I would blink my eyes and show up on a planet i will generate in my head, but because there is infinite possibilities of anything being anywhere, the planet i imagine would most likely be real, so, when i get to this planet i generate in my mind i will first breathe, then once i have confirmed that i can breathe i will be watching all the skids on HF being banned on a

700 ft x 500 ft Screen and laugh and laugh until all the skids are gone. Then i will find out if there are other life forms on the planet. But ya know... Just your casual Discoveries, nothing to important. After all i wouldnt want to have to actually do physical labor.
