Thread: Anime that has more potential?

KyHax - January 26, 2015, 10:46 am

I am wondering what anime's you think could have a lot more potential than it already has at the moment, in my opinion I think that Death Note could because it is a full on the story and no breaks from the people that die all the time, also I got ended up getting a bit confused in the last 5 episodes, my mind just got lost in the story and couldn't really work out what was happening. :P

This happens on almost every adaptation from Manga/LN/VN to anime OP.

This is the case with Death Note's adaptation to anime, when the manga can fulfill you, the anime won't in some cases.

Chad ThunderCock - January 26, 2015, 11:03 am

Every single anime that didn't get more seasons have potential.

S&W , Sakurasou (although idk if I'd like it based on LNs)

Chitoge - January 26, 2015, 1:14 pm

I felt like there was plenty of potential that RE:Hamatora could've had.

Definitely a let down.

Only because of the ending which made no sense at all.

Lyrlei - January 26, 2015, 3:27 pm

If sword art online had a longer and more solid storyline it would have lasted longer gathering a larger fanbase instead of dweebs who fawn over kiritoxasuna til this day. ; -;

Leminiscent - January 26, 2015, 5:44 pm

Any anime that is a mediocre or unfulfilling adaption of its source material can have more potential.

Claymore

Deadman Wonderland

Rosario + Vampire (big time fuck-up)

Sakurasou no Pet na Kanojo

etc.

Peanut Butter - January 26, 2015, 6:12 pm

The only ones I can think of right now are

SAO I & II \(Click to View\) do i really need to repeat what's been said 1000 times

Btooom! (Click to View) Could've had more episodes to actually finish the story, of course it would have to be anime original as a result.
HotD (Click to View) Too much ecchi, gets in the way.
Log Horizon (Click to View) Pacing too slow
Tokyo Ghoul (Click to View) More than 12 episodes instead of another season would've been nicer.
Things went by too quick in season one
No Game No Life (Click to View) Unlikely season two, so horrible spot to leave off on.
Ao no Exorcist (Click to View) Did not like the ending, wouldn't have wanted more manga adaption but rather a different anime ending that actually made it feel complete.

Chips Ahoy McCoy - January 26, 2015, 6:16 pm

Sakurasou, Sakurasou, and Sakurasou. and maybe D.Gray-man.

iMew - January 26, 2015, 7:02 pm

SAO (hurr), Elfen Lied, Clannad AS, Golden Time, Noucome and White Album 2. Even though some of these were already pretty good, I feel like they could've been a lot better with some tweaking done.

Kiyoshi - January 26, 2015, 8:52 pm

There is way too much anime that got/had potential :p
Too bad alot of them won't even get a 2nd chance, or 2nd season.
Also alot of rushed anime that got fkd.

RIP dreams. :(

Duyere - January 27, 2015, 12:22 am

I think Hunter x Hunter (2011) has potential if it starts airing again. It's underrated but has potential.

CaligulaEffect - January 27, 2015, 6:44 am

Hunter x Hunter has no potential. I couldnt get into it at all (well except the old series)
But for potential i think elfen lied and no game no life (I WANT IT) should be there.

Meizikyn - January 27, 2015, 7:42 am

Brynhildr in the Darkness. The story just kinda said "eh, fuck it, lets take the long way around but only document the first five minutes".

Sasaki Haise - January 27, 2015, 6:04 pm

Katekyo Hitman Reborn <--- The good parts were in the manga....so sad there is no way of it ever getting a S2.

Soul Eater <--- Haven't dwelled into the manga yet, but looked hectic and insane.
Toradora <--- UHHH needs one?? Guess Golden Time was good at filling things TD missed out, vice versa.
Strike The Blood <--- Just finished recently, pretty dam good, ending was cliff hangy.
Devil Work's as a part timer <--- Most awesome twist of mix of everything, would watch again 11/10
Black Bullet <--- Lol I'll give it a chance
Bokuwatomodachi <--- Season 2 ending, like real?
No Game No Life <--- What a whack way to end off the first season, so much potential.

Just a few, deffffff if they had more financial support, things would turn out better!

Buffy Summers - January 27, 2015, 6:11 pm

The first episode of Akame ga Kill was amazing but steadily went downhill afterwards. If the series was as great as the first episode it would've been the best show to come out in a long time.

Minato Namikaze - January 27, 2015, 7:06 pm

Blue Exorcist , one of my fav short animes and needs a second season lol

Oh my god yes , No Game No Life could have been so long and hyped its not even funny lol

Shit yes Elfen Lied, how I wish they did a proper remake of the manga with the proper ending

Mikemaz9 - January 28, 2015, 8:22 am

Deadman wonderland would have been fantastic if they PUT ALL THE CHARACTERS IN LIKE THEY SHOULD HAVE

The ending though, it had so much left you could do with it they could make a few more seasons with it all

Clicked this thread to say that myself. SAO blew me away with its premise and execution(at first), and had me hooked with the "One month later; no one has cleared the first floor(of 100)" at the end of episode one. And a couple episodes later they're on like floor 47.

To be fair the manga probably didn't do this, but mangas bore me, so I guess I don't have much right to complain.

I'd say Naruto just because of how many filler episodes there are.

Someone here gets it.

Uh..

Mirai Nikki.

Yagami Li - January 29, 2015, 12:30 am

Zankyou no Terror

Like Death note the MC were extremely smart.

Unfortunately it was only scheduled to run 11 episodes, and the ending was somewhat bitter.

Could've been continued as the MC and accomplice were still quite young and brimming with "potential".

Amateurity - January 29, 2015, 5:21 am

Sora No Otoshimono...

The manga explained the ending alright... The anime, left people (including me who didn't read the Manga until after the horrific random ending) confused and straight up baffled... Like WTF was going on... It still has PLENTY of room for a third season, they even released statements about it in the Japanese Version of the Anime...

Another AMAZING anime cut short was Elfen Lied, FLCL, Serial Experiments: Lain, and oh so many more that were cut short.

Yep i got pretty sad when when they skipped alot on episode 3, It was a pretty huge let down for me.

And they still do it on the manga. :(

I didnt like that either, but I still loved SAO. It's been my fav anime for 2 years now. xD :P

Geralt of Rivia - January 30, 2015, 8:16 am

Mondaiji, it's really good. Sadly it has no second season :(

Labeler - January 30, 2015, 1:07 pm

Definitely Akame ga Kill, that could have been amazing.

QuickMan - January 31, 2015, 4:05 pm

Theres a lot of animes in the category that you explained. One of them to me that couldve have done better was probably the irregulars at magic high school (i think i said the name right). It started of really good but ended up being horrible, it felt too rushed.

Tohka Yatogami - January 31, 2015, 4:11 pm

Date A Live, Akame Ga Kill, Blue Drop, Is This A Zombie?, and SAO all have more potential then what they display. If the story was written out more thoroughly and if the character development was more thorough, then it would've made them a lot better than what they currently are.

I agree with you on Akame Ga Kill and SAO. I did think SAO was pretty good in my opinion but the second season most of the characters were forgotten about. For example, for the last 5 episodes Kirito doesn't even get involved in all of them for a total of 15 minutes. I haven't saw the others so I don't really have a good thing on them.

S&W , Sakurasou (although idk if I'd like it based on LNs)Agreed about sakurasou, read a blog about it not too long ago. NO LIGHT NOVEL ADAPTION if it gets a season 2
