

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Complete website responsive redesign

SamPhisher - January 26, 2015, 5:19 am

For a school assignment, I had to pick a crappy website and redo it from scratch using a mobile-first philosophy in the design of it. Being a professional procrastinator I waited until the last possible moment to do all the work on it and did the whole assignment in one afternoon and the following morning before school. I still had to do 4 smaller assignments, pick a website, redesign it and then construct it.

Anyways, here's the original website.

And here's what I made of it.

The websites are in Dutch, but just throw it through google translate if you really want to read it.

If you guys have any feedback I'd love to hear it :)

serubi - January 26, 2015, 8:36 am

You turned the beast into the beauty. Well done! You may want to make the thumbnails in the media section, 'thumbnail-size'. Scaling large images takes a while to load on crappy internet.

SamPhisher - February 1, 2015, 3:31 am

(Jan 26, 2015 09:36 AM)serubi Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You turned the beast into the beauty. Well done! You may want to make the thumbnails in the media section, 'thumbnail-size'. Scaling large images takes a while to load on crappy internet.

Thanks man ?

I've been trying to contact the owners to see if they're interested in my design but I haven't heard from them yet. If they want it I'll scale the images and make a basic CMS for adding images, videos, blog posts and editing pages 'n stuff. I'll be sure to share it again once, and if, that happens ?