Thread: Reminder: You cannot sell Minecraft Accounts

Shockley - January 26, 2015, 10:54 am

According to D3xus in this post, the rules of the Gaming > Minecraft section are GLOBAL rules throughout the whole forum apparently.

Quote:This rule applies globally, not just to the Minecraft subforum.

So can staff just pick and choose which rules apply globally and which don't? So does Rule #1 not apply globally too? What about Rule #3?

In fact, the other day, I just saw someone doing a giveaway of a Minecraft account the other day, since that rules applies globally too shouldn't he be banned?

Here's the thread for you staff:

So yeah, basically we were all wrong. The rules in the GAMING > MINECRAFT section apply globally to the whole forum.

Rules for reference:

Spoiler (Click to View)1. No selling, buying, or trading of MC accounts.

2. No discussions on cracking or stealing MC accounts.

3. No giveaways or requests for free MC accounts.

4. No selling, trading, buying, offering, requesting any MC codes for new accounts.

Please do not sell your MC accounts in the NonFree accounts section, because, you know, the rules apply throughout the whole forum. Thank you. ?

Glad you finally see that, thanks for this informative thread. Word of caution though, you probably shouldn't have made this thread as the aforementioned member may still be browsing this forum.

I said it was against the rules, and it was. I just gonna give you some life lesson advice

Just admit when you're wrong, and have the maturity to act decent.

He highlighted this rule:

2. No discussions on cracking or stealing MC accounts.
