code Geass The character development along with the emotional wreckage entwined with the story line really got to me. Tragic heroes just appeal to me.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?
My love for Anime will guarantee my activity.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?
I'm really interested in Anime, Manga, and Japanese music with its sub genres. I also enjoy devouring Japanese food.

What do you expect from us?
I expect an active forum where members respect one another. I also expect group activities to be held amongst us.

What do you think we expect from you?
I think you expect me to be active with a friendly attitude.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I first got into anime in 2009 when I noticed that Dragon Ball Z Kai was being made (I had seen DBZ as a child) and decided to watch it. After about 20 episodes I got tired of waiting a week for each one, so I, along with my brother, rewatched the entire original series. After I finished it, I was so sad that it was over that I started it over that same day. After the second time around I started looking around for more good shows, and have been continually introduced to new things.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them
Gurren Lagann
Steins;Gate

I am a huge fan of both of these shows because they were both complete masterpieces. Gurren Lagann was extremely inspirational and had a huge impact on my life, while Steins;Gate made me see things differently, and constantly blew my mind with the intense story.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

As of now I've been fairly inactive for awhile, and before that AA was really the only place I would visit regularly. However, the reason for my inactivity isn't because of time or obligations, I just saw less and less material in the subforum and eventually left. However, I'm active on the anime subreddit, and have recently gotten into Hummingbird, so I would love to have a place like this to actively discuss anime, manga, and VNs.

In the past I've been extremely active and if you look through my thread history you'll see the mass of anime review threads I've made proving it.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Of course I love watching anime, and I've recently gotten quite a bit more into reading manga (before I did that infrequently), and very rarely I'll play a VN. I'm a fan of quite a bit of Japanese music, and I really just love the culture in general. I'm hoping to be able to take a fairly long trip there within the next 3 years.

What do you expect from us?

The only expectations I really have is that it will be a place that is fairly active that we can talk about the things we love.

What do you think we expect from you?

You can expect I'll be a lot more active than I have been, I'll be a quality poster, possibly resuming my series of reviews (I'm a bit better at it now than before), and I'd probably be willing to do a bit of graphic work for AF members as well.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? I'd say I've been into anime, manga and Japanese culture for about roughly 4 or 5 years. My childhood friend told me about how much he liked anime, so I decided to check it out. The first anime I watched was Shakugan no Shana.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Angel Beats!

The story was very original. A life after death, where people fight to survive with some amazing plot-twists. At the end, I felt really attached to the characters and I was very sad when I finished the last episode. The music was amazing as well.

Fate/Zero

I've been into mythology for a long time, and it was very interesting to see heroes and legends like Gilgamesh and Alexander The Great in an anime. Also, the music was done by Yuki Kajiura, who is one of my favorite composers in general. The anime itself was very deep, and there were a lot of inspiring quotes.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I'm not all that active on HF anymore, and I haven't been since The Empire was sold. All I pretty much do with my life at the moment is attending school, working out at the gym, game and watch anime. I watch anime every day, and I always have something to say after watching anime. I haven't been all that active in the AA section since the AA lounges got banned. I used to be active in the Nyaa! chat, but I had problems with Skype for several weeks, and when I fixed them the messages were too much, so Skype kept crashing.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I like reading up on Japanese history from time to time, which is very entertaining.
I'm also very fond of Japanese meals, and have cooked some of them myself. I also posted a guide on making dango's in the AA section once. I plan on visiting Japan with some of my best friends in a couple of years, and I really want to see some places like the Kinaku Ji.

What do you expect from us?

I don't expect much to be honest. All I'm expecting based on the description you gave me is a fun group with people that share the same interests and connect with each other, which is great and relaxing.

What do you think we expect from you?

Activity, amusement and a lot of discussions.

Please link your MAL (MyAnimeList) profile

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

Only been watching Anime for around two years and have already finished a large amount of the popular shows. I came across it on Netflix starting off by watching "Desert Punk" which caught my eye, after that I couldn't stop watching others.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Desert Punk

Tons of action and boobs, main character is easy to relate to in my opinion which really submerge's you into the story. Con is the ending.. I wish they actually finished it.

Kiseijuu: Sei no Kakuritsu

On the edge of your seat suspense that made me finish all of the episodes that are out in one sitting! Currently waiting on episode 15!

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I have been here for a while now and don't see me leaving anytime soon. I love to talk about anime as I do not have anyone irl who watches this type of entertainment.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I have always wanted to visit Japan, and love old Japanese movies starring Jackie Chan!

What do you expect from us?

I don't expect much just a better group to discuss anime with.

I've been into anime for quite some while now. Over a year. I've watched over 70 series and I'm still watching. I came across anime when my friend Egregious recommended me to watch Sword Art Online and Highschool DxD

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them
Sakurasou no Pet na Kanojo I'm into comedy and romance. This one is a definite favorite.

Absolute Duo Also a comedy romance, it's airing at the moment, but I feel like it's one that keeps my interests.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

My activity on HF is always good. Assuming I don't have anything interfering, I don't see anything soon, but I can promise you that I will keep up with activity.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

My interests in Japanese culture is anime, food, and art (Drawing and stuff), I've been watching anime for well over a year and it keeps my interest, I normally drop things after a few months as I get bored of it. But Japanese culture really has my interests. I'm also quite interested in literature. I'll go more in depth about this later, but my main interests are anime, food and art. I admire Japanese paintings and watch anime. Sushi is awesome too.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? I would say I started watching it about 2 years ago when I came across sword art online. I started on the dub and got told by friends to start watching sub as it's better. At first I hated but I slowly got use to it and realised how much better it was.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them Log Horizon because I thinks it's a new take on the whole stuck In a game world. He en braces it rather than struggling to escape.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

My activity On HF since the start has not been inactive once and i know for a fact once i join the group my activity will only rise more and more! (as i'm addicted to HF the group will be no problem to handle with it :P)

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I Honestly love the way of there artist side as a designer myself i love to see other people work and the first time i saw japanese art work i was shocked out of my mine out of my world i didn't even know what to say... just speechless to what i had saw. soon after that i knew i wanted to learn more about the japanese culture and i found so many fun and wise facts i wasn't sure where to start.

What do you expect from us?

I expect that everyone a kind and giving community that is happy to let others have there say in the whole thing. I Know some of the members already only briefly tho as i dont always hang around in the group side of stuff yet as i'm not in any group but once we all know each other i think that everyone will love each other as mates.

What do you think we expect from you?

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Deathnote, Rwby I like deathnote because of the story plot and I believe rwby is just fkng epic asf you should look it up if you haven't seen it yet.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? I am constantly on hf as I post almost daily and I will be sure to post in this group on hf.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? Art, Technology, Clothes, Anime obvos

What do you expect from us? I expect a very fun chill and interactive group.

What do you think we expect from you? I can do some giveaways on crunchyroll accounts if needed. And keep everybody in the group caught up with the latest animes.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? Almost a year, I started watching naruto like 3-4 years ago, but that's not really considered an anime by most. I started to get immersed into majorly manga and later on anime around 11 months ago.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Title Kimi No Iru Machi : SEO Kouji (Manga)

A simply beautiful written manga that follows the protagonist Haruto and his beloved Yuzuki. From their first hello to the struggles they faced daily to try to be with the one they love. Kouji Seo managed to stir every single emotion a human being could have with this series which was able to successfully move onto a Anime.

Title Fuuka : SEO Kouji (Manga)

Once again another master piece still on-going by SEO Kouji. He has managed to be able to link up almost all of his best series in one way or another. This is the story of the daughter shown in his previous hit Suzuka. Although she isn't precisely the protagonist of the series she does majorly impact the course of the protagonist. With just 7 chapters, fuuka has managed to explore many emotions.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? In all honesty; I continue to look further into manga and anime, I finish one series and I have to replace it by moving on to the next to fill the gap. This gap that is made after following a series and its OVA.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? Particularly I am very interested in Japanese school life; and their traditions such as summer festivals. With cherry blossoms, yukatas and tasty bentos, who wouldn't be interested.

What do you expect from us? Anime reviews, and recommendations. With multiple people who watch anime and read manga that could help me find the styles I'm interested in and filter out other types.

Hopefully in the future we could try to start our own manga as a group, or maybe a translation group.

What do you think we expect from you? To be active and helpful. Hopefully help other members that might have similar taste to find a new series he or she might enjoy.

Please link your MAL (MyAnimeList) profile In all honesty I don't have a My Anime List, as I said before I'm barely reaching a year but this might help my application.

I connected to the teamspeak earlier and the mascot decided to leave as he saw who I was.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? A have been a fan boy of Anime since I was a kid watching Dragon Ball and a bunch of other animes on tv. Although I did not realize I was an anime lover because I was unaware of it being a genre until I was about 13 when my friend showed me Choas Head. And fuck was that I weird one to start back on anime but never the less I fell in love with it.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them. Like most people I fell in with Naruto because he is an adorable dumb ass who cares too much. With this said unlike some people who find Fairy Tale atrocious I love Natsu because again he is unknowingly a dumb ass who again cares

Fairy Tale

Naruto Shippuden

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? I have not been active on Hack Forums because of IRL issues but they have become obsolete and I have been back on HF for a while, I watch anime almost everyday and I would love to have a community where I can share my opinion on different animes and also be a fanboy again.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? Unfortunately my interest only resides in anime and the stories that are told within each of the series.

What do you expect from us? I expect a loving community who shares the love that I have of anime.

What do you think we expect from you? As stated by the OP I will be an active user in the group and to be part of this wonderful anime loving community, I will also be expected to be active in the groups different activities that are put together

Please link your MAL (MyAnimeList) profile Again unfortunately I do not have one I primarily use websites that I do not have to sign up to view animes, such as watchcartoononline, I have also used my friends crunchy-roll account in the past.

Thank you for your time!

Tohka Yatogami - January 26, 2015, 7:06 pm

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I been into the Anime scene since I was 7 years old, so about 10 years. Those days originate when I first viewed Toonami. I was intrigued that cartoon network aired such amazing shows after late night, which then brought Inuyasha into the mix. I would spend countless late night hours watching these shows along with others. Their onward from these two shows, opened up a variety of Anime to my liking which I am now watching and living today!

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Date A Live:

I am absolutely obsessed with Tohka Yatogami! I could never for what it is find any other dating like sim that pleased my pallet. Its diversity to other anime sparked my original interest. Not to mention the plethora of titles within the series kept me quite busy for some time. The author of this anime Koshi Tachibana kept me begging for more(no pun intended), and opened up an outlet for me in his writings.

InuYasha:

From the early start of my up comings into the anime/manga scene, InuYasha took its place as my go to manga/anime lot and character development with all the twist and turns kept me enticed as I couldn't stop reading. I was astounded on how many allies she came to see for her age. With their help and others, she was able to succeed in her goal. This plot overwhelmed me and thought out to find similar anime occurrences that took place with teamwork and a well balanced goal.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I Live, Breath, Eat and Die anime.. Without it I don't know what else I would do as most things I do derive one way around anime. Let it be the games I play or the music I listen too, they all have their start from my passion. As a member in the group, I feel that I can share a lot to the anime scene. I still have a lot to learn about anime, but than again I feel that I can bring fourth and share a lot to others in the group. Let it be from reviews or synopsis of works or even the occasional debates that may occur. I can guarantee surplus of amenities for the group in whole!

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I have a big sweet tooth for Japanese style candy. I have a thing for those DIY candy kits. Just the fact that you can build your own delicious creation and have something to amaze before you devour it, whats better than that? Besides the candy I also love the style of cuisine that the Japanese have to offer. I have came to crave Hibachi restaurants in my are at least once every week or so. Just the way they are able to make a plentiful, divine tasting dish in the Hibachi stove or dish amazes me. By far my favorite Japanese instant noodle has to be Nissin Raoh Rich Soy Sauce Flavor. Just the taste of the soy that lingers on the tongue after I clean the bowl, keeps me coming back. I am lucky to have a local grocery store that has food from all parts of the world. I am constantly going back and fourth trying and sampling many of the Japanese products. Food and sweets is by far my favorite cultural aspect to Japan!

What do you expect from us?

Acceptance & Friendship. I stand firm behind these two symbolic words. I want to find a community that shares the same likes as myself and I would like to think I found that in this group. I know it takes effort to read though various applications on a day to day basis, and I am thankful for you the reviewers to read over mine. I made sure to revamp my post from the original. I took the time to truly express my feelings and put my emotions into the application. I Hope if I do happen to get accepted, that their will be a welcoming community to come into. I myself am a friendly person and hope to explore and make new friends from the group.

What do you think we expect from you?

You the group will get my all of my utmost attention. Let it be from my attentiveness or contributions that I can bring fourth. I am a natural giver and learned that from an early age. Sharing is caring in other words, the more people collaborate ultimately brings out the best in everyone. Also from helping fellow members with the anime scene and taking their considerations at hand. Overall I think from my readiness and mass upbringing, I should be great addition to the group.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

Im into anime since I'm 6 years old, 12 years already, well that's kind of short story, I everyone in my class started talking about how cool is Goku from Dragon Ball Z, so I just had to watch it and got into it, then I kept watching more and more animes until now :)

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

InuyashaWell so that anime pretty much meant everything for me, I kept watching it over and over.. Laughing on funny scenes, crying on dramatic scenes, and I have a lot of Inuyasha's stuff in my room, such as his sword, toys, bracclets.. I just really enjoyed the story, because it's a mix between drama and action.

Shin ChanWell Shin Chan was the first thing on TV that made me laugh my ass off, that dude was funny because he is careless about everything and searching for chicks all day long, then dancing with his booty and making his parents dummy, yeah good times (going to watch this again)

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

In would really love to discuss with anime lovers, sharing good moments, experience and sad moments.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I really love Japanese food, I'm a bodybuilder so I eat only healthy, but once a week I eat a cheat meal, so it's definitely Japanese meal, and I really love Japanese melodies (which you can hear in sad scenes), it breaks my heart and I start crying, I have over 200 melodies like that on my phone.

What do you expect from us?

I expect that there will be nice talkative members, no trolls, and a lot of good discussions about anime.

What do you think we expect from you?

First of all as mentioned before, you expect activity on subforums, and being a nice and helpful member.

iMew - January 28, 2015, 12:57 pm

How long have you been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? I started with watching Pokémon, Digimon, Sailor Moon and Kamikaze Kaitou Jeanne like 10 years ago if that counts. I haven't really 'been into' anime until 5 years ago though, when I watched Gunslinger Girl, Elfen Lied, Chobits and some others.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Mahou Shoujo Madoka? Magica As I said above I pretty much grew up with the magical girl genre, so seeing a different take on it amazed me. I also love Shaft's work in general.

Elfen Lied (Manga) One of the first mangas I've read and I enjoyed every chapter of it. It's a lot better than the anime (which I also loved at the time) and I still think it has the best ending from any of the anime/manga I've seen.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? Pretty much the only part of HF I frequent is AA so I'll naturally also stay active in the group thingy, as it covers my interests.

What are your interests in Japanese culture? Obviously the otaku culture but I'm also interested in all the festivals they have such as Tanabata, Hanami, Bon etc. and their history.

What do you expect from us? I hope that the average level of quality is higher than it is in the AA section (which has a lot of threads made about recommendations and questions that you can google in 2 seconds). I also expect you to discuss anime, duh.

What do you think we expect from you? trashtalking people's waifus Participation in discussions and community/group events, being friendly and tolerant, trashtalking people's waifus.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I've been into Japanese culture since I was ~7 years old. I'm 21 now. It really took off with Kingdom Hearts back in 2002. I fell in love with the themes sung by Utada Hikaru and purchased every CD that she had out. That's what ignited my love for Japanese culture. I would spend hours listening to Japanese music and reading books on Japanese culture each day for awhile. I've been watching anime just as long. My first show was FLCL back in 2003. I was always an insomniac - so I'd be up all night watching anime on Adult Swim. Inuyasha, Cowboy Bebop, FLCL, etc. Japanese culture has always been a part of my life in some shape or form. Everything I love is usually of Japanese origin. My favorite films, video game series, dishes, and composers are all out of Japan!

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Madoka Magica

Madoka Magica is a masterpiece. It starts off like any other magical girl anime but quickly and tastefully spirals into something much darker. I love the character growth of each magical girl as well. The musical styling of Yuki Kajiura is icing on the cake.

Mirai Nikki

Mirai Nikki will always be one of my favorites because of the memories I have attached to it. It also helps that it's a really enjoyable show to watch. The pacing is great and Yuno's great. She carries the whole show and remains to be one of my favorite characters ever.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I love talking about anime and Japanese culture. Unfortunately, I don't have any friends with interest in Japanese culture or anime. All of my thoughts (I have a lot) regarding Japanese culture and anime will be funneled into this group.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Just about everything. I love the music/film/etc, the food, the people, the history, the language, etc. Japan has always been one of my biggest interests. I'll actually be studying abroad in Japan next year and realizing a dream that I've had for awhile.

What do you expect from us?

I expect a welcoming and active group of people that share my interests and hobbies.

What do you think we expect from you?

Intelligent high quality posts, a friendly demeanor, and regular activity. I can provide all three and more ?

Please link your MAL (MyAnimeList) profile

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I've been into anime since 4th grade, to be honest. I'm almost 19 now and out of school so, it has been quite a while.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Steins;Gate (I know, a popular choice but, for a good reason)

Steins;gate was a very interesting experience, really. It was one of the first HIGH QUALITY series I ever watched. The characters were really interesting and the story was amazing, in my opinion.

Parasyte

Okay, I can't get enough of this series to be honest. The story is interesting the the character progression is the best I've ever seen. The music is outstanding and the fights while short, are sweet. Also, this is the first series ever to make me buy the manga.

