Hello everyone, I would like to make a warming first impression to the awesome forums! Welcome.

I've decided to work on a massive project that is near to completion.

I'm going to put a download link so you guys can download it and create an account. It's totally free of charge. However, please do not claim this as "yours." If we do catch you doing that we will permanently ban your account and IP address from using our program. (Yeah and if you're reviewing this we would like credit, thanks!)

May i ask what dllhost are doing? lol virus ;O

Thief. - January 15, 2015, 7:58 am

It's 100% not a Virus. I'm going to give you a picture of the processes: prntscr.com/5sskb0

I don't use any dllhost, and the program was made in VB.NET

What the hell are you talking about?!

If you're going to complain I use a free VPN. The answer is it's temporary. (I also do not recommend hidemyass)

Thief. - January 15, 2015, 8:14 am

I'm honestly not sure why you have that process. It could be because the program is accessing the web a lot.

It actually looks legit.. -> <https://i.imgur.com/an8WB6B.png>

Thief. - January 15, 2015, 8:47 am

Yeah. It is.

P.S. What program are you using to view all the forms/code?

They're using Sandboxie to check if it's safe.

Thief. - January 15, 2015, 9:22 am

Never used sandboxie before, I might give it a try.

The dll(l)host appeared after executing and signing into the program, did some random stuff.

Might check our servers and make the necessary files for every user...

Edit: tbh i'm not really sure. We just coded this program and everything works as it should, and apparently it uses the dllhost to do its work or something? idk tbh i didn't know it was in there