Hajime no Ippo

I thought I would add another series just because. Hajime no ippo is nothing like what I expected when I started watching it. I thought, eh, a sports series. Lets see how this goes but, I ended up being very happy with the series. The fights were amazing, the art and animation was just outstanding as well.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

As long as I love Anime, I will have something to talk about. After watching a series, I always have the urge to talk about it with someone.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I'm not completely interested in Japanese culture to be honest. However, their language is beautiful and I really like their school system.

What do you expect from us?

I expect a community that I can have fun with, chat with, laugh with and have serious anime related discussions.

What do you think we expect from you?

I would assume you guys are expecting high quality forum members that also happen to be anime fans.

VGM2021 - January 31, 2015, 3:03 pm

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? Well ever since I was a little kid I used to watch cartoon network, toonami and other channels that used to broadcast anime's such as one piece and DBZ. At this time I was around 5/6 and I really enjoyed watching it. Before I knew it I was 13 years old with over 50 Anime series completed and started to get into manga reading. At first I found it really hard and I didn't even know if I had to read from left to right or right to left :P but yea, I gradually got into that and really liked it. I mainly only watch sub because I feel as if the anime is more intense and nerve racking with anime actors. On the other hand, dubbed anime seem's really off and just isn't for me. I occasionally watch forneverworld's youtube reviews on anime's to get an insight on other people's views and opinions because I want to know what other people think then I comment on the video my own opinions and usually get 50likes/comment :P Also, I wouldn't say I'm upto date with anime creators but I do tend to do some research regarding writers and so on.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Psycho Pass

The storyline of this anime is very sympathetic and understandable because it consists of humans people judged by a system in relation to their crime co-officent, basically whether they're a criminal or not.

They are judged by sibyl guns which take action depending on how big the number is on their psycho pass. Now my opinion is that the system is fucked up because it has many flaws and many innocent people can get hurt as a result of this but this anime really gets you thinking like what if this was happening in real life, what would you do. In addition, even the investigators who are supposed to pass down judgements become criminals sooner or later because of all the fucked up shit they've experienced.

To sum it up, this anime is very good in terms of story line, character progression, no time-wasting and has lots of epic scenes which give you goose-s :D

Tengen Toppa Gurren Lagann

Gurren Lagann which I've rewatched countless times is my second favorite anime mainly because of how epic kamina is. I really liked this anime because the characters are unique from many other anime's and they give you a different vibe from many other characters. Of course I'm talking about Simon and Kamina. In the start of the anime Kamina and Simon would strive to go to the top and go all-in without a second's thought. Kamina just wanted to keep going without stopping no matter what and he also believed in Simon no matter what happens. When Kamina died, Simon was depressed as fuck and felt like he wanted to quit life and nothing mattered anymore but then he realized and he regained his confidence and remembered that someone believed in him until the last second of his life and that's what motivated him the most.

Overall, I love this anime and not to mention the fight scenes are also good but the main reason I like it is because of characters like Kamina/Simon who keep on going no matter what happens they don't give up. A little like Luffy from One Piece.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I am a big anime fan, I watch at least 2 episodes of anime in general everyday and read around 3 manga chapters a week. My activity will only decrease if I stop watching anime which will never happen because I<3Anime :D

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Well to be frankly honest, I personally haven't researched much into Japanese culture but I do know a fair amount of things since I do watch anime which are based in Japan but I'd like to learn more.

What do you expect from us?

Just overall good discussion/opinion threads about anime/manga/up coming anime/trailers.

What do you think we expect from you?

Daily content of posting within the subform about anime and sharing me views about anime/manga in a positive way. I don't flame, I'm always kind when expressing my views.

I'll give this another go.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? ~8months for real; Pokémon, Digimon when I was younger and some hentai a few years ago. I came across it by searching it up on the internet after seeing all these weird people with anime avatars and writing "kawaii desu" everywhere and decided to give it a go. Also the chicks were hot, and yuri was frequent.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Spice and Wolf is a rather mature anime I feel, and considering I love both economics and the medieval era this hit the spot for me. I am very much fond of the art style they used here, and I think the writing of the show is great. The character also develop or change over time which keeps it from being boring. I picked up some manga to continue reading the story after the anime.

Grisaia no Kajitsu (VN) is my favourite VN to date, despite it's size. I find most of the characters here likeable and very interesting each in their own way. Furthermore the MC isn't a dense fuck and his back story that gets revealed bit for bit is very interesting and kept me glued to the VN for long periods of time. It's also hilarious.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? I have a lot of free time despite my studies and check HF daily. If I'm part of a group I do my best to at least post once a day, hopefully more, to keep my activity level above the requirement. Also this would be my only group.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? Anime, manga, literature, history, food, nature, language, social behavior and gestures. I am also a fan of J-pop and vocaloid. And I like a lot of the oriental arts although that isn't limited to japan.

What do you expect from us? I expect a place where I can discuss common interests (anime, manga, japanese culture & music) and a place I can have some fun. A place to be on HF, because I'm not encouraged to be very active in any other section right now. I also expect the group to some day create a device that let us enter the 2D world.

What do you think we expect from you? Daily activity, not being a bitch, respect others, and actually participate in things. You do things like group watchings etc, no?

H??????a X™ - February 2, 2015, 11:39 am

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? I recently got into anime back in March of last year. Little earlier, give or take. I have come to love it more and more as new series come out and how it all works.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them
Clannad I love romance/slice of life. Clannad, to me was a master piece and it took me on one hell of an emotional roller coaster. Probably the first anime to make me cry and actually think more after it was done. Very moving and well done, the art work was great as well. I even did a review on it. Which explains in detail of what I liked.

Future Diary Mainly because of the crazy Yuno. I loved her and she made the show for me, I didn't like the MC at all but she really made up for it, plus the plot was decent and entertaining. It lead me to watch Deadman Wonderland, however I thought Future Diary was a better series due to the art and characters that were involved.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? I'm always active in groups, especially if I have highly interested in what they offer. Anime fan, sums me up pretty damn well. I love sharing my interests with other people and that includes anime since I can't really go around and share it with people IRL. Not a lot of my friends are into it. So I do it all online.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? Honestly, I'm new to the culture of Japan. I know/learned bits and pieces of it from anime. It intrigues me, how they live, act and their mannerism. It's a completely different and new to me. I love it, plus the school settings in anime are pretty neat.

What do you expect from us? I simply expect to not be judged from my interests, meet friendly people who like anime and have a good time. It looks like a very good group.

What do you think we expect from you? You can expect a few things:

- Activity
- Maturity

- Kind
- Fun
- Resourceful

Just some things you can expect from me and I'll uphold all of them.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I've always enjoyed Anime. I've been watching Anime since I was in the fourth grade, but recently I haven't been watching much at all. I really miss watching Anime, so I figured getting into AnimeFAN! would refuel my desire to watch it and I could hopefully find some good series' to get into. I came across Anime itself at a young age as I would always watch Adult Swim at night and there was always about an hour or two dedicated to Anime. It was usually Bleach or Inuyasha.

Bleach

I loved Bleach. Every night I used to hook my computer up to our TV and stream it on Hulu, I watched every single episode on Hulu in about a week or two. (300ish episodes, I believe.) I was literally obsessed. I loved it for it's assortment of characters more than anything as is the case with most anime I watch. There were serious characters, unbelievably funny characters, smart characters, cool characters, cute characters, everything. Also, there was always something new and exciting with each episode. I really want to get into Bleach again and see how everything turned out. Oh, and I had the theme song to each season in my head all the time. I can still recite some of them, haha.

Chibi Vampire/Karin

I loved this one. It was incredibly charming. I fell in love with every single character. This show single-handedly made me want to be a vampire at a young age. None of that Twilight crap. My favorite character was the little sister, Anju, as she was always so mysterious, yet so likeable at the same time. I watched the entire series over the course of a few weeks and I'm debating doing it again. If you haven't seen it, it's definitely well worth the watch. I believe most of the episodes are/were on YouTube if you can't find them anywhere else.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I'm naturally active in all the groups I join. However, in terms of what would keep me the most active? Discussion. I love discussing my interests with other people that have the same interests. If the subforum is active, then I will be active as well. Simple as that, honestly. From what I'm seeing out of the group so far, that shouldn't be a problem in the slightest.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Everything. The number one thing? Probably the food. I'm a sucker for anything asian food-wise. My favorite food in the entire world is sushi as seen from the sushi award. I just wish it wasn't so darn expensive, haha. If you put a plate of sushi in front of me, don't expect it to be there for much longer.

What do you expect from us?

The only thing I expect is active discussion. I'd also love to, as previously stated, get back into Anime. I was in love with it and then I just stopped watching it for some reason. It's hard to get into new Animes when you don't know of many good animes anymore. I'm hoping that, with getting into AnimeFAN!, I'll be able to discover new Animes and refuel my desire to watch Anime in general.

What do you think we expect from you?

What do I think you expect from me? Activity. I think you expect me to be active and participate in group discussions and projects. I believe I am able to do exactly that and hopefully, in the future, lead most of those discussions.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general, and how did you come across it?

I've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture for a couple years now. I was first introduced to it back when I was 13 when I watched Toonami.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Zankyou no Terror

This show was able to drive quite a few emotions out of me while watching. There wasn't a single dull moment the entire time.

Sakurasou no Pet na Kanojo

This show is just amazing imo. Every time I watch it my mood just gets 100x better. It's a show that I'd watch over and over and over again. (Which I have.)

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I'm able to stay active on a lot of things right now because school isn't too hard and I don't have any extra activities after to occupy my time.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I really enjoy the music they produce. You can tell that the people who make it actually pour their souls into every song. Also, of course Anime and Vocaloid.

What do you expect from us?

A nice place to kick back and read some posts. Mainly a more HQ version of AA.

What do you think we expect from you?

In that case, I guess I will try my luck if you don't mind.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I started watching anime in March 2013 after a friend on another forum suggested I try it out by first watching the somewhat infamous School Days. I liked it and began feeding on series after series via Crunchyroll until I had cleared everything that was appealing (About 90% of Crunchyroll's UK repository). I've been in love with anime ever since. As for manga, I do not tend to read any as most is ongoing and I prefer to go through things in one fell swoop.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them:

Title Papa no Iukoto wo Kikinasai! / Listen To Me Girls, I Am Your Father!

Reason The anime series is sweet, and rather heart-warming with the way how the MC takes it upon himself to look after, not one, nor two, but three children whilst he is still in university, and the trials and tribulations that come with that responsibility. Episode one drops the bombshell leading on to the story itself and you're hit by the feels train. The OVA is split into three sections, filled with laughs, an unfathomable situation (Hella ecchi (Still funny)) and a bittersweet ending.

Title Higashi no Eden / Eden Of The East

Reason This series is incredible, I truly loved it, it was even the first anime series I brought on DVD when I started collecting. The storyline is thoroughly interesting and rather thought-provoking, and the movie sequels provide a great ending to the series. Also, lets not forget about the incident in front of the White House.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I enjoy anime, as long as there are decent conversations going on in regards to something I've watched and/or in the middle of, or if there are users looking for suggestions, I'll be there. As for manga-specific conversations, I will not really be able to provide much of an input, as previously stated, I do not tend to read it.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Primarily anime and Asian cinema, however I do enjoy Japanese music, whilst it is different to that of a lot of Western music, I find it almost preferable. Another thing about the Japanese that I do appreciate is the beer, shochu and sake.

What do you expect from us?

I expect a welcoming environment where users are able to come together collectively to provide meaningful conversations within topics, whilst I do post on the topics in the AA section where I can, a lot of the topics are kind of low quality, and I am hoping that within the AnimeFAN group will be much better.

What do you think we expect from you?

I think that you would expect members of the group to remain active by contributing with quality and to remain courteous to other members of the group.

How long you've been into anime/manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it ?

I've been into anime for about 2 years now, all started in college when I saw an advert for deadman wonderland and thought I'd give it a watch. I was hell-bent on dubbed anime at the time so I would only watch dubbed. However I soon realised that there's so much anime that isn't dubbed and decided to try a subbed anime (Mirai Nikki).

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

My favourite anime hands down is Darker than Black (Season 1 though, season 2 didn't happen). One of my most used searches is for 'Overpowered anime main characters', I don't know why but if the main character has a really dumb advantage I love it - you can tell from my watch list on MAL.

If I had to pick a second favourite anime it would be Zetsuen no Tempest, it is one of the best written anime's I have ever seen, along with the soundtrack it's just in another league.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

Although I have been inactive as of late (due to the fact of exams) I am finally back and will be posting as much as I used to. I was in the old old animeFAN! group which I guess has some merit here and one of the main admins for the old old official anime minecraft server.

What are your interests in Japanese culture?

Japanese culture is the only interesting culture in the world. I'm going on an extended holiday to Japan in August with a friend (It's part of a long trip to multiple countries), we chose Japan because of how different everything is, mainly in religion. Also the girls are pretty hot.

What do you expect from us?

Hopefully a more select group of people that will be better than the anime section at the moment. Also maybe some group activities together to keep everyone known, and just general chat with other people that have similar interests.

What do you think we expect from you?

Daily activity in the groups forum.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

Ah let's see it all started one night when i was alone watching netflix and felt to watch something ecchi so i started watching this anime called "Girls Bravo" which was apparently somewhere in 2010-12 and yes even tho my only desire was to see breast and ass i enjoyed the anime and continued to watch it and my second one was Angel Beats then Clannad and the story hit me pretty deep which was the first to ever happen to me so i got really attached to anime and proceeded to watch more like FMA, Eden of the east, Spice and Wolf, soul eater, you know the ones on netflix but then i decided to watch the online which then started with The Melancholy of Haruhi Suzumiya and from there it just grew more and more and by then i've had watch over 700+ episodes till today and more just got lazy to keep track on what i watch on my MAL list but that's pretty much my story on how i became a Anime Fan and still am i watch Anime from time to time which im currently watching Log Horizon and will soon start more.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

The Melancholy of Haruhi Suzumiya, Just the characters and the story was very interesting and that im into anything related to Sci-Fi and Slice of Life Genre, but the main reason is the Character Haruhi shes just full of spirit no matter what sets down her path shes always full of Energy and Happiness and doesn't take No for an Answer, and i can say the same with Kyon :) and for my Second would have to be something very similar to it so probably have to be Angel Beats as Yuri/Yurippe is also the same and same goes for Otonashi.

Title

The Melancholy of Haruhi Suzumiya

Title

Angel Beats!

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I've been into Anime as long as i can remember, when i was a little kid i watched DBZ, Pokemon, Beyblade and all of those shows before i knew what Anime even was.

Now the way i started to watch None mainstream Anime was from forums such as 4chan around 7 years ago, i heard people talk about it and it sounded just like the shows i always watch so i decided to watch some Anime on my PC and i absolutely loved it and i still do.

Whereas Manga i started reading it approximately 3 years ago on my phone with an app, i read manga when i'm not at home or when i don't have access to internet.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Title Hunter x Hunter 2011 :

Absolutely love this show because i read part of the manga and when i heard they would make a new Anime for it i was blown away. I love the anime as it's filled with constant action and has a solid story behind it, Each character has it's own goals and i'm in love with killua, hes just too legit.

Title Claymore [manga] :

It was the first manga i ever read and i can say it was also my favorite. It has so many twists and cool looking "monsters" , it has really good artwork and the battle scenes are some of the best i've seen. The story of how a claymore is protecting a young boy is just heart touching which is one of the main reasons as too why it's one of my favorite.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I've never been so much into Anime as right now, but there aren't that many places i know of that you can talk about Anime with and that is where i could see this group coming into play.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

It's one of the places i just have too visit once in my life. Obviously the Anime/mangas they create are so good, the food is perfect and they make some of the best music there is.

What do you expect from us?

An active community of people who love and share their interest in Anime.
Aswell as people to talk with about Anime and newest episodes etc.

What do you think we expect from you?

An active member who stays HQ , stays updated on Anime and in general is just an "animefan".

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

In 2008 a spark of Japanese Culture entered the US. That spark was ponyo. I went to go see Ponyo in theaters with my Mom and we shared one of the greatest experiences I have ever had. Ponyo felt like something I have never seen. Characters with real emotions and feelings rather than the fake ones displayed on Reality TV and other Media. This is what brought me into the past 7 years of worshipping Hayao Miyazaki and Anime and the Japanese Culture in general.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Tonari no Seki-kun

This is a very good anime comprised of 21 episodes at about 6 minutes each. The reason I love it so much is because they are short episodes yet within the episode you learn more and more about the characters and the setting. It is a very playful, fun, comedy anime!

Mirai Nikki

Once again the emotional attachment. Yuno is an absolutely insane character but what she says and feels for Yuki is true love. The plot of this is very good as well attached with character development.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

If I can grow an emotional attachment to a Culture, I can easily grow an attachment to a group of people who love the things I do.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I love quite a bit about it. A big majority is definitely the clothes. I am in love with streetwear and brands such as, Billionaire Boys Club, Bape, Superdry, etc.

What do you expect from us?

Nice people who will cherish Japan with me

What do you think we expect from you?

To be a caring member with legitimate input rather than low quality posts.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I've been into anime for a long time now. Ever since middle school I've watched it one form or another. It wasn't really until late highschool/college that I seriously started getting into it though. Now at 22 I've seen quite a few different anime and read lots of manga. I'm pretty knowledgeable about anime in general and could seriously talk about it with someone all day because of just the sheer amount that I've come across.

Of course when I was a kid I used to watch Dragon Ball z, yu yu, inuyasha, etc. on the TV and record it on video tapes (lol). But it wasn't til late that I really realized what anime was and exactly how much of it was out there. But I'd have to say it was those shows that I watched as a kid is what got me into anime because I was always searching for something similar to what I used to watch.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Tough question. Maybe if you said I could list ten it'd be easier. But I'll pick two if I have to, lol. I guess I'll go with Great Teacher Onizuka and Nodame Cantabile. These two have a special place in my heart.

As for Great Teacher Onizuka, I had a great time watching this anime, I laughed my ass off pretty much the whole time. And I couldn't get over how cool Onizuka was as a teacher. It's kinda like that concept behind the School of Rock movie of you've ever seen it. The teacher isn't any normal teacher, and because of that, he was able to bond with students that much more. There are scenes that make you want to cry and scenes that will have you smiling like an idiot at your computer screen.

And Nodame Cantabile, well I haven't been able to find too many fans of this anime which is disappointing as it's a great one. It's the anime that got me into piano which I am thankful for. I've never seen a better mix of music/romance anywhere. I guess it's not such a common theme though. But the classical music in this anime is amazing, and the relationship between the two mains is definitely different. Nodame, the main char., is extremely likable and hilarious. I seriously love her so much.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

As you can see, I haven't been active lately, but that's because I was super busy with stuff. I'm coming back and am going to be more active than ever, if only in the anime sub-forum. I need a place where I can talk about anime with a large group of people, and what better place than this? I love talking anime so I'll be posting for sure, that's about all I can say.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I'm actually not really too interested in the Japanese culture. It's sort of odd when you see these anime fans who are under some kind of wrong impression that they get from watching anime. Yes, I can understand a healthy interest in the culture, you know, you wanna go see some temples, eat some yakisoba or whatever lol. But then you have those that take it too far, they think one day they can move to Japan and start up a new life and fit in with the Japanese. Well I've heard some horror stories about that. The Japanese will always see you as a foreigner and in a lot of cases will be reluctant to approach you. Anyway, I'd be interested to visit for a month or so and travel to all of the famous places, but I don't really have any dreams of getting myself a waifu and kodomos..wat.

What do you expect from us?

I'm not really expecting a whole lot, just hoping that the group has a diverse range of anime fans (which I'm sure it is) because I'm not about to talk about Sword Art Online for any amount of time. It would be nice if there were some interesting topics I could take part in, if not, I can start my own. I'm also hoping that the members inside the group are friendly and not stuck up or anything like that. I know that a lot of anime members have elitist attitudes or whatever, like "your favorite anime is shit" etc.

What do you think we expect from you?

I know that you can expect activity from me. You can expect a fun attitude and an open mind. I'm down for anything, really.

Name two of your favorite Anime / Manga / Visual Novel / Light Novel and why you like them

? Mirai Nikki ?Future Diary? What to say about this marvelous anime lot of emotion from beginning to end i am disappointed that yuki am not staying with gasai , it still has murmur .. this anime remain one of my pearl favorite .

? Black Lagoon In the same case as Future Diary one of my favorites i watch season 1 & 2 (the second barrage) + OAV (Roberta's Blood Trail) so much intensity in that anime the end remains all the same sad with rosarita cisneros , especially "rock" that intrigues me it will go dark side at roanapura city i expected after impatiently ! .

What guarantees must your activity in our group as time goes on?

I guarantee a good mood with the community i am ready to help the members for any problem i guarantee activity has ANIMEFAN! community onee-chan .

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I am interested in Japanese culture (JP) and Korean (KR) and Thai (TH) especially Korean culture , i listen to a lot right now KPOP and KRAP and JRAP music and i listen and also many japanese trap , i went to see to Hong Kong to view 2NE1concert of Lee Chae Rin ? during my travel to vacancy HK . and the food japanese you love ? I love japanese food i like sushi & sashimi and chirashi and noodle these i eat the most in japanese food .

What do you expect from us?

A good agreement with ANIMEFAN! community and sharing bro .

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

To tell you truth i was a fan of anime for a long time maybe a 4-5 years but i really didn't know it was anime to tell you the truth :3 i remember watching bleach,Naruto and Inuyasha on Toonami at like 11PM xD, how did i come across it I guess just by watching cartoons xD than my whole life changed

Sword Art Online The Reason why i like SAO its not because how good the 1st arc is or how the story goes. its because it lets us dream of a world that could come reality, been able to play virtual games feel the game not just sit behind a computer an click but to actually feel the pain an be able to move an interact with people :P

Great Teacher Onizuka Pretty sure not many people know about this GREAT ANIME I mean its probably one of our wishes when we were kids to have a teacher like that but also teaches you something about life.. how things can change when you meet the right person.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? I can guarantee that i will always support anime since its been part of my life an it has gotten me through alot of things, an I will do my best to educate those anime haters >:D

What are your interest in Japanese culture? The culture of japan is a really sensitive but unique culture. Its a complete different place no one judges you or says anything wheny you are going into the arcades or the anime convention areas :P Yes i have been to Akihabara.

What do you expect from us? I don't expect much to tell you the truth but I would like to have a family of people that love anime as much as I do, that will also give me other great animes to watch :P

What do you think we expect from you? To be the person that educates people about anime and pushes them to give that certain anime a try :3

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I've been into anime for a long time now. Ever since middle school I've watched it one form or another. It wasn't really until late highschool/college that I seriously started getting into it though. Now at 22 I've seen quite a few different anime and read lots of manga. I'm pretty knowledgeable about anime in general and could seriously talk about it with someone all day because of just the sheer amount that I've come across.

Of course when I was a kid I used to watch Dragon Ball Z, Yu Yu, Inuyasha, etc. on the TV and record it on video tapes (lol). But it wasn't til late that I really realized what anime was and exactly how much of it was out there. But I'd have to say it was those shows that I watched as a kid that got me into anime because I was always searching for something similar to what I used to watch.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Tough question. Maybe if you said I could list ten it'd be easier. But I'll pick two if I have to, lol. I guess I'll go with Great Teacher Onizuka and Nodame Cantabile. These two have a special place in my heart.

As for Great Teacher Onizuka, I had a great time watching this anime, I laughed my ass off pretty much the whole time. And I couldn't get over how cool Onizuka was as a teacher. It's kinda like that concept behind the School of Rock movie of you've ever seen it. The teacher isn't any normal teacher, and because of that, he was able to bond with students that much more. There are scenes that make you want to cry and scenes that will have you smiling like an idiot at your computer screen.

And Nodame Cantabile, well I haven't been able to find too many fans of this anime which is disappointing as it's a great one. It's the anime that got me into piano which I am thankful for. I've never seen a better mix of music/romance anywhere. I guess it's not such a common theme though. But the classical music in this anime is amazing, and the relationship between the two mains is definitely different. Nodame, the main char., is extremely likable and hilarious. I seriously love her so much.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

As you can see, I haven't been active lately, but that's because I was super busy with stuff. I'm coming back and am going to be more active than ever, if only in the anime sub-forum. I need a place where I can talk about anime with a large group of people, and what better place than this? I love talking anime so I'll be posting for sure, that's about all I can say.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I'm actually not really too interested in the Japanese culture. It's sort of odd when you see these anime fans who are under some kind of wrong impression that they get from watching anime. Yes, I can understand a healthy interest in the culture, you know, you wanna go see some temples, eat some yakisoba or whatever lol. But then you have those that take it too far, they think one day they can move to Japan and start up a new life and fit in with the Japanese. Well I've heard some horror stories about that. The Japanese will always see you as a foreigner and in a lot of cases will be reluctant to approach you. Anyway, I'd be interested to visit for a month or so and travel to all of the famous places, but I don't really have any dreams of getting myself a waifu and kodomo..wat.

What do you expect from us?

I'm not really expecting a whole lot, just hoping that the group has a diverse range of anime fans (which I'm sure it is) because I'm not about to talk about Sword Art Online for any amount of time. It would be nice if there were some interesting topics I could take part in, if not, I can start my own. I'm also hoping that the members inside the group are friendly and not stuck up or anything like that. I know that a lot of anime members have elitist attitudes or whatever, like "your favorite anime is shit" etc.

What do you think we expect from you?

I know that you can expect activity from me. You can expect a fun attitude and an open mind. I'm down for anything, really.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

Since I was a shorta. I have been really into anime for a long time now. Love watching anime, going to cons and spending time with my waifu. I also enjoy Japanese food, art, manga and culture. I plan on going to become a English teacher in Japan when I'm done with college.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Title

Angel beats!

Loved this anime. Saw it with a friend of mine enjoyed almost every aspect of it. The deep plot, likeable charcters and the setting.

Title

K-On!

I love slice of life. This helped me enjoy high school alot. Most of my friends were watching this so we would often make jokes that we all got. It's a cute anime and love the school outfits. I even cosplayed as Yui one year from this!

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I like to spend all of my free time online. Disusing new animes

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Food, Lifestyle, Language. I love the city part of it but lately have been really enjoying learning about the rural/country side of Japan. Great place all around.

What do you expect from us?

People to talk to about anime, spend time with, goof around. A group that doesn't take everything seriously. Sort of like a group to kick back and enjoy life with (my favorite type of animu)

What do you think we expect from you?

Someone who is respectful. Active in the sub-forum and someone who will contribute something to the group and is active.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? Well, I was 15 when I found it so about 2 years ago. Some of my friends suggested Sword Art Online too me in a Skype call and I watched.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them Well one of my absolute favorite was Angel Beats, I loved how the story progressed as they slowly start realizing that they don't have the fight and all become friends, I love and hate the ending of the Anime just the tear jerking story of the teens makes it even better. I also enjoyed Akame Ga Kill; It's the first Anime I liked so much I read both the Manga and Anime at the same time, I loved the Art work of both and the overall story of the revolution and how they're fighting to create a better society. The fight scenes are unbeatable in my opinion.

Title Angel Beats

Title Akame Ga Kill

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? Well, I'm very active in my group Subforums as you can see by my Posting Activity and I am also online most of the day and I am very dedicated.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? Just, the difference between my culture and theirs. It's just interesting to me to see how different it is compared to where I live and it makes me want to learn more.

What do you expect from us? A fun Sub-Forum with active members that I can talk to about not only Anime, Manga and Light Novels but a place where I can just have fun enjoy my time there.

What do you think we expect from you? Activity, A Friendly member and a dedicated member.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? Back in 2010 when a good friend of mine showed me Naruto and since then anime or just japanese culture has blown me away and I'd love to visit japan more than once, I wish to see tokyo but also some of the smaller vilages.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Tokyo Ravens - I really like the story line and the characters, it just really caught me. I also like the fights that are in this anime, it also gave me some laughs.

Monster - I really like this anime because you have to think yourself or at least I have to, this is an anime you should watch if you like psychological anime.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I'm looking into getting active in the aa section and just on hf overall, the reason that I havent is because of personal issues..

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Food, music, history, language and lifestyle.

What do you expect from us?

To become a part of this family, just like when we had our own forum, that was some good old times.

What do you think we expect from you?

A mature, loyal, hq and friendly member.

I will ofc. also be active in the sub-forum.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? I've been into it for about 5 years now. Came across it at the library.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them I enjoyed Soul Eater & Fullmetal Alchemist. I enjoyed these because they greatly represented the manga, and they always left you on the edge of your chair every episode. These were also my favorite because the art style used in them is my personal favorite.

Title Soul Eater

Title Fullmetal Alchemist

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? I can guarantee my activity in the group because I actually read manga daily, and watch a new anime every 2 weeks. I am always able to hop on my computer and start detailed discussions about these animes & mangas! I can also contribute by being active in the group forums with personal readings & opinions.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? I really enjoy comparing & contrasting Japanese culture to the American culture. It's really cool how very little we have in common!

What do you expect from us? i expect to be in a very fun group who enjoys participating in detailed discussions about their anime & manga experience!

What do you think we expect from you? I think you expect for me to be active daily in the group forums, and just overall be a asset to the AnimeFan community!

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? About 1 year and 2 months. I was a noobie on HF and saw this section then I decided to give anime a try. The first anime I watched was either Future Diary or Naruto

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them?

Anime: Future Diary: They were 9/10 good at executing plot twist. They also gave you a clear understanding of what happened and why it happened. Also Yuno is a badass when she has a knife.

Clannad After Story: This wasn't your typical slice of life/romantic anime. They actually got somewhere they had a kid and had fun. They also didn't act like they were 5. It was also a very sad anime only AS the original isn't sad.

Manga: Tokyo Ghoul: The plot was interesting a boy in college had surgery and became half a ghoul. They eventually developed the characters and the mc actually fought and wasn't weak near the end. The ending also kept you wanting even more also (Thank god Tokyo Ghoul re came out).

Nozoki Ana: The story was so interesting and had about 117 chapters. They didn't just make it some light hentai manga but they also included drama, romance and plot twist.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? All I can guarantee is that I'll be on at 7 PM Eastern Time. I can also always attend anime nights on the weekend or Friday.

What are your interests in Japanese culture? Most of everything. The way their houses are, their comedy. The schools are a bit different and they have sports like kendo. The food they eat looks pretty good to.

What do you expect from us? I expect the same thing you expect from me to stay up to date on anime and also be there on Anime Night.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I first came across it when I was a wee little one, probably around the age of 6-8. I watched it on tv, this being Naruto, Dragon Ball and a couple other ones. Truthfully I completely forgot about Anime until I was in grade 8 I believe when my friend showed me ChäoS;HEAd and I fell inlove with anime the same way I did when I was a kid. I have been watching it ever since (has to be 8+ years now of watching it)

Naruto Shippuden:

I love the characters that are in this series, I am sad however the writing of it has stopped thought. The involvement with the characters in this series is a lot more entertaining than most.

High School DxD:

Do I really have to say why I love this one?

There were moments of the series where I couldn't stop laughing! The shit the main character goes through xD

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

Only a few months. Just started getting into it. Really want to get more involved in the community, meet some new faces and get some recommendations and join in with discussions.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Death Note - I understand this may be a mainstream one or over done but it was the first Manga I ever read and finished. It got me started on this journey and really changed my perception on anime culture. I used to think anime was stupid and to over the top but reading the manga and then watching the anime really opened my eyes to how great it can be, I haven't looked back since.

Elfen Lied - one of the more recent Mangas I have read and Anime I have watched. I can't really explain my allure to this one, just the unique story and focus on Lucy made it really enjoyable for me to watch and read. One of the few I have been able to discuss with others, furthering my enjoyment.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

Being a new comer to the Anime world my activity will only increase tenfold as time progress. I want to see more, read more and become involved more with the community as the last few months have really opened my eyes to how great it all is. I understand that your group may consist of many members who have watched anime for a very long time but I still feel I will be able to contribute more and more as time goes on.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I love Japanese culture. Even before I properly became involved in Anime, I took Japanese at school as a language. This gave me a great understanding of the culture and language. I enjoyed it immensely even though my class was very small it was still a great experience that I learned so much from. During this time we went on a trip to Japan which was just one of the greatest trips of my life. Ancient Japanese culture, coupled with modern day is fascinating and I love reading into it and especially love movies and games based on it.

What do you expect from us?

I expect a friendly community with mature discussions and like minded users all working and communicating together to suggest and make each other think critically and openly about different Animes and Mangas. Helping other users with recommendations as well as discussing the pros and cons of individual titles.

What do you think we expect from you?

A mature and active member who will contribute to the best of their ability and prove their worth in the group. Someone who can have fun and be a benefit to the group as a whole.

Please link your MAL (MyAnimeList) profile

As I am new to the Anime scene I was not aware of this sites existence, however I will be creating a profile shortly!

I understand that I may not be a huge, old timer fan of Anime but I really want to get to know some new people and get involved in some great discussions. Can't wait to see what's in store.

Thanks for your time in reading this.

Whatever your decision, all the best in your future endeavours.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? Since I was very young, toonami got me hooked, as I grew older I delved deeper and deeper.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Cowboy bebop Cowboy bebop is an old favorite, very nostalgic, and I love the plot. Trigun & cowboy bebop really gave me my start on anime.

Darker than black Another one of my favorites, most animes with a dark and edgy protagonist seem to draw me in. Hei is an absolute beast and the show had me nail-biting throughout.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? I have been very inactive over the past year, but have returned to HF recently now that I have a massive amount of free time. Getting my life together and growing up had a huge role in my inactivity.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? Interests in japanese culture? Well apart from the overwhelming amount of anime I watch/have watched, I have an interest in Karakuri trick boxes, starting to amass quite the collection. The oriental style in general, be it architecture or ceramics, intrigues me.

What do you expect from us? I expect to be able to conversate with like-minded individuals on a daily basis, ^^.

What do you think we expect from you? Well, apart from activity, I'd assume the same as above. I'd love to interact and expand my horizons interests conversating with you all.

Please link your MAL (MyAnimeList) profile <http://myanimelist.net/animelist/CamRaioh> I have tried to update this to the best of my ability, MANY MANY anime are missing. I mainly watch shounen/superpower/supernatural anime, they definitely interest me the most.

I was in the unofficial group before, I can try to dig up past signatures that were made for me, was unable to use them back then since I was not an upgraded user.

I was most active in the section 5 years ago, my freshman year in highschool. I participated in the Christmas secret santa, sending out a gift only to not receive one in return, really discouraged me from increasing my activity. I would really like a new start here, if possible.

By the way, Tweety, are you Tasemu?

If so I know you from either SEnet/Astro as well, talked a bit about your graphics work there in the past.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I've been into the Japanese culture for about 11 years now when I was younger I watched pocket monsters (pokemon), digimon and samurai X along with old school anime. I watch it constantly now ever since then i've been hooked I feel the artist are able to give much more feeling off their work. I'm a huge fan of manga as well the way they read just feels correct. Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Bleach

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I would love to learn about other style anime and manga and who better to learn from than other anime fans.

I watch anime everyday almost without fail and It would be great to have friends or other fans to discuss episodes or seasons of shows.

I wish to hear about shows that made others happy or sad and experience the same thing. What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Yes I am a fan of their electrical music scene and i'm a hatsune miku and vocaloid fan =-D

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I have been around Anime culture since last 4 years. I came across it when Naruto and DBZ used to play on TV as a kid. Later I got internet and continued them online subbed.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Clannad ~AS~ because it showed me what true love means. It made me realize how much tougher life can be. It changed me. It made me the 'strong' and 'optimistic' person I am now. It made empathetic. It taught me how to love again.

Zankyou no Terror because it got hot guys, a great plot, psychology, great music, a chick who cares and a bad-ass bearded man. The story was complete and left no questions in mind. It left me with a bittersweet feeling. The soundtracks are just great and give a nostalgic feel.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

My love for anime and discussing them with people of high caliber and my love for artwork would surely keep me active in the group

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I'm actually just interested in Animation and Manga only, but traditional Japanese dresses, music, lifestyle and poetry does fascinate me a lot.

What do you expect from us?

Active members who actively takes part in discussion

What do you think we expect from you?

Same as above. I'd try to keep my activity as HQ as possible

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? I have been around Anime 3,5 years now! A friend of mine said one day:"You better watch Death note.. Believe me its better than movies and very intelligent!"Well after he made me watch it(he came to my house one day with a gun and said:"watch it or die") i watched it and from that point i wanted more and MORE!

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Stains&Gates: i cant describe what perfect is!

One Piece: YES, the anime is slow! yes it has 600+ episodes and YES most of the episodes are just 1 punch BUT it is the only anime that made me cry! SO MANY EPIC MOMENTS!!

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? I WILL NEVER betray anime and i will ALWAYS be a little anime nerd! Dont worry i will be more than active to your group :D <3

What are your interest in Japanese culture? Hmmmm.. i would say the food! i never tried it and i would really love to! other than that i guess their history.

What do you expect from us? I expect some people who love anime like me to help me with my addiction.....AND MAKE IT WORST :D

What do you think we expect from you? To be friendly,HQ,active,responsible,accept my mistakes and improve(because nobody is perfect) and offer you the best i can for the group!

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? Since about the age of 7, the days when Sailor moon and Pokémon were all the rage~

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them Two of my favorite Anime things are Katawa Shoujo (VN) and Excel Saga (Anime). Katawa Shoujo was my first true trip into a VN (as I hadn't found much love for VNs), I loved the storyline and it's characters. It evoked emotions and I ended up feeling something for the characters along the way (Literally obsessing about Hanako's ending). Excel Saga was no where near my first anime, but it stood out as it couldn't of been anymore ridiculous if it had tried. The entire thing was like someone shoe-horned in the silliest jokes they possibly could (Examples being how they constantly portrayed Across as a Nazi-revolution or how badly Excel was constantly treated by near enough everyone), Plus come on, EP 26 was made to be banned and it got banned, if that's not worth loving I don't know what is!

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? The fact that when I first joined AA was my first true anime forum, others I had run into often got trolled or ruined by morons. I also found the community here extremely welcoming and like a second home. It's beautiful.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? Art, Music, Traditions, War, History.

What do you expect from us? Fun conversations, new animes to look into and find, anime convention suggestions, cosplay advice.

What do you think we expect from you? To be active, welcoming, as awesome as I already am and to contribute to the group in anyway I can.

Please link your MAL (MyAnimeList) profile <http://myanimelist.net/profile/AeriTyaelaria> (Note: Never used MAL until I looked upon the page, I will be updating it in time as I dig through memories :P)

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? I've been watching Anime for a good year now.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

One Piece - I am sure there are much better, but I really like this anime. The action is great although the story sometimes drags on too much.

Fairy Tail - I have just started this anime and I almost put Hunter X Hunter (newer) but I've lost interest in Hunter X Hunter lately.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? I'm an active poster who is on HF everyday. I'm also looking to find more anime to watch and discuss.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? I mostly like the anime.

What do you expect from us? Nothing much. I just would like to have other members besides myself posting and being active. From what I understand this is a discussion group that covers anime.

What do you think we expect from you? I think you expect me to be an active member and to join in on group events and what not when I have time.

Please link your MAL (MyAnimeList) profile I don't have an MAL, I'm still fairly new to anime.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

Oh gad. I believe I got interested in anime when I was a child. When I was about 6-7years old.

And now I'm talkin' about the real shit. The more intense anime shows etc, not like pokemon. Of course I was interested in pokemon when I was young, but the real shit appeared infront at an earlier stage.

This happened by chance though. I was randomly one day, just casually walkin' into my brothers room and saw him watching some oldschool mecha, gore anime show. (To this day, I have no idea what anime it was) I instantly got interested and hooked.

From that day, my brother introduced me to both anime and japanese culture.

Been hooked since. - No regrets!

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them
Naruto

My first anime to this day, where I actually sat down infront of my own computer and started watching was Naruto. Therefore I must put it up as my first fav anime.

Mostly cause it was my first anime. Also it made a domino effect for me and I just had to watch more. Witch started my anime journey.

Fullmetal Alchemist: Brotherhood

My 2nd fav anime might have to be FMA:Brotherhood.

Not sure why though, but it just caught me off guard when I first watched it. Really enjoyed it. I guess for both the story and style it had.

Also the sudden feels that appeared.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

Well, I will probably never stop watching anime. That shit is entertaining! ^_^

Also, I'm in love with the japanese culture, shows, games etc. So you won't get rid of me that fast. Even if you tried. (Please don't try)

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I've always loved taking pictures as a hobby. So I'm a huge fan of how beautiful the country actually is. Specially their gardens, cherry trees!, nature and of course old buildings!

Which brings me to their temples. Would love to visit them one day.

What do you expect from us?

Nothing really.

You guys probably have a some kind of standard here, so I guess the people in the group already love anime/manga and japanese culture. That's enough for me.

As long as the people in the group are friendly, that's a thumbs up from me! ?

What do you think we expect from you?

Emh, hopefully the same as me.

But; be active, friendly and love anime/japanese culture! (?) ^_^

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I'd say since I was 11 or 12 (I'm 21 now). I believe it was Naruto on Toonami that got me started.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Puella Magi Madoka Magika - It's one of the classic magical girl anime, I empathize at least partially with all the characters, and it also has an ending I actually enjoyed and didn't wish was different. Not to mention the movies being pretty damn good.

Haikyuu!!- Despite originally shying away from sports anime; I ended up falling in love with all the characters, actually staying interested in the plot, the animation was beautiful, falling in love with Oikawa was a whirlwind, and I found myself being excited for whatever hopefully comes from Season 2.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

Anime has been a large part of my identity for a decent portion of my life, and thus I try to keep up with it through any means I can. The AA forum being one to stay up to date with shows and threads, I won't have a problem staying active. Plus, a good deal of my college classes require me to be online, so it's not hard for me to check in on the group and make a post or two.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Oh god, where do I start. Being one for trying new foods, I love their cuisine. Their style, at least what I've seen, is something I try and look for in bits and pieces when I go shopping. The language, both written and spoken, is a beauty too.

What do you expect from us?

A place where I can get together with some fans with similar interests and learn more about both shows and the members I talk to.

What do you think we expect from you?

Staying active and/or posting on the forum more or less daily, with some sort of relevant point.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I have been in the anime community for about six months. I had used crunchyroll forums for a long time, then noticed here on HF their was a spot so I stopped by and got a warm welcome ? As for how I came across anime/manga is simple. I have always loved Japanese culture, but never once dabbled in anime/manga cause all I knew of was blood guts gore etc ? my wife loves anime she told me to try it, their weren't only action but romance, slice of life, comedy, Harem < lol < so I watched my first episode and the rest is history ?

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Usagi Drop

That was the first anime I ever laid eyes on. It was the anime that opened my eyes to how beautiful animes/mangas could be, not by only the drawings but the story behind it was so interesting and struck a cord close to home with me. It was so good I had to check out the manga ?

Shigatsu wa Kimi no Uso

Honestly picking two is very hard but I'd have to say this is the most beautiful show I have seen in a long time. The concept, the drawings, the music, its all so beautify pieced together, but when you think its just bland it throws a curve ball and blam next big plot twist happens (no spoilers) watching this show with my friends has been a great experience. I'm very excited to see the last few episodes.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I know this may seem odd but nothing can guarantee activity. I can say that I will put forward effort in doing my best to make the anime fan group the best home I can. I like talking to people and love doing projects with people weather its RP or co-writing a short series. I will put effort forward as long as their is somewhere for me to put effort to. Beyond that I cannot promise anything, except I hope to make this my new home ?

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

lol I love cooking and learning old stories from Japan, not like main stream stuff but the original things. I also love writing, Japanese light novels and anime are what inspired me to write and step out of my comfort zone to do some awesome stuff, and meet some awesome people.

What do you expect from us?

Basically for this place to become a home, where I can talk to people with getting bashed for not liking a certain genre or the fact I am a adult male who loves romance/SoL/Harem over action/Blood anime. I left the CR community for that reason and have been dabbling in forums trying to find one, just so happens I have been on here for a long time and never knew that this spot on HF existed.

What do you think we expect from you?

Honestly I have no earthly idea, but what I can say is I function well with other people who have similar interests, you won't have a problem with someone like me. I also know I don't fit the criteria for the group for not having enough posts but I have been on HF for a long time and have done nothing to wrong the community, I just have not posted a lot cause I have had much to talk to people on HF about besides trading buying selling etc. I can say if you allow me this opportunity I will step up and you will see good things from me. ?

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

Well I was on the internet when I was 13 looking for pokemon videos on youtube. On one of the Pokemon videos in the comments said that pokemon was not an anime. At that time I had no idea what "anime" is. I search the term and I came to a bunch of sites. Like animecrazy and mangafox and stuff like that. I was like woah, these are some cool stuff. I started by watching what was on the front page. It was Initial D. Wow! that was one cool anime. I watch Initial D all the way to the third season and I stopped. I notice Chrono Crusade as the recommended anime and I watch that. I kept watching what was recommended because I thought you could only watch those. Before you know it, I turn 19 a couple months back and I'm still watching anime because there are just so many I haven't even seen yet. And they might be hidden gems in the anime world.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Oh man, that's a hard one, I can name so many. I'll start off with something melo and go from there. I was browsing crunchyroll for something refreshing to watch then I notice this anime, 5 Centimeters per Second Oh man, this anime was so well done. The story was so realistic in terms of romance and life. Honestly, this anime tells you stories of relationships and how once you leave someone for too long, you can't go back to them, because they've already moved on. If you watch anything romance, watch this, it's a tear jerker. Now, that was a little sad and melodramatic, so let's do something happy Gintama This anime is the sauce on your steak or korean bbq. It's made to make fun of anime that has already been released. It takes serious or any anime in general and give it a little humor break. The story doesn't get serious until the 4th arc, but that's the good thing about this. You know an anime is good when you can watch comedy till the 4th arc. I can't wait for the 2015 version of Gintama.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

There will definitely be activity from me in your group no matter how long time has gone by. I love anime, I love talking to people about anime, I don't even care if we roleplay in a thread if it's about anime or anything j culture. I don't mind it because it's something I enjoy doing.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Besides my extravagant love for anime and manga in japan. I love scenery and nature of japan. I visit Japan once, although it was just to switch flights to Korea. I loved the 2 days I've spent there. The nature and weather was so perfect that day for photos. Although I forgot to bring my camera, but just looking at the beautiful scenery other people take pictures of online in J culture and Photography forums make me want to go and live there. I prefer if I live in a small town and not in a big city, but I wouldn't mind living in Tokyo. I'm also learning Japanese at my university, although only level 1, I'm still learning hard.

What do you expect from us?

A family of friends that share the same love for anime and Japanese culture.

What do you think we expect from you?

To participate in the forums and be active. Be a nice member and have respect on different opinions of each member.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I've been into the Japanese culture for about 4 1/2 years, that's when I started hardcore watching Anime and reading manga full time 24/7, would even stay up till 4am and have to wake up at 5:30am just to read manga.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I've been watching anime more than 12 years ago, I've always watched anime on TV but i never knew in that time what was the anime really is.

Started to get into Anime 2 years later (10 years ago). Naruto was the first anime introduced to me after that i looked for it and downloaded all its episodes, then i got into anime and i've watched Gundam Wings and Yu-Gi-Oh! as well during that period of time.

How i came across it ?

A friend of mine gave Naruto CD's he said look there is an awesome anime about Ninja n stuff, i asked ... what is an anime ?

And that was the beginning of the search.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

For about two years right now. And someone I know in real life got me into it.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Bakuman: I think they did a very good job making it and I love how it's like a manga, about mangaka's making a manga. It really gave me an idea of how the whole manga industry works.

Hyouka: I'm a huge slice of fan, some people may find it boring but that's what really appeals to me. The art of Hyouka is amazing and the story has it's own original twist while it still keeps the plain SoL feeling.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

This will be my first group on HF and I love being on HF. Having more people to talk with will definitely make me even more active.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

The history of Japan. For example the representation of the edo period in Samurai Champloo really appealed to me.

What do you expect from us?

A great place to meet new people with the same interest.

What do you think we expect from you?

Being active, nice and kind to other users and not be a dick.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? I'm 24 now and I watch anime since my 5 years or so. Started with Dragon Ball in my childhood of course ^^

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Psycho-Pass This is one of my favourite animes mainly because of the very different story and all the drama related to it. Loved the first season but not much the 2nd one.

shigatsu wa kimi no uso This was a very very big surprise. It's an anime from this season that just ended. It's about a pianist and he is always losing people he loves and blabla but the way the anime was created with all the piano performances causing that man tears to fall down...Damn! One of the best ever!

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? Well I watch lots of animes. Every season I watch around 7 to 10 of them so I'll always be posting about them.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? I really love their culture. I usually buy Japanese food (Ramen ftw) and love their festivals.

What do you expect from us? I expect from you the same that I can offer to the group. Basicly I expect to be in a place where I can talk with other people that have the same interest in Animes and Japanese culture that I have.

What do you think we expect from you? Think I've answered this question above...

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

Going on about 15 years

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them Asking for just 2 here is very hard as I could probably list off 10 - 20 that I have sitting on my hard drive that I will just watch.

One piece - First Anime that took me from Dubbed to Subbed anime, I have had a love obsession with it ever since.

Lucky?Star - I really enjoyed this anime, I wish there was far more of it.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

What I love about Japanese culture is the loyalty, the humility, and over all the kinship shared by most.

What do you expect from us?

To offer a quality environment with quality members who share the same likes and possible dislikes.

What do you think we expect from you?

I'd so much love to be accepted.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I'm not quite sure anymore how, but I found Elfen Lied on some website, and I watched it. Since I've watched it, I felt instantly in love with anime. That was about 4 years ago, but when I was younger, I already loved hentai. ^-^

It's so hard to choose only two, but I'll take...

Elfen Lied I've watched it now 5 times in total (4.5 times to be honest) and I always had to cry at least once. Everyone should have watched Elfen Lied at least once. Even my dad did, and he's not into anime/manga/japan/etc. I also have a very very big Elfen Lied canvas on my wall, surrounded by LED strips.

BlackRockShooter Well, I can identify myself very much with Mato and the whole "concept"/plot of the series, that there's another universe in which someone's fighting for you. I also had to cry while watching it too. (I usually never cry. But when watching sad animes/movies or listening to sad music, millions of tears are coming out of myself.) I also have a lot of BlackRockShooter merchandise items and there's nothing I love more than my BRS hoodie.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I just came back to HF after a long time of inactivity, and I also haven't watched a anime for a lot of months because I had a lot of personal trouble. Now I have a lot of free time again and I wanna spend most of it watching anime, and of course I'd love to have a nice community/group to discuss about that!

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I love the japanese style (clothes, buildings, cars, etc.) and the (spoken) language. I wanted to start learning a bit of it today, but it's a very difficult language. :/

What do you expect from us?

I expect you to be very nice, crazy, happy, and extremely cute guys, and of course I expect all of your members to be highly addicted to anime! :3

What do you think we expect from you?

You can expect a very addicted anime-lover from myself who's online almost all the time and who loves to talk to other people, making them laugh, and to share a lot of (anime) stuff with! :)

I don't have an account on MAL but if that's an requirement for the group I'll create one!

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I've been into anime for around a year now and I've enjoyed watching it. I came across anime from a friend who suggested me to watch an anime called soul eater.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Kill la Kill

One of my favorite anime because it was one of the first and will always be one of the best because of the amount of tits, feels, and suspense.

Akame Ga Kill (Anime ver.)

One of my favorite animes because this is the first anime that has made me hate a character to an extremely level, which is that dumb fucking sorry excuse of a dog Koro.

Overall this anime was one of my favorites, also recommended to me by a friend

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I'm strongly interested in anime and seeing as there's a group based around it there's no reason for me not to be active as time goes on :).

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I don't really have much interests in the Japanese culture besides anime, although I strongly respect their time and dedication towards creating anime, manga, and novels.

What do you expect from us?

A place where I can meet new friends and a subforum based around anime and manga.
What do you think we expect from you?

Favorite thing in anime ever.

One L?ve - March 29, 2015, 3:00 am

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I have been majorly interested in anime and mostly everything about Japan itself for about 4 years, I came across anime when I was younger, I have mild memories from watching it but not a lot. Only started watching anime properly about 2 years ago. Japanese culture I came across a few years back. I absolutely love anime and Japan, you could call me an anime enthusiast. I couldn't become addicted to anime though even if I tried, which is not necessary anyway lel.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

I have many anime I prefer and love a lot more than others but to favourite them? I'm not sure. I tend not to really favourite things but if you would insist.

Naruto Shippuden

The BEST. It has taught me so much. It is relatable beyond. I probably watched all of the 300+ episodes at the time within a month or 2. Then the other 100 in a few weeks etc. The characters are amazing, especially Naruto and Sasuke. OK, 2 of the main characters, yes. But I find their past relatable as fuck to me and that's what attracted me to turning them into characters into favourites. Many others I also love as well. Narutos childhood was saddening and Sasukes as well.

It was/is very interesting to watch Naruto Shippuden, I really enjoy it. Probably the best times of my life.

Sword Art Online

Yes. VIRTUALITY. You see my sig, my name. It is all virtual - for I am virtual. SAO is one of the games and the anime is based mainly in a virtual reality in the year 2022 or 2023. There will be many devices like the Nerve Gear from SAO being released soon in this 'reality'; I look forward to it. Kirito AKA Kirigaya Kazuto is an interesting character... I cannot really say much about him, only the anime itself. When I started watching different genres of anime [because I used to stick to just 1 usually], I found anime based on virtuality and online games, this completely changed my perspective on anime from then on. I was excited as fuck when I found SAO. After I finished it I had yet to realize that there is a season 2. That was even better. Though, Sword Art Online I is slightly better than Sword Art Online II in my opinion.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I can guarantee you I will be extremely active and online most of the time unless something super 'urgent' has happened which is not even likely.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I explained most above I think. I know a bit of the language itself, still learning. I plan to be fluent Japanese within a year... maybe... My interests are the technology as well. Japan seems like an awesome place and I will eventually go there. They are on a whole different level, I love it.

What do you expect from us?

I have not taken this into mind and I do not expect nothing major from you. Just that we can at least discuss anime of course ^_^.

What do you think we expect from you?

Probably just the usual, being active within the group, being involved etc.

I couldn't become addicted to anime though even if I tried, which is not necessary anyway lel.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

I have many anime I prefer and love a lot more than others but to favourite them? I'm not sure. I tend not to really favourite things but if you would insist.

Naruto Shippuden

The BEST. It has taught me so much. It is relatable beyond. I probably watched all of the 300+ episodes at the time within a month or 2. Then the other 100 in a few weeks etc. The characters are amazing, especially Naruto and Sasuke. OK, 2 of the main characters, yes. But I find their past relatable as fuck to me and that's what attracted me to turning them into favourites. Many others I also love as well. Narutos childhood was saddening and Sasukes as well.

It was/is very interesting to watch Naruto Shippuden, I really enjoy it. Probably the best times of my life.

Sword Art Online

Yes. VIRTUALITY. You see my sig, my name. It is all virtual - for I am virtual. SAO is one of the games and the anime is based mainly in a virtual reality in the year 2022 or 2023. There will be many devices like the Nerve Gear from SAO being released soon in this 'reality'; I look forward to it. Kirito AKA Kirigaya Kazuto is an interesting character... I cannot really say much about him, only the anime itself. When I started watching different genres of anime [because I used to stick to just 1 usually], I found anime based on virtuality and online games, this completely changed my perspective on anime from then on. I was excited as fuck when I found SAO. After I finished it I had yet to realize that there is a season 2. That was even better. Though, Sword Art Online I is slightly better than Sword Art Online II in my opinion.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I can guarantee you I will be extremely active and online most of the time unless something super 'urgent' has happened which is not even likely.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I explained most above I think. I know a bit of the language itself, still learning. I plan to be fluent Japanese within a year... maybe... My interests are the technology as well. Japan seems like an awesome place and I will eventually go there. They are on a whole different level, I love it.

What do you expect from us?

I have not taken this into mind and I do not expect nothing major from you. Just that we can at least discuss anime of course ^_^.

What do you think we expect from you?

Probably just the usual, being active within the group, being involved etc.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

About 8 months now, and my friend recommended me to watch SnK and SAO, and since then, I've been hooked.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Nichijou - If you don't laugh at this show, you're very messed up. I like the lighthearted feel and comedy of Nichijou, it reminds me of my childhood.

Noragami (Manga & Anime) - My top anime/LN (so far), and I LOVE this one because there is a lot of quirky humor, while also retaining a serious feel and keeping a good storyline. (Plus the battles and weapons and shit are fucking cool)

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

My love for all anime and how there is so much variety and new content coming out for us to enjoy.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I really like the culture over all, especially the history. I took and East Asian history course last year and really liked studying Japanese and Korean history

What do you expect from us?

A flow of good anime/ln for me to enjoy so I don't get bored and lose interest

What do you think we expect from you?

My opinions, favorites, what I like and don't like, and links to mirrors of less known anime/manga.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? Well, my first animes watched were years ago when I was little, I remember watching animes like Yu Yu Hakusho, Inuyasha and Gakkou no Kaidan (which was my favorite because it scared the shit out of me. Don't laugh, I was little. There was one episode with some ghost in the toilet, after watching that episode I barely went to the toilet for about a week. Good times haha). Time passed, I grew up and forgot about animes until about one year ago when I started picking up the genre again with umm, Death Note if I remember correctly. Watched that and then moved on to others and so on.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Yu Yu Hakusho - The fact that I watched this when I was a kid might contribute to the fact that I love it so much but I watched it recently again and damn, it was so good, so well done. This is one of my all time favorite animes.

Steins;Gate - If I were to write this application 2 months ago, I would have selected Death Note as the second best anime but after watching this...Damn.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I'll be honest. I usually quit things when I lose interest in them but after I started watching animes, I somehow started to change little by little. I see things differently now and if this group is active, I'll be active. If it's not active, I'll try to make it active.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Hmm, the language is really interesting, something I didn't think I would say and also from what I've seen and read, they kind of seem out of this world. So far I'm loving everything about them and might even want to possibly visit them in the future. I'd have to be financially stable first though, know a bit of the language and have someone special near me so yeah.

What do you expect from us?

Hmm, I expect a friendly community. That's all.

What do you think we expect from you?

To be active I guess like most people here said, contribute and so on.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I've been into Anime and Japanese culture ever since I was 6. (I am 15 now.)

I was sent to Taiwan during my first grade year with my grandparents after Kindergarten due to financial problems and Anime was on a lot on TV there.

The Channel was Animax I believe.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Mirai Nikki

My all time favorite Anime is Mirai Nikki.

I love the main characters, never knew what would happen next.

Gave me thrills, cheers, and sadness.

I cried really hard at the ending.

Mirai Nikki really is the only one that stands out for me.

I have quite a few favorites, I'll just choose one not many people watched for props :)

Hanada Shounen-shi!

Made me feel sad and grief over the girl spirit that fell in love with Ichiro.
Pretty funny as well.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

My computer is my waifu.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

- Food
- Houses
- Technology
- Anime
- Hot Springs
- Cherry Blossoms

What do you expect from us?

A feeling of belonging I guess.
Find some people to play Osu!, League of Legends, and some other games with.
Make new friends.

What do you think we expect from you?

- Trustworthy :)
- Being active
- Non-toxic Behaviors

[Video: <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Pgp5V9Qoj98>] How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? For years now, I came across it when I first had started watching Dragonball Z, I looked up more shows like it and found the culture of anime and that's pretty much how my anime life started.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Aldnoah Zero Oh my god, this anime. I loved everything about it, the animations, plot. How a character can go from showing little to no emotion to expressing desire to protect those close to him. To adapt, to grow. I loved every single battle since in it just cause of Inaho.

Eureka 7 Honestly, I don't really know how to explain why I liked this, I loved it. I've re-watched it countless times, it was one of the main animes that I got engrossed in. I mean I literally had at some point wished the Nirvash unit, and all of that was real simply because I loved the anime so much.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? I'm on 24/7, I haven't posted a lot recently simply because nothing has caught my attention. This certainly has caught my attention. I'd like to put a lot of effort into this so that I can learn about new anime, Japanese culture and many other things the group has to offer.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? In all honesty I mainly prefer Anime and Manga. I mean anything cool from that culture is something I'm drawn into.

What do you expect from us? Just a community of where I can share my opinions and interests on anime and have the same answered back.

What do you think we expect from you? Activity I'm sure of, my opinion on anime? I'm outlook, maybe I can recommend an anime to someone that needs it.

About me

Well everyday part of my life ever since Anime was brought into my life it has changed my personality greatly I went from being stubborn into thinking before I act. I learned plenty of lessons from it I do love the actions and stuff but it's just... I can't really describe it but It's kinda feel like a role model a influence to me depending on what I watch my mood changes to what I see or hear (Music & Anime) It's just who I am I guess. Extra I really love this group people have told me to join it I have friends within it sadly... one of them was banned NickChan.

I really hope I get accepted it seems like a very strong and stable community.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

Every sense I was a kid I was into it (such as Yu-Gi-Oh!, DBZ, etc.) but about four years ago, I watched my first ever anime Death Note. It was amazing. It was better than anything I've ever watched before. It was much better than the western "cartoons" and shows that they have here in America. After Death Note, I watched Black Butler. At that point I couldn't watch anime back to back because the endings made me so sad. If have to take breaks in between. But now I no life anime like the weeb I am ha

Shigatsu wa Kimi no Uso (Your Lie in April) I watched this a few weeks ago when it finally finished, and it is easily one of my favorites. The story behind the main character is so saddening and the whole anime itself is just a tearjerker to me. It's an amazing love story. The music in it is outstanding. I love all the classical music that is put into it and it goes great with it.

White Album 2 Literally one of the best romance animes out there in my opinion. I feel like the love that the characters had for each other were a more REAL love than other animes. It feels like it's much more realistic and a slice of life. The artwork is amazing, and it has one of the best sound tracks I've ever heard.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

There's not a day where i'm NOT on here on HF. And everyday I spend most of my time in the Anime Adventures section, sense it's my favorite section of the forum. I would surely post with the group and be active.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Around summer time two years ago, I was lucky enough to go to Tokyo (my grandparents loves to travel and they always took us somewhere awesome on summer vacation). I never really had any interest until we went. The culture there is so much more exciting to me and it's SO much more crowded there than where I live. The city would light up at night and the food and snacks there are awesome. I got to try curry and pocky for the first time (even though they have pocky here o.o). Then someone posted a link in AA about candysan.com and I was happy to see that there were sites that supped out snacks and now i'm a regular customer :D

What do you expect from us?

A group of Anime lovers that loves anime as much as me and is active. Hoping to get some great recommendations as well :D

What do you think we expect from you?

A member that is active everyday and that will be on most of the time to talk about anything. I'm also on Skype most of the time if there are any of us that have groups on there to talk in.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? I think for about 12 years now If you count DBZ saw it on Tunami at the start but I would say legit anime I got into about 8 years ago started with Naruto and just moved on the more and more shows from there.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them 2 favorite anime this is tough and im going to have to go with 3 on this, I have 3 anime all tied for my number 1 spot so in no order I have Naruto , naruto has been apart of my life since I was a young kid it was my first anime I consider that I was super into and when I first found out there was such thing as japanese versions I flipped out and watched for weeks and weeks. Naruto is the only anime I get emotional about over stupid little things not because its the greatest anime ever but because it speaks to me and I have grown as naruto has I love the action story and the world that kishimoto emerges us in. Tied also for number 1 is fullmetal alchemist brotherhood, little shorter of a story on this one as everyone should know its amazing visuals and story line draw me in to love the series characters are amazing story is so great love the concept of god in it and how it also brings you into this new world as most anime do. Next and last tied for number 1 for me is of course No game No life right from episode 1 of release I fell in love. The way that they act and game is amazing and just brings me in, im a huge gamer so when I saw this I felt how they did, I also have a little sister and although we are not even 1% as crazy as them I do feel that connection in how we are kinda cookie and talk a lot. I love anime with God's in them the artwork of NGNL was different but amazing amazing amazing. Love the comedy and how it can switch to serious on the fly.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? My love for anime and im always looking for new shows and to talk about current shows im watching so as long as anime lives on I will live on in this group.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? Everything I have a couple of friends form Tokyo and actually plan a trip next year but I love the food the culture, the girls are cute :p -- Love for anime and they can actually party and have a good time frontier of technology I have looked and asked a lot about japan.

What do you expect from us? A good group of friends and members that I can talk about anime with share new HQ shows, maybe some ways to get anime, (i have my ways already tho) and just people's love and passion for it.

What do you think we expect from you? A active good member not BM who takes the group serious and gives honest and good reviews suggestions and shows his love for what he loves as well.

Everything I have a couple of friends form Tokyo and actually plan a trip next year but I love the food the culture, the girls are cute :p -- Love for anime and they can actually party and have a good time frontier of technology I have looked and asked a lot about japan.

What do you expect from us? A good group of friends and members that I can talk about anime with share new HQ shows, maybe some ways to get anime, (i have my ways already tho) and just people's love and passion for it.

What do you think we expect from you? A active good member not BM who takes the group serious and gives honest and good reviews suggestions and shows his love for what he loves as well.

[Video: <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Pgp5V9Qoj98>] How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? For years now, I came across it when I first had started watching Dragonball Z, I looked up more shows like it and found the culture of anime and that's pretty much how my anime life started.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Aldnoah Zero Oh my god, this anime. I loved everything about it, the animations, plot. How a character can go from showing little to no emotion to expressing desire to protect those close to him. To adapt, to grow. I loved every single battle since in it just cause of Inaho. This was one of those anime's that I wish never ended

Eureka 7 Honestly, I don't really know how to explain why I liked this, I loved it. I've re-watched it countless times, it was one of the main animes that I got engrossed in. I mean I literally had at some point wished the Nirvash unit, and all of that was real simply because I loved the anime so much.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? I'm on 24/7, I haven't posted a lot recently simply because nothing has caught my attention. This certainly has caught my attention. I'd like to put a lot of effort into this so that I can learn about new anime, Japanese culture and many other things the group has to offer.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? In all honesty I mainly prefer Anime and Manga. I mean anything cool from that culture is something I'm drawn into.

What do you expect from us? Just a community of where I can share my opinions and interests on anime and have the same answered back.

What do you think we expect from you? Activity I'm sure of, my opinion on anime? I'm outlook, maybe I can recommend an anime to someone that needs it.

Arcanine 4th Account - April 20, 2015, 4:21 pm

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? I have been watching Anime for about 1/2 years now. I came across it in school when I thought Anime was for 12 year old faggots wanting to be girls.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Tokyo Ghoul [Subbed Season 1 and 2.] My friend told me to watch this one. It was my first Anime. [I dont read manga,] I liked this Anime just because of the gore/dark shiet and the cannibalism. It was en-joyful to watch and speak about to other friends.

Kiseijuu: Sei no Kakuritsu[Subbed] My other friend told me to watch this one aswell. It was my second Anime. [I dont read manga only watch anime.] Again I liked the gore/darkness and the cannibalism. I also liked the story line of the Anime. Too bad it had to end.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? I am pretty sure I would be active.
Looking for new animes to watch.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? I have always had an interest in Japan and Japanese things. It is the one thing that has been able to help me keep my focus or regain it. I love the food, culture, history. My two favorite things are the Language and the Martial Arts.

What do you expect from us? A great group.

What do you think we expect from you? HQ Posting and not being a troll.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I came across it when i was like 12 years old, i think the 1st anime i ever watch was inuyasha thats when i got into anime ^ . ~

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Air Gear : The anime was just great how they talk about the character how he has always had wings but he's trapped in a cage until all the sudden he breaks out of the cage an soars higher than anyone.

Sword Art Online : People my ask man your sooo mainstream but i am not the reason i like Sword art online is because I myself as a programmer can imagine a world like SAO its just 1 of my dreams of making it possible.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

Well I am on 24/7 on the forums lurking around reading what people say an giving an honest opinion, aside that I like giving animes to new members to watch an give them a try they might be old or new but i always give some good choices in my opinion.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

My interested in Japanese culture, well i think its just how it is, different from any other culture if i may say the Japanese people an culture are all about the respect they have towards you an the manners they treat you even if they don't know you, i know this first hand going to japan as a transfer student an having a girlfriend that is Japanese <3

What do you expect from us?

I expect to meet great people to talk to about Anime an be able to have a good time discussing our animes since I dont have many friends that enjoy anime as much as i do, I hope i can find people that have the same point of view as me in this group <3

What do you think we expect from you?

Well you should expect a lot from me since i do like to contribute to the anime community on animes maybe they haven't watched or explaining certain animes that people might hate an giving them a good reason to give it a try.

Bo Burnham. - April 23, 2015, 6:23 am

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I've been into Manga ever since I was little. The very first manga book I read was Conan the Detective I later read some Yu-Gi-Oh, .HACK and a tiny bit of One Piece. Was way to many out for me to really pick up on that one though.. I'm new to the anime scene and have seen all the mainstream shows however, Avatar the last airbender was my first. Saw that at a very young age and I've loved it ever since. (Yeah not a true Anime, but still)

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

As I mentioned above, I love Conan the Detective. My first Manga and it's actually pretty entertaining. It do get old pretty fast. My favorite anime is by far Spirited Away. Watched that back when VHS was a thing.. Remember picking it up and watched it alone. I've never been moved by a movie the way Spirited Away did. Just beautiful.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I'm always online. (Huge pc nerd). I'll always be here. Simple as that.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Honestly, only Anime shows right now.

What do you expect from us?

Getting to know new shows that aren't that mainstream and getting into it even more. Friends a long the way is always something I'll be trying to make.

What do you think we expect from you?

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I started watching anime and getting into the Japanese culture just over a year ago, one of my friends in real life told me to watch attack on titan and I just got hooked after that.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

My all time favourite anime is Toradora, I really like Taiga Aisaka (obviously) but if I have to have two favourites my second one would be Chuunibyou demo Koi ga Shitai! because of the silliness of Rikka.

Kotori - May 11, 2015, 2:01 pm

Hello,

My name is Kotori and i would like to apply to this group ^T^

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I've been into anime since i was a kid (7 Years old) i didn't really knew it was anime at that time but after few years i came across few friends that really were in love with anime, that's how i learned anime really, we watched anime all night for about 5 months total i've seen alot of anime in that period.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them
My favourite animes are :

Highschool DxD

First i saw it i was kinda like nahh, but after 2 eps i was sold.

Kinda brings back how awesome it would be to be a demon/devil and how to good versus bad is going while we are sleeping or not knowing in real life.

Kiss x Siss

Yes weird one but really made my month watching that.

A friend of mine showed it and it was just perverted ect.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

Anything basically, anime nights, watching anime together, talking on IRC or any other chat?
Forum postings ectect.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Well, I've always wanted to go to Japan for the culture, as i'm going to Japan next year summer vacation i will learn some cool ropes about their culture, mostly the peace and the relaxing i like.

What do you expect from us?

I expect this group to be really relaxed, and make some friends, chit chatting and more probably i can't come up with now.

What do you think we expect from you?

To be a relaxed chill, and funny person to laugh alot and watch alot of anime together :)

You will not get in a group like 80% of the time.. most of people who get accepted to groups is because

- 1) They pay to join
- 2) they do favors for the leaders and stuff(literally licking their...)
- 3) they are very well known(famous hf members)
- 4) They are friends with the leaders - Or they try to be only for this reason.. (some succeed)
- 5) They write a Wall of text about themselves lying about their personalities and capabilities(sometimes works)....

but.. some people keep trying because of hope.. i guess

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I've been watching anime since 2005. Well basic ones such as naruto, dbz. In 2011 a friend of mine re-introduced anime to me. As there was an amazing amount of anime being released during that time. Either way then I used to search for anime on google (stupid choice I know lol). From there it got hooked and I started reading manga since shounenjump would mail you books every month or so.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Steins;Gate

I loved Steins;Gate due to the science fiction behind it. When I was in school my favorite subject was science. I loved doing experiments with all types of things. The thing that got me hooked on this show was the fact that they were all having fun plus it had time traveling. Who wouldn't want to time travel right? I mean there was drama + romance involved but that's what made the story even better. Well that's why I like it.

Zero no Tsukaima

I know you're probably like "oh typical harem anime" but I really loved this series. Sometimes it got boring but the comedy in this was just great. I mean some episodes had me in tears like a baby lols. Anyways what made me love this show was the fact that the MC came from earth to an unknown planet/place which involves magic. Then there was the tsundere "master" type of girl who would beat the MC with a whip/magic because he would stare at other girls lol. The romance development is what really got me into it. I had high hopes for the show and it did not let me down not one bit.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

As I am a deep fan of manga,anime,light novels, and visual novels I will not decrease my activity within the group. If I do get accepted I will be as active as I am in the typical anime adventure section.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Hmm I took a liking to vocaloids such as Hatsune Miku, Rana, Meiko, and Rin & Len.

I am not up to date with j-music but I am updated within their video games, tv shows, dramas, and movies.

What do you expect from us?

A place where I can meet new people and an extremely active anime/manga/light novel related sub forum where I can express my thoughts freely where there won't be someone thread bashing it.

(Hopefully it doesn't happen)

What do you think we expect from you?

An extremely active member with positive thoughts. Maybe some humor here and there.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

It all started when I was a kid and watched Toonattic and there was always cartoons I loved watching, I couldn't miss a single show and my love for cartoons matured into Anime which I could also say was inspired by both my older bro's

Blue Exorcist: If you have watched this then do I really need to explain? xD it's such a moving story of family and being different and not being accepted as for who you are, the visuals and opening is amaaazing cant fault it at all Guilty Crown: I picked two of my favs from a short list but singled them out from the mainstream animes but I love in particular about this anime is that it's a about a genuine boy who's world gets turned upside down by a single event i'm not sure if I can pick between BE or GC but they both bring different vibes and style that I can eny and relate to.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I am a avid anime fan who loves to talk and share animes between my friends

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Everything their food, heritage, honour, history and anime ofc!

What do you think we expect from you?

Regular activity and I believe a good addition to the group if you will have me :)

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I've been watch and reading anime/manga for about 9 years give or take a year. The first anime i watched was dragon ball z, i was like six when i first watched it and i fell in love with it instantly. I was thirteen (i'm 19 now) when i came across anime again (i had only really watched Naruto until then) this time it was extremely late at night and i found myself watch this weird anime on SBS which i now know to be Death Note and after that episode, i found myself want to watch more. so i downloaded the whole series.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Death Note: Because it was the anime that got into anime.

Shingeki no Kyojin: The amazing story and the diverse characters and personalities in the storyline

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? As long as there's Anime, Hackforums, Internet in the world i'll be around to help anyway i can.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? Basically everything. I love the music, the people, the anime, the manga, the food, the language, the video games and everything the culture has to offer.

What do you expect from us? Nothing really i just i hope i can make some friends, have some fun, hopefully help some people out on the way.

What do you think we expect from you? Respect, Hard work, Able to be counted on, able to organize events, and be fun to talk and to and play game with Serious application this time.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? I was introduced to anime by a friend a couple years ago, then after that I was hooked on anime and the Japanese culture itself. But I've been also watching since Pokemon, Sailor Moon, Digimon if that counts.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them Neon Genesis Evangelion and Hellsing. NGE mainly because for it being so old itself it was one if not still the greatest animes in existence. Hellsing, what can I say? I'm a vampire fan as well.

Title Neon Genesis Evangelion

Title Hellsing

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? I'm extremely active, even in AA. I have over 5+ posts in there also. I will also be very active in the subforum as well, you have my guarantees!

What are your interest in Japanese culture? My interests in the Japanese culture? Well, let's just say that Japan is probably, if not, the most advanced country in the world. (Yes I'm being a bit biased but who cares.) Let's face it, Japan has the best food, Samurai's, Robots, Anime (obviously) and the greatest creation on Earth, hentai.

What do you expect from us? To keep anime and AA alive on Hack Forums, duh

What do you think we expect from you? Activity, activity, activity.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I been into Anime for quite a long time It's kinda part of my childhood I did start off with Pokémon I loved it, But I was more into the game than the show then years passed I came across a show called Soul Eater which talked about Keshin souls how Maka and her team had to capture them and then they came across an enemy called Asura, The ending was fairly amazing bravery always beats madness.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Angel Beats Was a simply amazing show it gave me a lot of emotions, I have to admit it did made me cry a bit, despite the ending which was kind of fucked up, But the whole season made up for it.

Black Butler Is another favorite show I simply adore (As you can see my avatar and signature. This show is about seeking revenge for the people that has killed his family in a fire and further more to be the queens guard dog, The ending was pretty interesting Spoiler \(Click to View\) Ciel becomes a demon

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

READ: PLEASE DISREGARD MY APPLICATION UNTIL I MAKE THE REQUIREMENT OF 100 POSTS IN THE ANIME ADVENTURES SECTOR AND 110 MORE POSTS UNLESS YOU CAN MAKE AN EXCEPTION

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? I've been watching anime probably since I was a kid but dropped it around 12-13. I picked back up on watching it about 3 years ago so when I was 15. Ever since then I've been watching nonstop. I first began watching anime because I seen a clip on YouTube of Elfen Lied and thought "wow I didn't think anime was like this!" ever since I've been a huge fan.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Clannad: Clannad was probably my favorite anime I've ever watched, I absolutely fell in love with the characters, storyline was amazing and worked so good especially season one and it was just a really enjoyable show to watch, I admit I teared up at the end.

Hunter x Hunter: I'm not a huge fanboy of this show like a lot of people(hence the fact my picture is Pitou) But I really loved this show, this show I watched in about 2 weeks and I couldn't stop, the arcs were truly amazing to watch and the characters were great to watch as they developed throughout the show. I loved it quite a bit, I bought a Gon and Killua figure even.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? I'm on summer break so I will be extremely active, also I plan to be on everyday at night so I'm on all the time really.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? Mainly just anime but I also find interest in the food and would love to try it.

What do you expect from us? To be a friendly group of guys/girls to communicate with about anime I've watched or look for recommendations from you:)

What do you think we expect from you? To be an active member, friendly member of the group, participate in group activity and be a loyal member.

Also you can see my figure collection <http://myfigurecollection.net/heis> (you repped me because we used to talk on skype and I think I told you about these lol, but made new skype)

Also please don't think of me as unworthy because of the length of my application, it doesn't seem that long but I truly am a fan of anime.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

Got to say I have been watching at least since I was 12, DBZ and Shaman King even earlier than that but it was dubbed and I considered it a 'cartoon' at the time so I wont say since I was 7 or something lmao. Like many others my gateway anime was most like Dragonball! I think I got more involved in Japanese Culture from my activity in Anime Adventures subforum a few years ago.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

doupo cangqiong - This is a new one I have started reading, I was going to say Tower of God as my first choice (korean Manwha) but this seems to be releasing chapters daily for some reason so yeah... I just love the storyline in this and how power is divided into so many levels- Relatively new series but these type of things keep me going and give me something I look forward to reading every other morning

Code Geass - Cliche but will always be one of my anime favorites! Was actually going to put dungeon ni deai wo motomeru here because it's one of my favorites this season but the psychological aspect and involvement of strategy in Code Geass was just awesome.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I'll keep that swaggy AnimeFan! signature because it looks great haha, but other than that just me posting around and discussing anime I guess.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I think the art style is just amazing, the anime (of course), the manga authors and wow have you tried the sushi?

What do you expect from us? A strong base/title I can proudly wear and to be able to officially call myself an Anime fan ^^

What do you think we expect from you? An interest in Anime/Japanese Culture and good behavior as well as maturity so much that it doesn't reflect badly back onto the group

Oliver Sykes - June 1, 2015, 1:01 pm

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? It's been probably a year since I really got into Anime/Japanese culture. I met a few people via Skype that I knew elsewhere, and they introduced me to a few non-shounen shows. In the past, the only shows I'd seen were things like Pokemon, Digimon, Naruto, etc. that aired when I had cable. After that, I got really interested in their actual culture. Quite intriguing, actually.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Steins;Gate I loved this show. The idea is amazing. I'm terrible at this, but just the idea of the plot is pure genius. It's also great to have characters with actual personalities, and the way it plays out is just so unexpected. Plot twist at the end with Hashida and...yeah. I'm terrible with explaining things like this.

Death Note I absolutely loved this show. That may be because it was my first real anime aside from Soul Eater (Great show, imo), but I just love these psychological-type shows. Two brilliant minds competing to win. I just love to see how Light's mind works. How do you people do this without spoiling everything?

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? I'm on HF way too much anyway, and I have no reason to cease communications with those who share interests with me.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? Well, Anime would be one. I plan on starting to read manga more, but I can't stand to read most things unless they're physical pages. I'm also interested in their culinary practices. As well as just the general culture of the country. How it is to live in Japan, etc.. All of these things are intriguing, to say the least.

What do you expect from us? The most I'd expect would be an active community that I could talk to about various things, ranging from anime/manga/etc. to possibly personal things (In private with certain members, of course, as I wouldn't want to disrupt the purpose and flow of the group.)

What do you think we expect from you? I'd say that you expect to see an active and avid anime watcher/manga reader. Sadly, this can't happen until I'm completely done with school affairs. As you can see from my MAL. I don't have much time to watch much, and as I said before, I simply can't read something like manga unless it's physical. Hopefully, though, I'll have time this summer to catch up on my planned-to-watch shows and finish most of them.

Well there will always be new anime's coming out and my friends don't really like anime like that and I love to talk to people about what iv'e seen. I will always have someone to discuss what I just witnessed on my screen.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Well I am trying to learn there language,I was thinking about moving their, I love there TV(anime), I just love there country in general.

What do you expect from us?

I don't expect anything I just want to be around a group of people who share the same interest as me and people that can advise good anime's to watch and also watch the anime's I advise them to watch. We can be a big happy family.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

Well, I guess it's been about a year now. I've been mostly watching anime, picked up one manga, since someone I know MADE me read it at first. Then I kinda fell in love with it.. It kinda started from when I was really bored, I watched one anime (not sure what it was tbh) and then that was pretty much all. Then I joined a forum and like 50% of the userbase were weeb, so I ended up watching anime a lot. Made great friends, and stuff like that. I mean, I'm quite the weeb myself :x

Code Geass (Anime)

Code Geass was one of my first anime, and damn did I love it. The characters were really cool and unique. The MC wasn't some really op character.

It had a lot in it, mech, fighting, politics, strategy, love etc. I found it really interesting and loved it a lot. It has a really good plot and you really gotta follow it to understand everything, if you don't, then the story will probably not make a lot of sense and you'll end up not liking it. It's a bit old, for some newer peeps I guess, but it really is worth the watch and I recommend watching it. It has like 2(?) seasons if I'm correct, the ova is shitty tho, like really shitty.

Hyouka (Anime)

Some people find Hyouka very boring, and some just love it. I really like it because it's pretty much the same as my life. The MC is a lazy guy, really smart, but sucks at socialising. Everything he sees is negative and nothing feels happy. I think it's kinda unique, it's simple, but at the same time really interesting, it was kinda like trying to solve the mystery yourself, but yeah, the MC will do it for you, don't worry. So the MC and his friends start solving mysteries. He didn't really even wanna do it, but a girl he knows kept pushing him to solve them. The ova is pretty good too, it was more fanservice than actual story, since the story is kinda silly.

Your lie in april (Anime)

So I only recently watched it, but oh boy, did I love it. It's a music anime, which I don't watch that much (seen love live, k-on etc), but it was so much more than that. It had a lot of love, a lot of sad scenes and a lot of dramatic stuff too. I mean, it's not only sad, but it has a lot of happy and fun scenes too.

If you'll watch it, you'll probably cry too (I didn't cuz I have no feelings), but it really is really sad. I'd even say more sad than Anohana.

Gurren Lagann (Anime)

I loved this quite a bit too. It was when I had nothing to watch and one of my friends was a big fan of GL, so I ended up watching it. It was a bit slow at the start, but it just kept getting more interesting and intense. I would say it's quite unique from the other mech anime. It kinda had the 'friendship wins everything' theme. It had a lot of midfuck parts too, not to mention the beginning and the end part. (If you know about it, then you do, if not, you don't). Conclusion: It was really cool, you should definitely watch it if you haven't.

Citrus (Manga)

Well, it's a yuri manga. At first I didn't really wanna read it, since I hate reading. After my friend pretty much forced me to watch it, I ended up liking it a lot. Since I've never read manga before, besides Citrus, it was a nice first experience. The manga is about two girls falling in love, they both suck at expressing their feelings, it pretty much turns into a harem.

So only manga I've read, I did read a bit of The Gamer or w/e it's called, but kinda didn't like it.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

Well, as you can see, I've posted over 200 times in 2 days. Most of it was limited since posting limitations when not upgraded. Also I don't see a point in joining a group if I won't post anyway. I've been in many other groups on other forums, so it's nothing new to me.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I'm not that much of a weeb silly! ?

I do enjoy some Japanese music, vocaloids, OP's and ED's, actual Japanese music, Japanese cover bands, etc. That's pretty much it. I don't think anything besides that is something I'm really interested in. Might be because I don't run into Japanese culture stuff a lot, hey, maybe I'll pick some up in the group? c;

What do you expect from us?

I just want some no life weebos to talk to me about anime and shit.

That's pretty much it. I entertain you, you entertain me.

What do you think we expect from you?

I guess mostly post some 'HQ' posts about anime and manga in the forum sub.

Maybe make some reviews time to time, that's my guess at least.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

Umm, my best friend actually introduced me into anime & manga.

At first I was kind of skeptical about it. But after watching death note & elfen lied, I really got into it, and started expanding to different anime.

I've been into anime & manga, for around 3-4 years now. It always keeps me entertained. As for Japanese culture, I've always found it interesting, I first learned about their culture from an exchange student we had at my school.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Death Note

The entire concept of both the anime and manga, is just fantastic. It's one of the few anime I have watched where I have constantly been like, holy shit this is fucking wicked. Deathnote is also one of the first animus I have seen. It held my attention the entire time, I never got bored or looked away while watching it. Same thing while reading the manga.

Elfen Lied

Elfen Lied, was the very first anime I watched. The entire anime was just phenomenal. Most people think it was way to gory, and violent, But I think it was perfect, kind sad it didn't get another season. I think one of the main reasons that I really enjoyed this anime was probably the violence, that might sound fucked up, but it made it extremely entertaining. The entire anime was well written.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? I constantly post. I don't plan on going inactive, and if I do, I pm a leader. I love being active. I'm also pretty sure, as long as the group stays active I will.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? I personally like it all. Whether it be the food, the anime/manga, to whatever. It's all pretty fascinating in my opinion.

What do you expect from us? Nice members that are helpful, and can give some decent recommendations. A welcoming group.

What do you think we expect from you? Activity. I help where I can, regardless of what it is.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? I've been into anime/manga since the early 2000s. A friend introduced me. First anime was DragonBall Z, and I eventually got really indulged and watched a lot of anime that they showed on Toonami. When I was young, I was obsessed with Naruto (yes, Naruto, unfortunately). After watching anime for a couple of years, I started reading manga in addition. When high school came around, I completely dropped everything, anime and manga. Recently, I have picked it back up, and I enjoy it more than ever. I started watching subbed anime and expanded the type of anime that I watch. I'm currently tackling at least one anime per week.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Mondaiji The light novel is excellent. I love everything about it, but mostly the characters, settings, and sub-plots. Also, I enjoyed the anime adaptation as well.

Fate/Zero Definitely one of the best fantasy anime ever made. The character development is awesome, the fights are badass, and I love the story itself.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? I enjoy talking to people who have similar interests, and I love discussing anime!

What are your interest in Japanese culture? I find Japanese culture quite interesting because I see the culture itself as very meaningful. The social ranking is probably the part that sparks my interest the most.

What do you expect from us? Knowledge, like-minded people, and potentially future friends ?

What do you think we expect from you? Activity, knowledge, friendliness, and maturity.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? I have been in the Anime scene for about four years now and I came across it when a friend recommended clannad to me as he said it was extremely sad. Of course I started watching it despise being a person who has never watched anime (well I have but I didn't realize Naruto, Bleach, and other adult swim shows were anime until later as I was very young when I watched them) and disliked subtitles, now it's impossible to watch a dub because Japanese VA's are far superior.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them So I will stick to something more recent, as my favorites change quickly and I don't think I have ever disliked an anime I have finished, besides your lie in april.

Akatsuki no Yona or Yona of The Dawn

Even though some of the plot was predictable, the way it was presented made it funny and good all the while, I liked it because I have similar interests as the anime was portrayed like how it is based in medieval times and has an ancient power or magic. The comedy between the 2 of the MC's is also great as you know it's going to happen but the way it is portrayed with the faces they make will still get you to laugh.

Summary from CR

Spoiler (Click to View) Currently, Hiryuu Palace has no one else next in line for the throne other than the fifteen year old princess, Yona, who had been raised with care. Finally, the night of her sixteenth birthday arrives. She expects it to be a wonderful day spent with her peace-loving father, Il, her servant and friend Hak, and her cousin Soo-won, who she had feelings for... However... That night, Yona goes to visit her father to tell him how she really feels, because he opposes to her getting married to Soo-won. However, when she gets to her room, she encounters a shocking truth.

Tokyo Ghoul

I really enjoyed this series because it didn't give up on the brutality during the second season, it is nice to see some good fighting that doesn't take up multiple episodes once in a while. The plot during the second season started to die down but up until the last episode it lived up to the hype it deserves. I started reading the manga because I heard it takes a way different path and I wanted to continue enjoying the series.

Summary from FUNimation

Spoiler (Click to View)

In modern day Tokyo, society lives in fear of Ghouls: mysterious creatures who look exactly like humans -- yet hunger insatiably for their flesh. None of this matters to Ken Kaneki, a bookish and ordinary young man, until a dark and violent encounter turns him into the first ever Ghoul-human half breed. Trapped between two worlds, Ken must survive the violent conflicts of warring Ghoul factions, while attempting to learn more about Ghoul society, his newfound powers, and the fine line between man and monster.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? I am interested not in their culture but Japan as a whole, I am traveling to Japan for a week late this summer and hope to have a good time and meet some cool people, I guess if I had to narrow it down, I am interested in how Japan so easily excludes themselves from the business of the rest of the world. How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?: I've been into anime since I was around 6. Unfortunately I was unable to tell the anime I watched were anime. I believed they were just really good cartoons. Eventually I quit watching it until I hit the age of 12. I started to get into anime and it's been a decent few years now. So i'm not exactly a novice but not the longest watcher of anime too. So if you need someone to teach a beginner the ropes, i'm your man. But if you need someone for more advance recommendations, I may not be the most valuable choice to be made.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them: Hunter X Hunter for sure when it came to action. Honey and Clover (All seasons) for drama and SOL.

Title: Hunter X Hunter: Hunter X Hunter was just an overall great experience. It was my first action anime I watched. Then I saw the 2011 version and re-watched it. Like it started all nice and goofy. But then it got a bit darker and more realistic. Gon realized that becoming strong was going to be hard. They learned, made friends, done missions. I also like the character development. Unlike certain anime where everyone stays the same and sticks together except power wise, people in Hunter x Hunter actually changed and departed from one another. Even the main characters. But yeah, this is definitely the top in my favorites for Anime Action. I also read/buy the manga too now because the Anime is finished.

Title:Honey and Clover:Honey and Clover was the first anime that made me cry on the inside in the end. I cant even express how bad I felt. Like .. I won't spoil it but Honey and Clover introduced me into drama and sol anime. Before I wanted HC, I was a action noob. I'm obviously still am a noob but less of one of course. HC showed me that I could be interested in different ways instead of muscled dudes fighting and screaming "HAAAAAA!" or something that randomly adds unneeded dialogue. Man. HC might even be my favorite anime overall. Spoiler \(Click to View\) They all parted ways. I was crying. Wanted them to stay together forever.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?: Pretty much the reason being I have nothing else to do if you me to be completely honest. But a better reason would be because I want to see if there's an anime I haven't saw yet. I'll help here and there but my first two reasons are my main ones. It seems pretty fair in my own eyes but who knows, people have opinions.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?: The Culture is interesting. The food of course. The games and finally, The Anime. Not much to be said about that.

What do you expect from us?: I expect for you to actually survive and not end up selling the group 2 months after I join if I was to get in. I cant begin to explain how many times I've seen people join a group and Bam! The group is sold and they have to recreate it again. It's sad and if it is going to happen, I want the group to at least survive a year.

What do you think we expect from you?: Probably not being a total dick. Activity. Probably having at least a basic knowledge about anime/manga/games. For some reason, many people I met who played games/watched anime/played games felt like they were better than everyone who didn't. I don't mind if you think that way, but if you going to speak to me, I'd need you to get off your high horse, unless you know, you really are better than said certain person.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? About 1.5 years. My brother was stationed in Japan for the United States Air Force and we went to go see him. I then decided to check out their anime there.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Clannad (and Clannad: After Story) I like it because it makes you "ride a feels train". A friend told me to watch it, and he said it would make a grown man cry. I told him that was bull shit and I will watch it to prove him wrong. Well, I did not prove him wrong. I cried. Yeah, yeah, I am such a baby, but I swear to god what he said is true. If you watch Clannad and you're not a psychopath/sociopath, you ARE going to cry, I guarantee it. The character development is very well done. After watching this I now have a new outlook on life. :)

Trigun I like Trigun because the main character believes in solving problems without violence. No matter what he refrains from killing people. Every antagonist that comes in contact with ends up changing, morally.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? I constantly watch anime, and since summer vacation is here, I will be watching a ton. Over spring break I watched 4 different anime. i always have a ton to talk about regarding it.

What are your interests in Japanese culture? My interests are very vast. It's actually really hard to explain. The way they sit on the floor and eat their food from a short table (in general) interests me. Their schooling system also interests me, how they have college entrance exams and such. I would love to go to Japan some day as a foreign exchange student!

What do you expect from us? I learned to never EXPECT anything. I have learned to hope. What I hope for is a kind group that loves to socialize and talk about anime. I am always open to talking about anything, and I am also always open to taking suggestions for different anime to watch. :)

What do you think we expect from you? I believe you will expect a well mannered person who likes to socialize and talk about anime and Japanese culture. I am very active in all of my groups, so no need to worry. :)

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I've been into anime for three years strong. My friend dubbed as "Hentai Hector" was into anime and was assumed everyone of my ethnic background watched anime and would recommend me shows to watch. Eventually, I just snooped around on Netflix and watched my first anime series which was Girls Bravo and I was amazed by the character and story development.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them
Little Busters VN!

Of the few VNs I've read, Little Busters is my favorite. The VN provided the best of all all worlds: mystery, drama(lots), and comedy. The drama and surprises brought up were mind blowing , especially the scenes between Futaki & Haruka which brought a tear to my eye. I never would've expected to have sympathized for the antagonist to have been suffering just as much as the the other one.

One Piece

I love the anime One Piece because of all the relevant morals to society that the Straw Hat crew acknowledges and overcomes. An example is, the strength of a person isn't determined by the amount of money we posses or where we came from. The will-power to continuously push forward and explore the world, as demonstrated in One Piece, has opened my mind to view the world differently.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

Eat, sleep, school, game, repeat. I spend most of my time at home and there's rarely a time that I'm not using the internet, unless I'm asleep.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

The women(haha)? But seriously, I enjoy making some of the Japanese dishes that I've seen on shows. I've made mapo-tofu(Angel Beats), Tamagoyaki(an omelet, many shows portrayed this dish), spicy curry(I'm probably not doing it right because it's my least favorite), and the easiest recipe: Tamago kake gohan(crack a raw egg on steamed rice/ I saw it on a farmer anime.)

What do you expect from us?

I don't know. Calm people, maybe. Hopefully, active. People that enjoy talking about the latest episode or newest series released.

What do you think we expect from you?

I like talking about the newest trends or updates to anime in general. Also some in-depth analysis of events that occurred in a show or in reality.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

Maybe around three years? I was introduced through an imageboard community, starting with anime and then going into reading more light novels and manga.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them.

Kuroshitsuji (Manga)

I like Kuroshitsuji because of the character of Ciel (duh), and the depth and conflict he shows.

Parasyte (Anime)

I like Parasyte because I find the premise and character conflict interesting, as with Kuroshitsuji, but Parasyte also has a really well made soundtrack.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I enjoy discussing anime and manga I've watched and read, and constantly seek new recommendations. This group would provide new perspectives for both, which I would love to use.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

My interest is primarily in anime and manga, although I find the rising trend in an obsession of things found kawaii intriguing if nothing else.

What do you expect from us?

I expect new viewpoints regarding discussion on anime or manga that other users have already finished, as well as recommendations on anime or manga they found particularly good or entertaining.

What do you think we expect from you?

I think you should expect my participation in discussion when I have already finished a series, as well as my recommendations if I see something particularly good or am asked.

I lost the password to my MAL some time ago, and it hasn't been touched since 2013, so I'd rather not link it.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

Came across Anime when I was just a kid playing Pokemon. Started to watch more shows just like it and thats what made the anime fan I am today :)

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them Favorite anime show and manga wise has to be Naruto (Got the name Minato for a reason)

Been watching ever since a few friends told me about it and have been hooked onto the games,books,and show ever since.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?Judging from the title of the group im assuming we will talk a lot about anime, so count me in for that.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?The food and language are a major aspect for me and liking Japanese culture. It has so much to offer and the language isn't something you hear every much if you live in say the US or Canada.

What do you expect from us?I'm expecting to meet a lot of cool people that are intrusted in Anime just as much as me.

What do you think we expect from you?Not much you can expect just from the words your reading, but once you get to see me around and get to know me, you will see i'm one of the most chill guys out there ?

Duyere - June 26, 2015, 7:16 pm

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

My introduction to anime began in the late 90's when anime classics aired on both Toonami and Adult Swim. Yes, I was one of those Americans who started watching anime on TV.

After I became more aware of anime I started watching them online and gradually discovered a massive index at my disposal.

As for manga, I just recently started reading them. They're not really my thing but I have chose to read some due to the fact that some anime have finished airing but still have well continued manga adaptation. Other than that I haven't really been much more into Japanese culture, though I would like to start cosplay soon.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Hajime no Ippo (Anime)

http://myanimelist.net/anime/263/Hajime_no_Ippo

A true masterpiece that tells the story of Ippo Makunouchi, a kid who was bullied, introduced to boxing, and then rose up as an underdog in the world of professional boxing.

I really enjoyed this anime because it showed that anyone could have potential as a boxer, so long as they worked hard enough for it.

You'll see Ippo go through tons of development as both a character and boxer.

Not only do you see the main character's development, but also the development of side characters and notable opponents.

At times I felt sympathy for both the main character and his opponent. Each one with their owns goals and determination, both fighting their own fight.

Mixed in with all these fighting was tons of humor, suspense, and even romance. It was truly a well balanced anime.

I'd like to make this more of a review but an official one will be posted in AA in the near future.

Yu Yu Hakusho (Anime/English version)

<http://myanimelist.net/anime/392/Yuu%E2%98%86Yuu%E2%98%86Hakusho>

A true classic from my childhood and by far one of my favorites.

If there is any anime that is based off demons, it's this one.

This tells the tale of Yusuke Urameshi, who died saving a young boy's life and was granted a second chance as the Spirit Detective of Earth.

As Spirit Detective of Earth, Yusuke's job is to hunt demons who sneak into and pose a threat to the human world.

Mixed in with tons of demon slaying/fighting is great character development of all characters and humor that older audiences will understand.

To me, it has a great story and has lived up to my expectations as an anime original. Not many anime can compare.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?
Nothing can guarantee my activity completely. Life is unpredictable sometimes.
But I will justify my activity by contributing to the group whenever possible.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?
Like mentioned above, so far only anime, manga, and potentially cosplay in the future.
I'd honestly like to learn more but I'll do that at my own pace.

I'm not aiming to be one of those guys (especially being American) who goes out on the whim to learn Japanese and Japanese culture just because I watched an anime.

What do you expect from us?
I expect nothing special beside being in an active, friendly, and like-minded environment. I'd also like to learn more if possible.

What do you think we expect from you?
You can expect as much activity and contribution to the group as possible. Something I'd like to start doing is full reviews within the group.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I was watching Dragonball and Cardcaptor Sakura on TV when I was young and started watching Naruto when it started airing on TV.

I started getting into more anime about 10 years ago when I started highschool

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

D.Gray Man

D.Gray Man's manga is one my favorite, I like how it has lots of comedy but still successfully has a dark vibe to it whenever something important happens.

Berserk

My other one would be Berserk's manga. The details of the drawings are just so amazing!

I really like the gore side of the story and to see not only what happens around the hero (Guts), but what actually happens in the rest of the world too.

Unfortunately for me, both authors seems to have stopped the manga without finishing it. I've watched the anime version of both manga.

D.Gray Man was pretty good. Watched the 103 episodes in 3 days I think back then.

Berserk's anime doesn't live up to the manga at all. The recent movies were pretty good tho.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I haven't posted in quite some times, but I still lurk on the forums everyday.

I used to post a lot a few years ago. Stopped posting when there was some shit happening and didn't want to be part of it.

I will probably be active again since it has stopped since a good while.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Currently studying Japanese and Chinese language and culture in University.
I've never been to Japan yet, but I do hope I'll go once I'm done with University!

What do you expect from us?

People here have always been friendly and nice towards me and I think being part of this community will be awesome!

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

Well I was lucky enough to be one of those guys that went to Tokyo as a transfer student and studied for a year. Before that I was already watching anime just the mainstream which was Bleach and Naruto aside from those I didn't know much about anime which gave me the idea of going to Tokyo as a transfer student. Arriving in Tokyo it was sooo different and to tell you the truth it was great it was the paradise for an anime lover which turned out to be me ^.^

BabySteps

Baby steps was my 1st pick because of how it was illustrated. It literally talks about how if you really want something and you work hard for it everything can be achieved. The story is really well written and enjoyable to watch. If you are into sports anime I would suggest watching Baby Steps.

Plastic Memories

This anime just finished airing the reason I liked this anime is because it has the same sob story you would get from Clannad and to tell you the truth the anime made me cry because of how the story developed. The anime is your typical romantic / comedy anime that can bring you to tears at times. I would really recommend watching it.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

Well to tell you the truth I would really like to join because of the friendships I will be able to make and I have been able to debate with people about anime but also I like giving my own opinion and looking at other opinions about anime that have been discussed. So I really hope the anime fan club is all about talking about the anime we all enjoy and discuss our own opinions.

What are your interests in Japanese culture?

Well since I was in Tokyo I learned many things. I learned that the Japanese culture has no boundaries by that I mean the Japanese people are really nice and respect all the foreigners that come to their country. aside from that the culture they teach you at their school is way different than what we learn in US. they are really like to hear other opinions an like to talk about how you feel on certain choices you make. Like in the school i was they really cared on how i was doing at home an how i was adapting so i could describe them as caring people.

What do you expect from us?

Well i expect to be able to give my own opinion about certain Animes but i would enjoy if i would be able to make long lasting friends that like to discuss an talk about animes we all like an maybe i can get animes that i have never watched. basically been able to be part of a family that understands how i feel about anime.

What do you think we expect from you?

Well Pretty sure you guys would expect a lot from me, that been said you guys do expect me to be respectful an active but aside from that i think you would just like me to be open about opinions an to be friendly to other people that also enjoy Anime as much as i do.

Please link your MAL (MyAnimeList) profile

If its need it i can make one but I'm one of those old style people where i have all the animes an all the animes i plan to watch on a notepad xD

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

The first time I came across anime was around 7 years ago on TV. Back then I did not have a clue my favourite " shows " were called anime and just regarded them as japanese cartoons. Approximately 2 years ago , we found a similiar interest with a friend of mine . He then recommended me SAO (Sword Art Online) which was the first anime I watched on the internet. I was so hooked back then that I needed around 2 weeks to get hold of myself and find another anime to watch.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

D Gray Man

That was the second anime I had come across on TV after Fullmetal Alchemist. I was hooked for the plot and really liked Allen's white hair (I still have motives to bleach my hair white). I was captured by their skills of defeating Akuma and was curious what everyone's weapon against them was like , mainly the plot. Just to mention I also had a crush on Lenalee wink wink*.

Sword Art Online

I still dream of one day the oculus rift being so further developed , that we can have a full dive into a whole new world. The characters , which seemed like my age , an escape from reality and the fighting and the battle to escape from the game , in which they were captured, appealed to me.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

Whenever I get bored I prefer to watch anime. In other words, it is like a little escape from reality which most of us enjoy. I spent most of my free time watching anime , therefore , I can actively attend group discussions and activities.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Anime, Doujins , K Pop (from time to time) and girls.

What do you expect from us?

The same friendly attitude I have towards the community. Have humour and of course be perverted

What do you think we expect from you?

Mostly being an active and high quality member with good attitude and respect towards the community.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? 4th grade reading Naruto. Bought Shonen Jump. Fell in love with Black Cat (very underrated IMHO)

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

TitleLog Horizon

I'm a gamer through and through and I felt like listing SAO but I liked Log Horizon's actual attention to the details about how games actually work

TitleAccel World

Accel World was extremely interesting, and I couldn't stop watching until I finished it. (bing watched the entire show in 1 day).

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? My devotion to Anime is ever growing.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?Not to great, the culture is not what I'm really in it for, I'm here for the beautiful stories told throughout wonderfully animated shows.

What do you expect from us? To be completely honest, I don't really have many expectations except suggestions for shows to watch and reviews on shows already watched.

What do you think we expect from you? Activity and some level of devotion to the culture behind anime and manga.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

Would have been since I was about 11 or so from watching dragonball z and then later watching naruto. So roughly 7 years. Not too sure though. It has been an on off relationship.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Uzumaki

I loved the art style and the plot was just so crazy and out there. I also liked how easy it was to read as each chapter was about 20-30 pages so you could just read a chapter when you're bored or waiting for something. Hands down my favourite manga.

Highschool DxD

Not going to lie, I went in for the tits. But I stayed for the cool fighting, plot, feels and also the tits are a bonus. It is very good. Lots of bad ass as fuck moments all throughout it.

Most of all, it is aware of how stupid it is. One of the anime that got me into ecchi anime in the first place so it always holds a place in my heart.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I think being in a group gives more of a sense of community which encourages posting. Back when I was in groups I almost exclusively posted in their sections. You would be able to see in my post activity but most the groups were sold/changed so posts were merged.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Just Manga and Anime mostly. I love the art style.

Their food is pretty good too.

Also asian girls are best girls.

What do you expect from us?

Chill place to talk about what you're watching/reading and gasbag with some mates.

What do you think we expect from you?

NKVD - July 6, 2015, 9:39 pm

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? About two years I'd say, I watch anime casually during the times of my life where there isn't much happening. I'd say I came across it at 5 years of age watching pokemon, however I acknowledged it after finding ecchi visual novel CG when I was 12 years old and realising the 2D world will be infinitely aesthetic compared to that of the real world. Didn't really start watching the odd anime here and there until I was about 18.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Yahari Ore no Seishun Love Comedy wa Machigatteiru. I specifically favour this anime as it has a main protagonist that is actually awesome and a hero in his own unique way. I can connect with Hikki as he is literally a smarter version of myself and the things he says in the anime are highly intelligent but should also be taken with a grain of salt. At first starting the anime I loathed the disgusting ugly protagonist but after a few episodes I came to love him as well as the people who may be considered his friends around him. He didn't choose the loner life, the loner life chose him and it doesn't make him feel any less of a human being which I admire.

Sono Hanabira ni Kuchizuke wo: Anata to Koibito Tsunagi This anime I absolutely fell in love with. Most hentai I have attempted to consume has usually been of either bad taste or quality or both. This was my first hentai I watched so I entered the genre with high expectations and was disappointed with the shows I watched after however it was only because this one single OVA was just so good. A vanilla hentai with beautiful taste with quite possibly the most adorable couple I have ever seen. It makes me so sad that these 2 haven't earned a complete anime series. One single episode isn't enough arrrgh >.<

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? Updates in the anime world. The anime world is big and I wouldn't consider myself on top of most of the media that Japan produces so the content that the group produces would be of high value to me. It's hard finding quality by yourself when you are in the dark. In terms of contributing to the group I log into HF every day almost, it would be nice to be a part of something and contribute to discussion even though I am fairly new to the anime world.

What are your interest in Japanese culture? I will admit I am definitely not a fan of Japanese cuisine however I am a huge fan of Japan's natural world. The Japanese garden where I live in southern Tasmania is one of the most beautiful places to relax. The trees feel so much more vibrate with colour than the boring Australian brown gumtree that is seen as far as the eye can see. My impressions from both the real world and from anime suggest Japanese culture values a hard working ethic but also to be humble and honourable too. As a gamer i have come across and clashed with many different cultures across the world. None have been so modest and honourable as the Japanese. Hopefully someday I will be able to get the opportunity to compete in the redbull 5G finals for Halo as I have gamed with some of Japan's best Halo players in the past.

What do you expect from us? I probably have already covered this but I probably would expect group discussions recommendations etc. An active sub forum wit HQ posts about HQ anime shows and articles of upcoming shows that I may find an interest to, I am sure this group could deliver this. I feel this is the only group on HF with a true purpose.

What do you think we expect from you? Contribution to the sub forum, opinionated discussion on shows I have consumed and just generally fanboy over characters I like in different shows. If the sub forum is HQ I will probably spend more time in that than AA however if there are decent threads on AA I will still participate.

I've been interested in Japanese culture for the past 2-3 years. A certain friend group of mine starting watching a lot of anime, i played a lot of unescape with them so naturally i became attracted to watching Death Note and Psychopath.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Naruto, simply because the story line and character growth is phenomenal in my opinion if you start from the beginning.

Death Note was my favorite anime/manga because it was so short and intense, just talking about it makes me want to watch it again...

Naruto

Death Note

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I have been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture for years, which is around 6/7 years, I have hobbies which helped me to found out manga, my hobbies were learning to program, games and read books and I came into light novels and I started to read a lot of light novels and bought some, and anime started to take my interest so I checked it out and I loved it, so I kept reading manga and watching anime, which made me wants to travel to japan for the cultures

Fractale

Spoiler (Click to View)

Plot: Fractale is about a world that is run by virtual reality. The world has been run this way for quite some time now. However, the virtual reality system, also known as 'Fractale' is beginning to collapse because the 'key' to the system can not be found. The anime then focuses on the main character, Clain, as he goes on an adventure with Nessa(the virtual reality doppleganger of the 'key' to the system of Fractale).

Favorite Parts: It's been awhile since I've seen Fractale and it wasn't anything exceptional per say and it was also short, however one of my favorite parts of the anime is when Clain, Phyrne, and Nessa spend the night at that little house before Phryne leaves them again in the morning. I particularly liked this scene because throughout the anime Phryne and Nessa really didn't get along because nessa was a doppleganger and reminded Phryne of her sister but this scene brung them together sort of like a family and I'm a softy for moments like this. Scenes like this where there actually may seem like there is a happy ending really gets to me.

Another of my favorite parts was the ending when the system was destroyed. It wasn't a sad ending or cliffhanger, but actually a really nice scene that tied the story up together as we knew nessa, phryne, and clain wasn't going to be able to be together in the end. This connects to the other favorite scene I had as it was the last time they were all together and happy.

Favorite Character: My favorite character would have to be Nessa because I liked her care-free spirit. She helps us understand to smile, even in the bad times.

Why I like this anime: I really enjoy anime that has a, unique plot to it. Unique and crazy stories are what anime is all about! Fractale took on a virtual reality perspective that I liked. It wasn't like Sword art online or log horizon. I liked this anime because rather than taking the normal virtual reality we are used to, it twisted the idea and adding a ton on to it. I mean virtual dopplegangers that you can live with? Whats more strange than that? The characters weren't anything too exceptional(don't really find that many exceptional characters in anime in my opinion). I just liked the way they changed the perspective on virtual reality and narrated the anime.

Sekirei

Spoiler (Click to View)

Plot: Sekirei is a rather unique anime indeed. It's a sexy/visual anime about girls who have special powers that can be activated by choosing a human master better known as an ashikabi(hope I spelled that right). These girls are all a part of a game called "The Sekirei Plan". The idea behind the game is that each sekirei fight to the death and whoever is left standing will be able to live eternally in peace with there ashikabi.

Favorite Parts: One of my favorite parts of this series, both season 1 & 2, is the ending scene of season 1 when Minato and his Sekirei try to help another sekirei and her ashikabi escape the city and the game. I like this scene in particular for its fight scene as well as the change in character of Minato's sekirei. They all used their powers together and worked as a team even though they are going to have to fight to the death later on and they typically have small skirmishes over Minato. They all just wanted to help and focused on one main goal, helping another sekirei and her ashikabi escape.

Favorite Character: Miya Asama would have to be my favorite character in this anime. I loved how she kept everyone in line and was very nice despite her history as a Sekirei and her intense power.

Why I like this anime: The anime has some really good fight scenes and every character is different. Not to mention the major plot twists this anime holds. The sexy violence and super natural powers that this show brings makes it a really good series to put on anyones list. I liked this one, again, for the unqiue story it had(hopefully I find a lot more unique story anime in the group). I like the idea that each sekirei had their own special ability and relied a lot on the protagonist of the story who was a guy. They all fell for him and he had them all under his control basically. The sexy essence of the anime was also favorable. Only thing about this anime is the second season ended in a terrible cliffhanger and I found it that they might not do a third season which makes me want to kill somebody.

Elfen Lied

Spoiler (Click to View)

Plot: Elfen Lied is about a mysterious new race called the diclonius whos main purpose is to kill off the human race and prosper their own race. However, the diclonius have mostly been captured and held captive in a special facility. The show starts off with who is later referred to as the "Queen" escaping the facility killing anyone who stands in her way. Diclonius have special hands that are basically projected soundwaves coming from their bodies which can cut through anything because they move so fast. Each diclonius is different, with a different set of "extra hands". The queen we later find out is named Lucy and actually grew up with the protagonist Kohta. However, Kohta experienced memory lost because even though him and Lucy were friends, Lucy felt betrayed and killed Kohta dad and sister in front of him. As a result, Kohta was in a coma and forgot what happened. The story goes on to fill in the blanks of Kohta's memory and is a really good series in my opinion. In addition to Kohta's memory lost though, Lucy developed a split personality which aided in the plot and Kotha's memory lost.

Favorite Parts: Um, this was rather a gloomy anime and as you can tell from the other favorite parts I have listed here, I'm favorable towards happy scenes haha. Nevertheless, one of my favorite parts of this anime was when we were shown Lucy's backstory and how she was being bullied. I have never seen anyone get bullied like this, especially to the point where they kill her dog. And at that age? It was crazy, but those kids got what they deserved. I liked this scene because it was the first time Lucy really realized how terrible some people can be and realized her full strength. It's a little morbid, but it was important to the plot and a favorite of mine.

Another favorite goes to when she actually met Kohta. It was a touching scene in which restored Lucy's faith in mankind and kind of kept her killing urge to a minimum. This was also important to the development of the plot.

Favorite Character: My favorite character would have to be Nana for her strong spirit and dislike of killing. Compared to the other diclonius, she is actually an angel who has no intention of killing off the human race. She has a very strong bond with her 'father'. She fights for what's right and that's favorable to me.

Why I like this anime: I haven't watched many gory anime(didn't really care too much about those genre of anime), however, I'm glad I chose to watch Elfen Lied, Another, and Future Diary. They were really well put together(although some people don't think elfen lied was that good). Because of these 3 shows I will be exploring this genre of anime in much greater depth. Elfen lied had some good friction to it I must say. I like the idea of the crazy protagonist/antagonist mix female character shown in Lucy(also shown in future diary in some sense). It adds to the thrill and suspense of the anime which I enjoyed from trying this genre of anime. Elfen Lied kind of failed in building a good enough bond with the characters and myself, however. I also didn't like Yuka's character. It just irritated and annoyed me the way she acted, especially since she was Kohta's cousin(Suguha in SAO did a much better job at the whole family-relationship thing even though they both were clueless for awhile, and no, I don't approve of this lol). Anyway, I just think that was a big flaw. I liked the idea that Kohta lost his memory as it helped develop the story and show us what happened as Kohta remembered. All in all the plot was put together rather well.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

You have no idea how active I will be in the Group. I will discuss every day and hopefully pick up tons of new anime that everyone likes and hates so that I can further build my anime list. I will thoroughly enjoy connecting with all the anime lovers of this forum and those who love anime as much as I do. Title Darker Than Black because it has a great dark atmosphere, my waifu and lots of bad ass characters.

Title Baccano! because it has a large cast of main characters with a unique theme for anime (you don't see early 90s new york mafia often in anime) that mixed with the immortality and homunculus make it really special.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? I've been here since 2008 and still post, is that proof enough? Sure I may go on plenty of hiatuses but I still always come back. AA is also by far my post posted in section (over half of my posts are on AA)

What are your interest in Japanese culture? Their anime and manga is my main interest but I really dig Japanese music. I'm not talking about j-rock and j-pop, I honestly don't like that stuff. But Japan has plenty of great bands that don't fall under that tacky J- category.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it? About 4 years now. I got invited to a skype group that watched anime together and I just never turned back.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Wolf's Rain : I felt like I related to the characters somewhat, feeling alone in the world and constantly searching for happiness. My favourite character was Toboe

Angel Beats (probably) Not really too much to write. The story was great and the ending made me cry. How about 7 deadly sins though, or NGNL? Had me on the edge of my seat the whole time.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on? Well I'm not getting bored of anime anytime soon, and I am on this forum every day.

What are your interests* in Japanese culture? Just anime, sushi and sake. I'm Australian, not Japanese and I've only been to Japan once, gimme a break.

What do you expect from us? To be a group of cool, easy-to-get-along-with people that I can discuss and ask questions about different anime.

What do you think we expect from you? Probably the same I expect from the group

Please link your MAL (MyAnimeList) profile MAL? Nah I'm kidding here

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

In ninth grade (so about 6 years ago) I decided to start talking to the "weird" girl who sat by herself all the time. She was really into anime so I watched a bit of her favorite (FMA) so I would have something to talk to her about.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

Panty and Stocking with Garterbelt - I love the sense of humor and the characters. I can't accurately describe why I love it so much, it just has a unique charm to it.

Mahou Shoujo Madoka Magica (Anime) - When my friend recommended this to me I thought he was joking. I thought "what the hell is this little girl shit", and then things started getting dark fast. I love how they could have very easily turned this into a happily-ever-after ending, but chose to take it down a much darker, bitter-sweet road.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

I've been consistently on this site for a while now, I have no intentions of changing that any time in the foreseeable future. I mostly take my interest in anime outside of HF because the Anime Adventures forum is so slow, but I would love to be able to change that.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

I find the culture as a whole to be interesting, but the bulk of my interest is directed towards anime/manga.

What do you expect from us?

I like the tight-knit feeling that groups have on this site. I expect a community and a place to talk about my hobby with others.

What do you think we expect from you?

An active, civilized community member who contributes beyond just posting every once in a while.

I made a Humming bird the other day. Keep in mind I mostly binge watch anime in one day, so I tend to forget what I watched a lot. This list isn't entirely representative of what I've watched.

~Thanks for reading.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

My love for anime started quite some time ago before I even really knew what it was. When I was younger I would rush home from school to catch Toonami to watch Gundam Wing, and DBZ. It wasn't until about 3 or 4 years ago that I started watching anime daily. A friend of mine kinda sat me down and forced me to watch an anime called Desert Punk and from there I just started rolling. As far as being into Japanese culture apart from my love for Anime, and the music I don't really get much into the culture itself.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them

This is hard why you do me dis way...

Anything from the Monogatari Series

This series is my all time favorite series. There are a few reasons why. First is the animation style itself. While to some it may seem a little strange I find it extremely unique. It has an excellent story in my opinion(with a hint of fan service.....ok a whole season of fan service). And lastly it is just a complete mindfuck of a series.

Log Horizon

I watched Sword Art Online and was like meh this is a decent series but it is more of a love story and doesn't really draw out that inner gamer in me. In comes Log Horizon. This game goes hard on the MMO seen and draws out the little fucking gaming nerd boy that I am. So hyped for season 3 it isn't even funny.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?

As long as I have people to talk to about what I am currently watching, or what I have watched in the past. And people to give me solid recommendations on what to watch next my activity will be there.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?

Honestly apart from music, and anime I really don't have much interest in it. I like to eat sushi on my lunch break from work and have a nice Ramune with it. Other than that ehh.

What do you expect from us?

Pretty much I expect to come into a welcoming group with like minded people and be able to talk to everyone about what I am watching, what I plan to watch, and what they think I should watch.

What do you think we expect from you?

Obviously if I was accepted you would expect activity out of me. And for me to contribute to discussions wherever they are being held.

Gonna go ahead and add this on to here. I am well aware that I do not meet the requirements for post in the anime section. I am recently coming back to the forum after a period of very spotty activity. So if me not having the recommended amount of post knocks me out that is cool. I will just be active in that section and reapply in the future.

How long you've been into Anime/Manga/Japanese culture in general and how did you come across it?

I've been into anime for about 3 years, starting off with One Piece. Only for the past half year or so have I been into Japanese culture itself, it just appealed to me naturally over time.

Name two of your favorite Anime/Manga/Visual Novel/Light Novel and why you like them
Monogatari Series - Very engaging story despite all of its exposition, does a great job keeping everything interesting with the visuals.
Psycho-Pass - Stunning visuals with a great sci-fi story/universe on top of everything.

What guarantees your activity in our group as time goes on?
I visit HF on a daily basis, and am usually available outside of the forums as well.

What are your interest in Japanese culture?
Lots of things, from their language, streets, culture and way of life. After visiting Japan about a month ago, I have to say that it never ceases to fascinate me.

What do you expect from us?
Nothing more than a community of otaku's.

What do you think we expect from you?
Nothing more than being an avid otaku.
